Dedication

This work - the comprehensive and individual indices of the Federal and Provincial collections of Minutes of Decision, Correspondence and Sketches - is dedicated to:

Wanda Walk,
Negotiation Analyst, Specific Claims Branch, Vancouver,

Dr. John Hall,
Research Manager (to October 2004)
Specific Claims Branch Vancouver

&

Jacques Siegrist,
Senior Claims Analyst and currently Acting Research Manager
Specific Claims Branch, Vancouver

Although many others were involved in this project, it was the initiative and support of these three individuals which made its commencement and completion possible.

All of us who have the opportunity to use these indices thank you.

Formal Citation for the Provincial Collection

A formal citation for this collection needs to include all the relevant information for each individual volume. The title for each binder is found on the individual indices for the binder. The first formal should include the following:

Title of Collection:

Title of the binder;

Date range;

Binder number;

Original Box Number;

Relevant Correspondence Number;

Location of copy

For example: B.C. Provincial Collection, Minutes of Decision, Correspondence and Sketches, Binder 6; Minutes of Decision & Sketches, Peter O'Reilly, May 1881 to March 1882, Binder 6 (Box 3), Corr. No. 458/81. [Copy held by the Specific Claims Branch, Department of Indian Affairs, Vancouver]

It is important that the term Provincial Collection is included in the citation to distinguish it from the Federal Collection.

SORTED BY BAND/TRIBE

- This index is sorted alphabetically and chronologically by the Band/Tribe name.
- The Band name is as it is found in the collection. Cross-reference to current names (Mar. 2005) can be found in the footnotes and/or in the NRCan Schedule (2005).
- In some instances where the correspondence only identified a "tribe", which now consists of separate bands, a band name has been specified (e.g. Saanich, the individual groups, Tsartlip, Tsawaout, Malahat, etc. have been identified). The exception to this is the Laichquiltach. In this case, the allotments for We-way-a-kay, We-way-a-kum, Kwi-ah-kah, and Kahkhamatsis have been sorted by the "Tribe". Also, the reserves for the Gilford Island Indians were allotted without distinguishing the bands/sub-groups within the Gilford Island tribe. In the majority of cases, however, Band or sub-group names are identified.
- The Reserve name is the current name unless the reserve was not confirmed or has significantly altered since it was allotted (eg. Port Simpson 1 and Lax kw'alaams 1). In these cases the reserve is identified as it is in the correspondence, or to a geographic area.
- Sproat and O'Reilly visited some of the same groups, but, may have identified them slightly differently. Every effort has been made to ensure that the "Band/Tribe" is properly correlated, but, there may be distinctions between the allotments.

Please see the Additional Subjects section for indices on subject areas identified in the provincial collection

Errors & Omissions Although every attempt has been made to ensure the thoroughness and correctness of this index, undoubtedly some errors have slipped in and some point may have inadvertently been omitted. My apologies for these, hopefully, minor problems..

Minutes of Decision, Correspondence & Sketches

[BC OBI]

Terms Used in the Index

M.O.D. is an abbreviation for Minute of Decision

A.M.O.D. is an abbreviation for Amended Minute of Decision

Field Minute refers to Sproat's, O'Reilly's or Vowell's report of his work in the field. Field minutes are dated after/later than the Minutes of decision and often contain additional information regarding the reserve allotment. In the index the Field Minute will, by and large, follow the listing for the M.O.D. and Sketch.

Reserve names are current spellings and current numbers, unless the reserve no longer exists or was not confirmed as a reserve, in which case it is identified as it is in the collection.

Band/Tribe names are, by and large, as they are found within the books; some archaic spellings may be modernized and, in some cases, hyphens have been removed. Correlations to current band names or spellings is provided in the footnotes.

[ ] have been used to identify page numbers in correspondence. A Band name within the brackets indicates the Band which currently holds the reserve. This format has been specifically used for the Laichquiltach.

m/copy indicates that the document is a microfilm copy. Generally, the provenance of microfilm copies is unknown.

w/encl indicates the letter contained an enclosure

PILQ refers to the Papers on the Indian Land Question, also known as the "Yellow Book"

NRCan Schedule (2005) refers to a schedule prepared by the Legal Surveys Division, Natural Resources Canada as revised to Feb. 2005.

1943 Schedule refers to the 1943 Schedule of Indian Reserves in British Columbia prepared by the Department of Indian Affairs. This schedule is particularly valuable because of its notations.

<sup>4</sup> The date of April 8, 1889 has been handwritten in on this page. It is not known who affixed this date. There is a cross-reference to Corr. No. "455/xx" This correspondence number could not be located in the provincial collection.

<sup>5</sup> It is unclear if this document is complete. There is no covering letter and no reference to an Indian reserve. The document is a Land Act declaration regarding the Sale of Unsurveyed Land. No direct connection is made to any Indian reserve. Also, this copy is a microfilm copy.

<sup>9</sup> Sproat forwards a letter from settler F. Walker, who offers his land (320 acres) for sale for $400. Sproat advises the CCLW that the Superintendent General of Indian Affairs has replied that "the Province was primarily bound to provide lands for the Indians."

<sup>10</sup> The letter is noted to be a "Copy of Copy". It is addressed to the Superintendent General of Indian Affairs, Ottawa. In it, Walker offers his land for sale (320 acres) for $400, "provided the offer is accepted within 3 months." Sproat forwards the letter to the CCLW in June 1878.

<sup>20</sup> Ultimately, the Minutes of decision for these Indians are amended by O'Reilly, but, he retained the original date of the allotment on the amendments. The amended Minutes of decision do not appear to be included in the provincial collection. The Minutes of decision and sketches for this group are photocopies. The provenance of the photocopies is unknown. The photocopies of the sketches, have been cut-up. Photos appear to have been added at a later date. Comparison of the photocopies and the photos indicate that they are not the same. The provenance of the photos is unknown. The scale of both the photocopies and the photos cannot be relied upon. [See Federal Collection, vl. 8, pp. 133-39; 213-217]

<sup>26</sup> Vowell refers to a letter dated September 20, 1904 (not in collection). This version of Vowell's covering letter and Minutes of decision have been taken from a microfilm copy. It is poor quality and difficult to read. In addition to the black and white microfilm copy of the sketch, there is a photograph of the sketch as well. The provenance of the microfilm and the photo is not known. The pagination from the microfilm copy has been used. [See Federal Collection, vl. 15, pp. 291-93]

<sup>27</sup> Also known as Norman Lee's Meadow. There is somewhat of a discrepancy with the acreage for this reserve. Vowell, who allotted the reserve, states that it is 680 acres; the 1943 Schedule indicates that it is 780 acres. The original survey was not until 1910, six years after Vowell's allotment. [See NRCan Schedule (2005), p. 40]

<sup>28</sup> With respect to the discrepancy in the area of the reserve, Vowell states that surveyor Ashdown Green "points out that the spirit of the Minute as far as possible has been fully carried out. // Owing to the configuration of the country, and the rule that all lines are to be run to the cardinal points of the compass, a large quantity of worthless land, nearly 200 acres, has of necessity been included in the reserve. ..."

<sup>30</sup> The Surveyor General notes that "in the past many surveys have been approved with an excess area from that asked in the Minutes." There are two copies of this memo, one with a letterhead (p. 7), one without (p. 6).

Photos are also included. A comparison of the photocopy and the photo indicates that they are not the same. The provenance of the photos is not known. The scale for both the photocopies and the photos cannot be relied upon. Each photocopy sketch is signed as approved by Geo. A. Walkem, Chief Commissioner of Lands and Works on May 8, 1882. [See Binder 12, Corr. Nos. 3111/94, 3577/95; Federal Collection, vl. 8, pp. 143-166; NRCan Schedule (2005) p. 81]

<sup>32</sup> The petition appears to be undated, aside from the date of receipt at the Executive Council. The petition complains about Indians generally with respect to ownership of land and the Alkali Lake Indians in particular with respect to their treatment of Mr. Wright. The allegation is that the Alkali Lake Indians, including the chief, drove Wright from his pre-emption.

<sup>33</sup> The Alkali Lake Indians are currently known as Esketemc. There is a series of six letters dealing with a dispute between a settler, W.H. Wright, and the Alkali Lake Indians. Interestingly, rather than being directed to the CCLW, the correspondence is directed to the Provincial Secretary. The correspondence numbers are, therefore, slightly out of sequence. It is unclear how correspondence to the Provincial Secretary's office came to be included in the provincial collection. W.H. Wright appears to be a settler residing at Dog Creek. He has sent a petition to Messrs. Stoddard and Smith requesting that it be put before the "House of Representatives." This correspondence is clearly numbered, however, the numbering is out of sequence with other correspondence. It is noted to have been received by the Clerk of the Executive Council. It is possible that the correspondence number pertains to Executive Council correspondence. [See NRCan Schedule (2005), p. 81]

<sup>34</sup> Vowell indicates he has received a letter from the Deputy Provincial Secretary May 19, 1894, providing a copy of the petition from W.H. Wright. This letter is not contained in the provincial collection. Vowell advises that he has instructed the Indian Agent to tell the Indians of his agency they are not to "take the law in their own hands ... as should they do so, they must expect to be severely punished." Vowell goes on to suggest that provincial authorities take the matter in hand "and have the guilty punished, by so doing a salutary example would be made of the offenders which beyond doubt would prove beneficial in inculcating generally amongst the Indians a wholesome fear of the law."

<sup>36</sup> There is no inside date on this letter. The date is taken from the Provincial Secretary's date received stamp. Soues, the provincial government agent, refers to a letter from the Provincial Secretary dated May 19, 1894 (not in the provincial collection). Soues requests that the issue of the Alkali Lake Indians "have Executive attention as soon as possible." Soues reports that he has ascertained that day that when the Indians in the area find a meadow suitable for cutting hay "they should have it for their own use in the same manner as Whites." In Soues' opinion, such a situation "can only lead to endless trouble, possibly bloodshed." He recommends that Vowell come to the area. He states that there are "a number of evil spirits" amongst the Alkali Lake Indians and that the Chief is unable to control them. Soues believes that Vowell could resolve the situation with the Indians.

<sup>37</sup> Vowell advises the Provincial Secretary that he has met with the Alkali Lake Indians with the Indian Agent present and has explained to them that they are not to interfere with the lawful rights of settlers. Vowell states that if they should attempt to "violate the law, they are of course amenable to punishment. [sic]" N.B. There are two copies of the first page of the letter: one with the additional note showing and one without.

<sup>38</sup> There is no date on the letter. The date is taken from the Provincial Secretary's date stamp. There is a draft letter included with this correspondence. The addressee is unknown, it is undated, but it is signed by Soues. The content of the draft is opposite to that contained in the letter. In the letter, Soues states that Vowell has said the Indians "have no title" to the Wright pre-emption, but the draft states that the pre-emption should be cancelled as Wright had made a declaration that the land was not used or occupied by the Indians when, in fact, the Indians cut hay on the meadow. The draft concludes by stating that the Indian Reserve Commissioner has made a request for the meadow.

<sup>39</sup> O'Reilly refers to a letter from the CCLW dated August 22, 1894, a letter from the Attorney General dated February 3, 1894 (neither of which is found in the provincial collection) and a letter from himself to the Attorney General dated February 7, 1894 (a copy of which he encloses). The correspondence deals with O'Reilly's allotments in 1881. [See Binder 6, Corr No. 109/82, pp. 8-16]

<sup>42</sup> The Alkali Lake Indians are currently known as Esketeme. The Minutes of decision are clearly dated incorrectly. "September 31, 1895" in an incorrect date. Beyond the fact that there are only 30 days in September, such a date would be subsequent to both the covering letter and the approval by the CCLW. The date of August 30, 1895, which is shown in the federal collection is used in the index. O'Reilly's field minute found in the federal collection provides additional detail regarding his meeting with these Indians. [See Corr. No. 1409/98, 1524/98, this binder; Binder 6, Corr. No. 109/82, pp. 8-16; Federal Collection, vl. 14, pp. 117-125; NRCan Schedule (2005), p. 81]

<sup>50</sup> These Indians are currently known as Tl'etinqox-T'in Government. O'Reilly encloses for approval Minutes of decision and sketches for the Anaham Indians. He provides a bit of additional information with respect to the Indians and the allotments. The notation on the side of the page states: "Approved October 11 1887. F.G. Vernon CCLW." There are no page numbers in the original. Pagination is provided for reference. [See Binder 9, Corr. No. 146/88; Federal Collection, vl. 11, pp. 167-174; NRCan Schedule (2005), pp. 71, 81]

<sup>51</sup> Laing Meason's letter is very informative as to the Anaham Indians' interaction with O'Reilly when he was allotting reserves in the area. It is also interesting that Laing Meason took up certain issues with the Premier of B.C., A.E.B. Davie, when Davie was in the area and, subsequently, relied upon Davie's word with respect to lands the Indians might have. [See

<sup>56</sup> Vowell makes reference to a letter dated May 20, 1902 (not in collection). He notes that the group consists of "six families who have hitherto lived independently of each other at Revelstoke, Trail, Lower Kootenay and the Arrow Lake." [See Federal Collection, vl. 15, pp. 6-8, 9-13; 1943 Schedule, p. 33; NRCan Schedule (2005), pp. 40, 81]

<sup>60</sup> Following the M.O.D. for McLean's 3, O'Reilly allots the "exclusive right of fishing" to two areas. Neither of these was confirmed. Based upon a comparison with the federal collection, it appears that he also identified a salmon fishery. This is not included in this set of Minutes of decision. It also does not appear to have been confirmed as a reserve. [See Federal Collection, vl. 19, p. 39]

<sup>61</sup> There is no covering letter for this set of Minutes of decision. It appears that this set of Minutes of decision were also included with the covering letter at correspondence number 1351/77. That covering letter indicates that the Minutes of decision enclosed includes the Victoria Superintendency and Sooke. There are no dates next to the individual Minutes of decision in this section. All are given the date June 11, 1877, which appears at the end of the Minutes. Interestingly, at the end of the Minutes of decision collection there is a notation which states: "The negotiations [sic] with the Esquimalt and Songhish Indians are at present incomplete." The sketch depicts only a few Beecher Bay reserves. [See Corr. No. 1355/77, this binder; Federal Collection, vl. 3, pp. 124-132; also Third Copy #2, ILR No. 13329]

<sup>68</sup> The JIRC allots "the Rocky Islets in Becher Bay." This vague description would appear to encompass reserve nos. 4 through 9, which are islets, or small islands, in Beecher Bay, but not all the islets or islands in Beecher Bay. Wolf Island 4 was cut-off by the McKenna-McBride Commission in 1915. The cut-off claim was settled in October 1984. [See 1943 Schedule, p. 16; NRCan Schedule (2005), p. 40; CLSRBC 236]

<sup>81</sup> Sproat orients this reserve to the unsurveyed pre-emption of a settler named Jamieson. At the end of the M.O.D., Sproat notes that there is a graveyard located on the right bank of the Fraser called "Allats." He does not appear to set it aside and it appears not to have been confirmed as a reserve.

<sup>82</sup> Sproat confirms the "old reserve" subject to the rights of the settlers Boothroyd and Jarnicson, "after the claims of the above gentlemen are defined - the extension not to exceed about 100 acres" unless the Indian houses and gardens prove to be on government land and not the settlers, in which case the reserve is to be extended across the wagon road. There is a note at the end of the allotment which states "(See Comm' Field Minute 8 June 1878)". The field minute can be found in the federal collection. [See Federal Collection, vl. 4/3]

<sup>100</sup> The Canoe Creek Indians amalgamated with the Dog Creek Indians and are now known as Canoe Creek. All the sketches are "approved" by George A. Walkem, Chief Commissioner of Lands & Works and dated May 8, 1882. O'Reilly visits this area again in 1895. [See Binder 12, Corr. No. 3577/95; Federal Collection, vl. 8, pp. 85-104; NRCan Schedule (2005), p. 84]

<sup>101</sup> In writing to the Chief Commissioner of Lands and Works, O'Reilly provides only a two paragraph letter in submitting the Minutes of decision for the four groups. He states that the lands "so set apart are mostly rough mountain ranges, only valuable as runs for cattle, and horses, the small proportion of good land in this district having been already appropriated by white settlers." In the federal collection, O'Reilly provided the Superintendent General with field minutes describing his meetings and allotments for each group. There are no page numbers provided for the M.O.D.s and sketches. Pagination has been assigned for reference. [See Federal Collection, vl. 8, pp. 1-9, 85-104, 115-132; vl. 9, pp. 292-303]

<sup>102</sup> Meason states that he has included a letter to Mr. Cawston of the B.C. Cattle Co., but the letter is not included in the provincial collection.

<sup>105</sup> Vowell encloses a letter from Wm. Laing Meason, Indian Agent, Williams Lake, applying for 50 inches of water for irrigation for the Canoe Creek Indians. Vowell requests that the CCLW instruct the provincial agent in the area to approve the application. There is a notation, which was originally on the back of the letter, which states: "Ack state there can be no objection against granting the required record [??] to granting rights. Instruct Mr. Soues accordingly."

<sup>108</sup> This reserve was ultimately cancelled and replaced with Spilmouse 4. In the federal collection there is an additional notation with respect to the disposition of this reserve. [See Binder 12, Corr. No. 3577/95; Federal Collection, vl. 8, p. 103; end of vl. 11, for extracts of file 20802]

<sup>121</sup> McKinlay and Sproat suggest that the pre-emption of a Robert Hughes is not valid. There is no day on the date of the letter, however, later correspondence indicates that the date is April 20. [See Binder 4, Corr. No. 325/80]

<sup>122</sup> Reference is made to a letter to the Premier of B.C. dated April 20, 1877. This letter does not appear to be in the provincial collection, however, a letter of the same date, on the same subject, written to the Attorney General, A.C. Elliott is found. The notation in the corner states: "Ansd, 26/4/80, Vide over" The latter remark means "see over" referring to a note on the back of the letter which indicates that Hughes took the land "on good faith" with permission from the "Governor of V.I. dated 7 Oct 1865 and has occupied and improved the land ever since, he should not be disturbed but rather protected in his possessory title." The response referred to is not contained in the provincial collection. [See Binder 2, Corres. Nos. 1833/78, 175/77]

<sup>124</sup> This reserve was also known as Oyster Harbour 12. McKinlay and Sproat state that the wish to "submit ... for favourable consideration" the case of a squatter named Charles McMillan. It appears that the Commission included part of McMillan's land in their allotment at Oyster Harbour. The "case" had already been submitted to the Indian Superintendent, Col. I.W. Powell and to B.A. Meredith, Deputy Minister of the Interior. Meredith stated that the case should be submitted to the "Local Government" for consideration as it is the Local Government "who are primarily bound to provide such lands as may be necessary for Indian Reserves." Based upon the enclosure, the "case" being made is that McMillan should be compensated for his improvements on the lands which were taken to establish the reserve. N.B.: This correspondence is the last piece in the collection for the JIRC. The Provincial Collection contains no correspondence related to the disbanding of the Commission and the appointment of Sproat as sole Indian Reserve Commissioner. [See NRCan Schedule (2005), p. 43]

<sup>127</sup> It is unclear if this letter is incomplete or not. It is unsigned. Reference is made to the Commission's letter of Feb. 8, 1878. It is presumed that this is the same letter found in the collection, which dealt with lands at Oyster Harbour. The Commission advises that survey of the boundaries of the reserves allotted by the JIRC would commence "in the early part of the year".

<sup>128</sup> Laing-Meason identifies the Canoe Creek, Dog Creek, Alkali Lake, Williams Lake and "Chilcotin (2 or 3 Tribes)." He states that the Canoe Creek, Dog Creek and Alkali Lake Indians all have some land, but that it is inadequate. There is no reserve at Williams Lake and the "Chilcotin Tribes wish to have their Reserves marked out for them wh[?] has never been done." Meason requests that Sproat send assurances he will visit in the coming season.

<sup>130</sup> Moffatt encloses a letter from Williams Lake Agency Indian Agent Wm. Laing Meason. Reference is made in both letters to instructions from the CCLW "relative to not recording lands in Chilcotin, claimed by Indians, until the allotment of Reserves by the Indian Reserve Commissioner." Meason also notes that the instructions forwarded to Mr. Soues, "Recorder of Lillooet District - are, and have been, of no use." Reference is made to a letter from the CCLW dated May 11, 1886, which was forwarded to Powell on May 12, 1886. Neither letter could be located in the provincial collection.

<sup>132</sup> Sproat writes about the construction of roads through reserves in the Chilliwack area. Sproat wishes to meet with the CCLW to put forward his proposals. He notes that roads "appear to have been made through reserves here since Confederation both by the Government and by private persons without any communication with the Indian Department."

<sup>135</sup> O'Reilly's Minutes of decision identify the "Clayoquot Indians" generally. The Minutes of decision do not discern the reserve allotments for the four sub-groups within the Clayoquot. The four sub-groups are: Clayoquot [currently spelled Tlaquoiaht], Ahousat (a.k.a. Ahousaht); Kelsemaht (a.k.a. Keslemart) and Manhouset. In the federal collection, O'Reilly discusses the four groups within the field minute. In the provincial collection, the first indication of the distinction of the allotments to the sub-groups occurs with the sketches, where each group is separately identified. [See Federal Collection, vl. 12, pp. 304-314]

<sup>139</sup> O'Reilly submits the Minutes of decision for seven West Coast groups. Within some of these groups are subgroups. In the Federal Collection, the Minutes of decision for each group were submitted separately with a Field Minute outlining O'Reilly's meeting with the Indians. This was O'Reilly's second trip to the West Coast of Vancouver Island. [See Federal Collection, vl. 12, pp. 175-181, 194-206, 207-232, 234-256, 258-283, 290-297, 303-346]

<sup>140</sup> Sproat refers to his letter dated July 28 regarding the "alleged water record of Mr. P. Park." Sproat advises the CCLW that since writing that letter, two days earlier, he has "had several visits from Indian Chiefs who live above Clinton" who requested that he visit their area as they were anxious about white settlers taking up the land. [See Corresp. No. 1798/78]

<sup>143</sup> There appears to be a small error in wording in the Minute of decision. It concludes by reading: "thence west to the western boundary of Mr. Harper's surveyed land ...", but, it perhaps should have read: thence west to the eastern boundary of Mr. Harper's surveyed land. The sketch indicates that it is the eastern boundary. This reserve was sold in 1972. [See Federal Collection, vl. 16/2, pp. 16-17; NRCan Schedule (2005), pp. 75, 83]

<sup>149</sup> In their Minute of decision, the JIRC note that the "Original Reserve Section IV confirmed." Usually the terminology "old reserve" denotes a colonial allotment. It is unclear when land was originally set aside for the Comox Indians prior to 1871 or, instead, in the early 1870s, after B.C. joined Confederation, but before the JIRC was established. In his letter of July 1912, McKenna does not refer to a colonial allotment at Comox. [See PILQ, pp. 116-17; McKenna letter, July 1912, esp. Ex. A.; Cole Harris, Making Native Space, pp. 111-12]

<sup>150</sup> Corr. No. 1351/77 is the covering letter which encloses the Minutes of decision for the JIRC for Indian groups in the "Victoria Superintendency - Howe Sound to Sooke", Corr. No. 1352/77. Within this set of Minutes of decision each allotment is separately dated. The entire collection of Minutes of decision is signed and dated on the last page as April 26, 1877. All the sketches enclosed with the Minutes are also signed by the Commissioners and by Edward Mohun, Surveyor to the JIRC. All the sketches are also dated April 26, 1877 in Mohun's handwriting. While the Minutes of decision can be found in the federal collection, the sketches appear to have been separated from the original submission as they are not contained in the federal collection. [See Federal Collection, vl. 3, pp. 56-119]

<sup>153</sup> There is a note at the end of this set of Minutes of decision which states: "The position of Pokheitsk Creek is not shewn [sic] on our plans - I cannot say whether the land proposed to be reserved is in the Railway Belt - I do not think that the lands set apart interfere with any of our preemption [sic] or purchase claims."

<sup>154</sup> O'Reilly identifies the Indians as the "Pokheitsk Indians (a branch of the Cook's Ferry tribe)." He also notes that the land upon which the reserves are allotted may fall within the Railway Belt, however, he notes that the extent of the Railway Belt "has not been defined." Nevertheless, he requests that the area be kept from either pre-emption or purchase. Interestingly, there are more allotments in the federal collection version than in the provincial collection. All of the reserves allotted by O'Reilly are held by the Cook's Ferry Indians. [See Federal Collection, vl. 13, pp. 671-697; NRCan Schedule (2005), pp. 43-44]

<sup>156</sup> Sproat set aside two separate parcels of land. Based upon a marginal notation in the Federal Collection, it would appear that it may have been the surveyor who identified the two parcels as reserve numbers 5 and 5A. [See Federal Collection, vl. 6, pp. 98-99]

<sup>163</sup> Sproat describes two small detached pieces of land of about 5 acres each "between Shawniken and the falls". In the federal collection there is an additional notation written by Sproat which states the one of these pieces of land "has been carried away by a slide" since the time of his "decision". Neither of these pieces of land appear to have been confirmed as a reserve and they do not fall within the current boundaries of Shawniken 3.

<sup>169</sup> Sproat encloses three pieces of correspondence related to the "Mr. Marriner's case". He also makes reference to a letter from the CCLS dated March 25, 1878 which is not included in the collection.

<sup>170</sup> Vowell refers to a letter from Gore dated September 20 and a report from a Mr. H. Fry, P.L.S.; neither of which is in the provincial collection. There is a notation which states: "See 4017/93." This is the last document in binder 11. Based upon that correspondence, this letter appears to refer to work done at Cowichan.

<sup>171</sup> It is unclear which reserves are being discussed, except that they would appear to be for the Cowichan Indians. Vowell deals with how the boundaries of the reserve will be identified. He makes reference to a letter from W.S. Gore dated September 20, 1893, which appears to have contained a proposal for resolving the boundary issue. This letter is not in the provincial collection. A notation on the letter states: "See 3173/93." This correspondence can be found earlier in this binder. [See Binder 1, Corr. No. 1352/77, esp. pp. 26-27; Binder 12, Corr. No. 3006/94; Federal Collection, vl. 3, p. 112, notation.]

<sup>179</sup> Powell refers to a conference between himself, Vernon, the CCLW and Messrs. Sproat and Anderson on the matter of the Sutton pre-emption on the Cowichan Indian reserve. Powell notes that the pre-emption was allowed after the JIRC had allotted the land and that he (Powell) had written Sutton regarding his trespass upon the reserve, "but so far I am not aware that any notice has been taken of my communication."

<sup>182</sup> See Binder 1, 1352/77 (pp. 26-27, Map 5, 7), Federal Collection, vl. 3, pp. 110-112; vl. 20, pp. 199-199a]

<sup>184</sup> This reserve is only identified as "R. V. S. 19" no other additional information is provided. It is also notable that the date of allotment for this reserve is different from the other Cowichan reserves. This reserve was also known as Rogers Lake 4. [See 1943 Schedule, p. 19; NRCan Schedule (2005), p. 44]

<sup>194</sup> O'Reilly submits a Minute of decision and sketch for approval of the CCLW. O'Reilly notes that the land "is situated within the limits of Mr. William Sutton's timber lease No. 5. At an interview with that gentleman he offered no objection to the making of this reservation as it does not materially interfere with the fir timber. It is, however, valued by the Indians on account of the Cedar on it, and as being the site of their potato gardens and their fishery." Based upon information in the federal collection, it would appear that this reserve was cancelled. Interestingly, there is no correspondence included in this binder with respect to the other reserve allotted by O'Reilly at Cowichan Lake, which was affected by the pre-emptions of two settlers. [See Federal Collection, vl. 11, pp. 198-214]

<sup>195</sup> This group is identified in the correspondence as Deadman's Creek. It is currently known as Skeetchestn. Sproat makes reference to a letter from the CCLW dated August 2, 1878. This letter is not included in this collection. [See NRCan Schedule (2005), p. 65]

<sup>197</sup> The Dog Creek Indians amalgamated with the Canoe Creek Indians (date unknown). They are currently identified as Canoe Creek. The organization of this set of minutes is slightly different from that in the federal collection. Notably, in the federal collection, the graveyard is discussed immediately following the allotment of I.R. 1. Despite these small changes, the content of the Minutes is the same. Interestingly a "Third Copy" of some of the Dog Creek allotments can be found at the end of vl. 8. The handwriting in the "Third Copy" is the same as that found in the provincial collection. [See Federal Collection, vl. 8, pp. 127-28; "Third Copy" at end of vl. 8; NRCan Schedule (2005), pp. 42, 84]

<sup>203</sup> O'Reilly identifies these Indians as "Douglas." In the federal collection, O'Reilly identified the Indians as "Skookum Chuck, a branch of the Douglas tribe." Currently, the reserves allotted by O'Reilly are held by two different groups: Samahquam and Skatin Nation (formerly Skookum Chuck). This appears to be the last set of Minutes of decision submitted by O'Reilly. He retired in 1898. The approval of O'Reilly's allotments is noted in the margin on the first page of the covering letter. Interestingly, O'Reilly notes that four of the reserves he's allotted cover either abandoned pre-emptions, or a pre-emption for which the Certificate of Improvement was not obtained. This version of this correspondence number has come from a microfilm copy. There is a photograph of the sketch included. The provenance of the photo and the microfilm copy is unknown. The sketches are not to scale. In this case, pagination from the microfilm copy has been used to identify the material. [See Binder 6, Corr. <sup>204</sup> O'Reilly encloses "rough sketches and minutes of decision of the several allotments of land reserved" for the Indians for the "information and approval" of the CCLW. O'Reilly notes that, with the exception of the reserves at Douglas, all the reserves are within the Railway Belt. There are no page numbers in the original submission. Pagination has been assigned for reference. Also, the sketches included in this correspondence number appear to have been copied from a book. The internal binding and portions of pages can be seen on some of the copies. The provenance of these sketches, therefore, is uncertain.

<sup>206</sup> The JIRC state that the "land reserve of these Indians ... appears to be the private property of the tribe, by written agreement made on 30th April 1858 between the Chiefs and people and the agent of the Hudson's Bay Co., acting on behalf of the Crown ...", that is a Douglas Treaty. This reserve was originally surveyed as a colonial reserve in 1866. [See PILQ, p. 7; 1943 Schedule, p. 20; NRCan Schedule (2005), p. 45; 1913 Schedule of Reserves, p. 61]

<sup>207</sup> The Fort George Indians were also known as Lheit lit'en Nation and are currently known as Lheidli Teneh Nation. [See Binder 12, Corr. No. 3547/95; Federal Collection, vl. 14, pp. 328-335; NRCan Schedule (2005), pp. 54-55, 84]

<sup>208</sup> O'Reilly forwards the plans of the Fort George reserves for the approval of the CCLW (not included in the collection). The Fort George Indians were also known as Lheit lit'en Nation and are currently known as Lheidli T'enneh Nation. [See Corr. No. 3648/95, this binder; Binder 11, Corr. No. 780/93, pp. 13-16; NRCan Schedule (2005), pp. 54-55 84]

<sup>210</sup> The Fountain Indians are currently known as Xaxli'p. The Minutes of decision and sketches for this group are in a slightly different order in the federal collection. All the sketches for this group are "Approved" by George A. Walkem, CCLW, dated May 8, 1882. All the Minutes of decision also appear to have Walkem's signature, or signature stamp. [See Federal Collection, vl. 9, pp. 240-264; NRCan Schedule (2005), p. 84]

<sup>220</sup> This "Circular" relates to the intent and application of the "Pre-emption Law." Young states, among other things, that the "the object and intent of the Government in enacting that Law, was not to give facilities to the servants of the Government to speculate in land ..."

<sup>221</sup> Sproat inquires what the procedure for approval of the "apportionments of lands to the Indians from time to time" is to be now that he has been appointed "to take the place of the Indian Superintendents." He cites a "Canadian order in Council [sic]" dated 23 February 1877. This is the PC which authorized the work of the JIRC and stated that the Commission should continue to be government by BC OIC 1877-279. It is possible that the "Indian Superintendents" Sproat refers to are Powell and Lenihan. Among other things, Sproat states that approval or notice of appeal "must of course be given on the spot at the time of my decision." And that it "will not be prudent to give any information to the Indians as to the proposed reserves until the question has been finally arranged between yourself and me." (p. 2) Sproat indicates his many premises upon which he believes his work as Commissioner will be undertaken. [See Reference Guide to the Establishment of B.C. Indian Reserves, pp. 98-99]

<sup>224</sup> Sproat questions his authority to allot reserves in the "Railway Belt". He believes he would require Orders-in-Council from both the Dominion and Provincial governments. With respect to the province providing an OIC, Sproat writes, "You will oblige me by doing what is necessary in this matter as soon as possible, as I do not wish to lose any time ..." He notes the "questions are settled up to Comox and Jervis Inlet ..., but that he has "no powers" in the "Coast District", where the Sliammon and Klahoose are located, nor "up the coast of the mainland and in Vancouver and any of the islands... // I may mention that the Indians much desire to own islands [sic], but I do not think it right to give islands to them entirely as the effect is to strengthen the tribal system and to encourage habits of savage seclusion." N.B.: This letter is dated October 1878. Although the setting aside of land for the railway was part of the Terms of Union of 1871, the Railway Belt was not transferred until 1880. Because of alterations in the proposed route, the official date of the transfer is considered to be December 19, 1883. [See OCPC 1897-3362]

<sup>226</sup> Sproat advises the CCLW that he will be making various reports to the Dominion Government "in a short time." Sproat notes that he is "still without replies from [the CCLW] as to various matters referred to the Provincial Govt during two years past."

<sup>227</sup> Sproat provides a brief report on his work to date. He notes that since commencing his work as "single Commissioner in the middle of May last [i.e. May 1878], I have dealt with 5000 Indians ..." He states that, "the question of the Indians' lands has been examined and adjusted in the large extent of country south from Cache Creek and Lytton, and on both sides of the Gulf of Georgia up to and including Jervis Inlet and Comox." In describing this area, he appears to have included areas visited by the JIRC. He requests that the province issue him the requisite authority "for prosecuting the adjustment of the Indian land question in the districts not yet examined." [See Corr. No. 542/79, this binder]

<sup>229</sup> Sproat advises the CCLW that the Superintendent General of Indian Affairs has stated that he should proceed with the allotment of reserves on the coast, "leaving the work in the interior" until the two governments have resolved certain issues, particularly the matter of water. Sproat requests the "necessary authority" in order to make the allotments. [See Corr. No. 297/79, this binder.]

<sup>231</sup> Sproat refers to a letter dated May 28 received from the CCLW (not in collection). The letter is in response to Sproat's memorandum dated May 26 (see unnumbered item, this binder). Sproat states: "I note that my authority, so far as the Provl. Government is concerned, is sufficient without the Order in Council which I had supposed might have been necessary ..."

<sup>232</sup> The date on this letter to the CCLW is largely obliterated, however, Sproat encloses a telegram from the Superintendent General dated May 30, 1879. It is presumed that the letter is, therefore, dated around May 31, 1879. Sproat notes that the Superintendent General has given him authority to go to the Interior instead of the Coast "provided that you arrange satisfactorily irrigation and any other questions at issue affecting Indian lands."

<sup>236</sup> Although Powell commences and concludes the letter referring to the Westbank Indians, the letter also touches upon other issues and other groups, including reference to the Indians along the Fraser from Yale, at Williams Lake and Soda Creek. He also discusses water allotments for reserves, the sale of reserve lands and the length of time it has taken for the provincial government to confirm the reserves. Powell makes reference to correspondence from the CCLW dated November 5th and 24th and from himself dated November 19. None of these letters is contained in the provincial collection. Powell takes issue with the position of the B.C. government. At one point Powell states, "... you will pardon me for stating that your impression as to 'the immense area of land lying in a wild waste condition' is, in my opinion, calculated to mislead in correct consideration of this matter." (p. 2) [See Corr. No. 206/85, this binder]

<sup>240</sup> Powell makes reference to a conference the previous day with the CCLW in which the CCLW advised that "all the reserves made by Mr. Sproat on the Coast would have to be taken in hand by Mr. O'Reilly." Powell suggests that immediately upon O'Reilly's return from Ashcroft, he go to the Coast to do the work there. Powell states that O'Reilly is of the opinion he will be able to complete the work in the Chilcotin before the end of the season.

<sup>243</sup> Moffatt requests a response to a letter dated November 6, 1889 ["6th ultimo"] so that the response can be presented to the SGIA. The letter referred to is not included in either the federal or provincial collections.

<sup>248</sup> There are two extracts at the end of volume 12. There is no correspondence number attributed to the extracts. The first is noted to be an extract from a letter from O'Reilly to the Superintendent General. O'Reilly requests to be informed if it is the opinion of the Superintendent General that "Patents [sic] are necessary for the conveyance by the Provincial to the Dominion government of the lands approved of as reserves or if a formal approval as hitherto is sufficient." O'Reilly states that Smithe, the former CCLW, did not think the Patents were necessary. O'Reilly states that the the Supt. General wishes him to pursue the matter, he requests that the "form of conveyance you wish adopted" be sent to him.

<sup>253</sup> Sproat refers to his letter of May 20, 1879 in which he enclosed maps and field notes (not included in collection). He inquires whether it is necessary that Mr. Jane, the surveyor temporarily in charge, swear to the field notes as correct. Sproat notes that the field notes were made prior to the passage of the 1879 Land Amendment Act. The marginal notation states: "Replied to verbally Get them sworn to WSG" "WSG would be W.S. Gore, Surveyor General.

<sup>255</sup> O'Reilly forwards 9 field books and 3 tracings relating to the reserves allotted by him for Lytton and Oregon Jack Creek. He notes that the reserves were allotted by Sproat as well as himself. Neither the field books nor the tracings are included in the provincial collection.

<sup>256</sup> O'Reilly submits plans of reserves surveyed during the past year [1889] for the "final approval" of the CCLW. The plans cover reserves for a total 9 Bands: Quawshelah, Owekano [sic], Sliammon, Homalco, Nahkwokto, Similkameen, Okanagan, Osoyoos, Penticton. O'Reilly states that when the plans are approved, tracings and duplicate fieldbooks will be forwarded to the Dept. of Lands & Works. The plans are not included in the collection. [See Corr. No. 1610/91, this binder]

<sup>257</sup> O'Reilly forwards the duplicate fieldbooks (13) and tracings (9) for 9 Bands: Quawshelah, Owekano [sic], Sliammon, Homalco, Nahkwokto, Similkameen, Okanagan, Osoyoos, Penticton. The field books and plans are not included in the collection. O'Reilly also notes that the CCLW has withheld approval for reserves for the "Keremeus" [i.e. Lower Similkameen] and Penticton Indians which were allotted by Sproat. O'Reilly advises that he has forwarded the CCLW's suggestions for alterations of the boundary to the SGIA. [See Corr. No. 1533/90, this binder]

<sup>258</sup> O'Reilly forwards 9 plans related to his allotments for the Kitimat, Kitkahta and Kitlope Indians for the approval of the CCLW. He notes that the Minutes of decision and rough sketches were previously approved. The enclosure is not included in the collection.

<sup>259</sup> O'Reilly refers to a letter from the CCLW dated May 5 (not included in the collection). O'Reilly forwards eighteen duplicate field books and 10 tracings of plans for the Nass River, Kitlope, Kitimat and Kitkahta Indians, all of which were approved by the CCLW.

<sup>260</sup> Sproat identified these Indians as "Tsaw-waw-ty-neuch Indians Gilford Island." Sproat appears to have erred in his identification of the band attribution for the reserves. Many different First Nations hold the reserves he attributes only to the Tsaw-waw-ty-neuch. Sproat allotments were by geographic location. None were confirmed as reserves. To distinguish Sproat's allotments from O'Reilly's the band is identified as "Gilford Island/Tsawawtyneuch." [See Binder 8, Corr. No. 2817/86, pp. 24-29; NRCan Schedule (2005), p. 85]

<sup>261</sup> The Gilford Island Indians are currently known as Kwicksutaineuk-Ah-kwaw-ah-mish [reserves 1,8,9]; Kwa-wa-aineuk (now Gwawaenuk Tribe) [reserves 2 through 6] and Tsawataineuk [reserve 7]. Although Sproat had been to this area in 1879, O'Reilly makes no reference to any of Sproat's earlier work. [See Federal Collection, vl. 11, pp. 237-246; NRCan Schedule (2005), pp. 47, 52, 72, 85]

<sup>268</sup> Sproat identified this as a graveyard, but seems to have erred in attributing the allotment to the Tsah-waw-ty-neuch". When O'Reilly revisited the area in September 1886, he included the graveyard within his allotment of Gwayasdums 1, but it was separately surveyed. Originally the graveyard was known as Burial Ground 1A. In 1965, the name was changed to Kye-yaa-la 13. In 1973, Umdagitis 9 (allotted by McKenna-McBride), which consisted of virtually the remainder of Sail Island and Kye-yaa-la 13 were amalgamated to be one reserve known as Kye-yaa-la 1. The reserve is currently held by the Kwicksutaineuk-Ah-kwaw-ah-mish. [See Binder 8, Corr. No. 2817/86, pp. 24-29; 1943 Schedule, p.36; NRCan Schedule (2005), p. 52; CLSRBC 47, FBBC 263; ILR #13579; ILR #X18406]

<sup>282</sup> O'Reilly refers to an application to pre-empt made by the Reverend Crosby for "320 acres at the junction of the Skeena and Hagwilget rivers." O'Reilly notes that Indian Agent Todd has submitted a letter objecting to the pre-emption. O'Reilly supports Todd and adds that if Crosby's pre-emption is allowed, it will be difficult to define lands for the Indians in the area. He requests that Crosby's pre-emption "remain in abeyance." It is noteworthy that it is Indian Agent Todd who has written the letter and not R.E. Loring, the Indian Agent for the Babine Agency, whose office was located in Hazelton.

<sup>283</sup> O'Reilly advises the CCLW of his plans to visit the Upper Skeena. O'Reilly inquires if there would be any objection to "that portion of the townsite occupied by the Indians being included within the Reserve, should it be found necessary to do so ..." The note on the back of the letter states: "Ack. Request Hon. Mr. O'Reilly to be good enough to call at this office tomorrow Saturday Augst 8th at 11 A.M. when the matter can be discussed." [See Binder 11, Corr. No. 319/92]

<sup>285</sup> These Indians are currently known as Gitanmaax. There is no sketch included with Vowell's Minute of decision. There is, however, a sketch in the federal collection. Although Vowell states that Ksoo-gun-ya 2 is cancelled because it was found to be "destitute" of timber. In the federal collection, he explains that fire "and other causes" were the reasons there was no timber. [See Binder 11, Corr. No. 319/92, pp. 3-7; Binder 13, Corr. No. 2901/99; NRCan Schedule (2005), pp. 45-46, 86; Federal Collection, vl. 14, pp. 19-22]

<sup>293</sup> Interestingly, O'Reilly identifies the tribe as "Kit-i-sun" [i.e. Gitksan]. He does not identify the tribe in the federal collection. He also states that, "[o]wing to the absence of the Indians from some of the villages and to the objection made by others to have their reserves defined, it will be necessary for the Reserve Commission to revisit this locality ..." In the federal collection, the Minutes of decision and sketches for these groups were separately submitted, each with a field minute providing more detail of O'Reilly's meeting with the group.

<sup>303</sup> Sproat identifies this reserve as "Cha-wuth-en or Murderers Bar", however Murderer's Bar appears to be across the river from the reserve. This reserve was also known as Chawuthen, Murderer's Bar and/or Katz 4. [See NRCan Schedule (2005), p. 43; Federal Collection, vl. 18, pp. 215-16, 294-95]

<sup>306</sup> Sproat allots 80 acres at a lake identified as "A" on the sketch, "but not so as to include all of it, as the cattle of white settlers may feed in that locality." The reserve, as described by Sproat, appears not to have been confirmed, however, the description is a bit vague and part of it may have been included within Chawathen 4. [See CLSRBC 238]

<sup>310</sup> The JIRC allot "[a] fishing station at Bartlett Newman's pre-emption on the Kamloops Nicola road." It would appear that from this description, and based upon the information in the 1943 Schedule, two reserves are established: Kamloops 2 and Kamloops 3. Both of which are fishing stations and were also known as Fishing Station 2 and Fishing Station 3. [See Binder 3, Corr. Nos. 368/79, 369/79; 1943 Schedule, p. 29; CLSRBC 235; Federal collection, vl. 3, pp. 162-66]

<sup>311</sup> These allotments are described as fishing stations and are oriented to the pre-emption of a settler named Bartlett Newman. Although Sproat used the numbers 1 and 2 to identify the areas, these numbers do not correlate to the reserve numbers.

<sup>312</sup> The JIRC description is quite vague, "also a tract of woodland on the North Thompson River", however, this would appear to be this reserve. This reserve was also known as Gilead 4 or Timber Reserve 4. [See 1943 Schedule, p. 30; NRCan Schedule (2005), p. 49]

<sup>313</sup> This reserve is described as a "small hay meadow to the north east of their reserve." "Their reserve" would appear to be a reference to Kamloops 1. Although the JIRC state they were unable to visit this place, the 1943 Schedule indicates that this reserve was allotted the same day as the other reserves of the Kamloops Indians. [See Binder 3, Corr. Nos. 368/79, 369/79; 1943 Schedule, p. 30; NRCan Schedule (2005), p. 49; CLSRBC 235]

<sup>319</sup> After describing the allotment, Sproat states that the boundaries may be altered as it is a "temporary reserve". It would seem, however, that Sproat's allotment was confirmed. [See 1943 Schedule, p. 59]

<sup>321</sup> Although it is not stated in the Minute of decision, Yarksis was formerly the principal village site of the Kelsemaht Indians.

<sup>325</sup> O'Reilly specifically notes that the [land set aside as a reserve "does not adjoin that of any white settler, nor is it likely to interfere in any way with the progress of the country." As a result of Nisga'a Treaty and the act ratifying the treaty in April 2000, these Indians are currently known as the Nisga'a Village of Gingolx. The reserves are considered to be held by the Nisga'a Nation in fee simple. [See Binder 7, Corr. No. 506/82; Binder 9, Corr. No. 168/89; Federal Collection, vl. 14, pp. 89-92; NRCan Schedule (2005), pp. 77-78, 87; ILR #281681]

<sup>335</sup> Vowell refers to his letter of October 27, 1898 enclosing the Minute of decision for Kisgegas and requests that the CCLW approve the Minute so that the survey can commence as soon as possible. [See Corr. No. 7144/99, this binder; Binder 12, Corr. No. 7221/98]

<sup>338</sup> In the federal collection, O'Reilly provides much more detail regarding his meeting with these Indians. There is also an additional letter describing his visit to the area. [See Federal Collection, vl. 12, pp. 6-11; vl. 13, pp. 417-425; see also G.E. Shankel, The Development of Indian Policy in British Columbia, Ph.D. Dissertation, University of Washington, 1945, pp. 141-44, esp. fn. 58]

<sup>339</sup> Vowell provides a "copy" of a report from Indian Agent R.E. Loring of the Babine Agency regarding additional lands required by the Babine Indians. The report was written approximately 17 months earlier. [See Corr. No. 6234/98, this binder; Binder 11, Corr. No. 319/92, pp. 1-2; Federal Collection, vl. 14, pp. 44-49, 72-72a, 94-98]

<sup>340</sup> Vowell refers to O'Reilly's allotments in February 1892. He states that "of this the greater part is useless as agriculture, meadow or timber land." [See Corr. No. 610/98, this binder; Binder 11, Corr. No. 319/92, pp. 1-2; Federal Collection, vl. 14, pp. 23-28]

<sup>347</sup> Vowell forwards the plan of the Kispiox reserve for signature and final approval (not included in collection). He notes that the Minutes of decision were approved by the CCLW February 4, 1892 and September 22, 1898. There is a marginal notation which states: "Approved 5/8/02" [i.e. August 5, 1902].

<sup>358</sup> O'Reilly identifies this group as "Kit-lath-la." It was also identified as "Kit-kath-la." In the covering letter to these Minutes of decision, O'Reilly notes that the reserve at the head of Lowe Inlet for the Kitlathla (later known as Kitkahta; currently known as Gitlaaxla Nation) include lands applied for by a settler named John Sayea, for which the settler gave notice of intent to purchase. O'Reilly provides no other context or background. The sketch included with the Minutes is signed: "Approved, Wm. Smith C C of L & W." In the federal collection, O'Reilly's field minute provides additional detail with respect to his meeting with these Indians. [See Binder 10, Corr. No. 2944/91; Federal Collection, vl. 10, pp. 161-169; NRCAN Schedule (2005), p. 85]

<sup>359</sup> This group is currently known as Gitxaala Nation (formerly Kitkatla). In his covering letter, O'Reilly notes that, with one exception, the allotments for this group are sealing or fishing stations "occupied by the Indians but worthless for any other purpose." This was O'Reilly's second visit to this area. In 1882, he allotted three reserves for these Indians. The version of this letter M.O.D. & sketch is a microfilm copy. Two versions of the sketches associated with these allotments are included: one is a photocopy, the other is a series of colour photographs. The two copies of the sketches are not the same and neither is to scale. The provenance of the microfilm and the photos is not known. Pagination found on the microfilm is not used in the index. [See Binder 7, Corr. No. 1464/82, pp. 18-20; Binder 12, Corr. No. 629/94; Federal Collection, vl. 12, pp. 17-29; NRCAN Schedule (2005), pp. 46, 85, 87]

<sup>360</sup> O'Reilly submits plans of three reserves defined by him for the Kitlathla (currently known as Kitkatla) and Kitsoo Indians to be approved by the CCLW. He also encloses correspondence from surveyor F.A. Devereux related to encroachment by settlers upon the two reserves set aside by O'Reilly for these Indians. There are numerous notations on the front page of the letter. One states: "Approved F.G. Vernon, CCLWks, January 20th 1893." Crossed out and initialled were the words: "with the exception of Reserve Nos. 3 and 11." Another states: "Ans 24/1/93" and the third states: "Kitsoo plan taken by Mr. Green 22/6/93." Mr. Green is most likely Ashdown H. Green, surveyor to the IRC. Notably, although this correspondence pre-dates the following piece, the correspondence number is higher. [See Corr. No. 203/93, this binder]

<sup>362</sup> O'Reilly refers to a letter from the CCLW dated January 21, 1893 (not in collection), regarding withholding his approval on Kitlathla reserves nos. 3 and 11. O'Reilly advises the CCLW of the terms under which surveys of Indian reserves are conducted. He states, in part, "I respectfully submit that the Indian reserve surveyor has no discretion given him; his instructions are invariably to carry out the Minutes of decision as approved by you ..." O'Reilly argues quite forcefully regarding the encroachments by settlers onto the allotted reserves.

<sup>377</sup> O'Reilly makes reference to a letter to the CCLW dated January 20, 1892 regarding excluding 10 acres of land. This letter is not included in the provincial collection. O'Reilly provides a more detailed account of his meeting with these Indians in his field minute which is found in the federal collection. [See Federal Collection, vl. 14, pp. 171-178]

At the end of the Minute of decision, O'Reilly states that ten (10) acres on the left bank of the Skeena where the HBCo has its storehouse is not included in the reserve. [See Binder 12, Corr. <sup>379</sup> This is a cancellation of the original allotment of Kitselas 1, dated October 6, 1891, in favour of the new, requested allotment, also identified as Kitselas 1. [See Binder 11, Corr. No. 380/92, pp. 1-6, esp. pp. 1,5]

<sup>382</sup> Vowell forwards the plan of the reserves for signature and final approval (not included in the collection). Vowell notes that the Minutes of decision were approved March 6, 1894 and February 4, 1892. This latter date appears to be incorrect as the date on the correspondence is February 3, 1892. There is a marginal notation which states: "Approved 9/9/02." [See Binder 11, Corr. No. 380/92]

<sup>391</sup> Vowell forwards three plans: Kitsegucla, Kitwanga, and Kitlathla, for signature and final approval of the CCLW (not included in the collection). All the allotments were made by O'Reilly prior to his retirement. [See Corr. No. 3026/02, this binder; Binder 11, Corr. No. 319/92, pp. 8-10; Binder 12, Corr. Nos. 629/94; 691/94]

<sup>397</sup> Kitwanger is currently spelled "Gitwangak." McLean advises the B.C. Surveyor General, G.H. Dawson, that the reserve he was enquiring about is the Kitwanger reserve, Chig-in-kaht 8, however, the sentence identifying the reserve is convoluted and misleading. McLean states that the reserve, "up stream on the opposite bank from the Kitwanger Indian Reserve No. 7 of the Kitselas Band [sic] is Chiginhakt Indian Reserve No. 8 ..." There is no "Kitwanger Indian Reserve ... of the Kitselas Band," however, Ketoned 7 of the Kitselas Band is downstream of Chig-in-kaht 8 of the Gitwangak. McLean notes that Skinner was to survey the reserves in 1901, but reserves 4, 5 and 7 were reportedly washed away. McLean enclosed a copy of O'Reilly's Minute of decision. [See NTS Sheet 1031/16]

<sup>413</sup> Sproat states that this is allotted to both Sliammon and Klahoose, it is currently held solely by Klahoose. Sproat identifies two separate areas, but both appear to be part of Tork 7. This reserve was re-allotted by O'Reilly. [See Federal Collection, vl. 11, pp. 102-03, 105; 1943 Schedule, p. 161; CLSRTBC 179]

<sup>415</sup> In the Federal Collection, O'Reilly identified this group as the "Klah-wit-sis Tribe", who lived on the south west coast of Turnour Island. Klah-wit-sis was also known as Klowitis. Currently it is known as Tlowitsis Tribe (formerly Tlowitsis-Mumtagila). [See Federal Collection, vl. 11, pp. 219-221, 228; NRCan Schedule (2005), pp. 71, 88]

<sup>416</sup> It appears that this graveyard was included in Karlukwees 1. [See FBBC 246]

<sup>419</sup> Based upon the Indian Agents' reports in the Indian Affairs Annual Reports, it would appear that at some point in the early 1900s, the Klaskino and Koskemo Indians were considered to be part of the Quatsino Band. The Indian Agent's report in the 1910 sessional paper states that the Klaskino were so intermarried with the Koskemo and Quatsino that "they have lost their identity." No official date for an amalgamation could be located. [See Federal Collection, vl. 12, pp. 175-181; 1943 Schedule, p. 37]

<sup>424</sup> In the federal collection, O'Reilly identifies the Kokyet as "a branch of the Bella Bella tribe." The Bella Bella are currently known as Heiltsuk. The Kokyet are no longer distinguished as a separate group. The reserves allotted to the Kokyet are currently held by the Heiltsuk. [See Federal Collection, vl. 10, pp. 171-181; 1943 Schedule, pp. 8-9; NRCan Schedule (2005), pp. 47-48, 88]

<sup>429</sup> O'Reilly advises the CCLW that in view of his (O'Reilly's) "proposed early visit to Kootenay" [sic] for the purpose of defining the Indian reserves, he requests that "pending the negotiations with the Indians, no application to pre-empt or purchase land in that locality should be granted, except subject to what may be deemed necessary for the Indians." A notation on the back of the letter states: "Ack receipt and say[?] Mr. Vernon Asst. Comm of L. & W for Kootenay has been instructed on the subject referred to." This is an interesting letter inasmuch as it is extremely similar to letters sent by Sproat, during his tenure as IRC, making the same request, however, in this case, there is the notation that the relevant provincial officer has been notified.

<sup>430</sup> O'Reilly refers to a letter from the CCLW dated November 29, 1884. This letter is not contained in the provincial collection. Based upon O'Reilly's response, it appears that the CCLW requested census information with respect to the Kootenay Indians and, perhaps, questioned the extent of the land assigned by O'Reilly. O'Reilly notes that no land had been set aside for these Indians prior to his visit. Further, O'Reilly states, "You may not be aware that ... but very little land [is] occupied by white settlers; the Indians claimed to be, and virtually were, in possession of the whole district, cultivating such portions as they pleased and pasturing their cattle, and horses in the most favored [sic] spots. It was therefore my duty as Indian Reserve Commissioner, to define what land was necessary for them, having regard to their habits, wants, and pursuits, and to deal liberally with them ... That I have not overestimated the requirements of the Indians will be admitted by any disinterested person acquainted with the character of the country and with the number of cattle owned by the Kootenays ..." O'Reilly goes on to discuss the rationale of his allotment.

<sup>431</sup> O'Reilly notes that the reserves he allotted "for the use of the Indians in the Kootenay district" were approved by the CCLW. He does not specify which groups.

<sup>432</sup> O'Reilly states that he is forwarding for signature, five (5) original plans and tracings for the reserves allotted in the Indians in the Kootenay district, all of which were approved by the "late" [i.e. former] CCLW on Sept. 2, 1885. There is no enclosure with this letter. It is unclear which specific plans and tracings were sent. [See Corr. No. 1375/87, this binder]

<sup>434</sup> These Indians amalgamated with the Kispiox Indians. They are currently known as Kispiox and the reserve is held by Kispiox. [See Binder 13, Corr. No. 2901/99; Federal Collection, vl. 14, pp. 29-33; NRCan Schedule (2005), pp. 50, 89]

<sup>435</sup> Sproat identified this group as "Kwah-kewlth". They are currently known Kwakiutl. Sproat's allotments for this group were not confirmed by B.C. It is noteworthy that Sproat omits any comment about the Douglas Treaty with these Indians. The Minutes in the federal collection are in a slightly different order. O'Reilly re-allotted these reserves in 1886. [See Binder 8, Corr. No. 2817/86, pp. 6-10; Federal Collection, vl. 11, pp. 118, 229-236; vl. 18, pp. 179-185; PILQ, p. 11; NRCan Schedule (2005), pp. 51-52]

<sup>436</sup> This group is currently known as Kwakiutl or Kwagewlth. O'Reilly identifies these Indians as Fort Rupert, although elsewhere he, and others, identifies them as Kwawkewlth. For consistency, Kwawkewlth is used in this index. Interestingly, O'Reilly makes no mention of the Douglas Treaty involving these people. Sproat had previously visited this group, however, his allotments were not confirmed. [See Binder 5, Corr. No. 775/80, pp. 96-101a; Federal Collection, vl. 11, pp. 229-236; vl. 18, pp. 183-85; NRCan Schedule (2005), p. 89; PILQ, p. 11]

<sup>437</sup> Sproat's description for this reserve is problematic. The north west corner of the Hudson's Bay Co. pre-emption is actually the same as the northwest corner of the R.C. Mission. This reserve is also known as Tsa-kis 1 and was encompassed within the Douglas Treaty of February 8, 1851. Sproat notes that the Indians are to have prior right to water for household and other purposes. [See PILQ, p. 11; Federal Collection, vl. 18, pp. 183-85]

<sup>438</sup> In the covering letter, O'Reilly makes reference to this allotment. He notes that the reserve is "situated with Mr. Roderick Finlayson's pre-emption claim, upon which he obtained a Certificate of Improvement dated 14th December 1885, but he afterwards sold his interest to Mr. Robert Hunt, and the latter gentleman expressed his entire concurrence in the land being set apart for the Indians provided only that a space of 16 1/2 feet be left between his residence and the boundary of the reserve, which has been done. Mr. Hunt was desirous that the Indians should not be disturbed in the possession of their village site." N.B.: Roderick Finlayson was a HBCo. factor. The notes from the two CCLWs which appears on the back of the first page of the letter makes reference to "No. 3" of the Fort Rupert Indians and the 4 1/2 acres. This would appear to be an error. Reserve No. 3 is Shell Island. The 4 1/2 acres relates to this reserve. [See Corr. No. 1498/87, this binder]

<sup>442</sup> Sproat's description for this reserve is somewhat problematic. The northwest corner of the Hudson's Bay Company pre-emption is the same as the northwest corner of the R.C. Mission. The HBCo. pre-emption is considerably larger than the area where the fort is located. This area was also encompassed within the Douglas Treaty dated February 8, 1851. [See Federal Collection, vl. 18, pp. 179, 186; vl. 11, pp. 118, 229-236; PILQ p. 11]

<sup>443</sup> There is correspondence indicating that provincial government did not approve this reserve, however, there appears to have been an error in identifying the reserve number. Rather than being "No. 3", the issue lay with Fort Rupert 1. It is within Fort Rupert 1 that the pre-emption of Roderick Finlayson/Robert Hunt was located, not Shell Island 3. [See note on covering letter; Federal Collection, vl. 11, p. 269]

<sup>447</sup> Sproat identified this group as "Laich-kwil-tach" Indians. There are a number of variations throughout the collection on the spelling of name of this group. For consistency within the index it is spelled "Laichquiltach" and the subgroup is identified in [ ] beneath. There are a few minor differences in the identification of the sub-groups between the federal and provincial collections. Again, for consistency, the sub-groups have been identified as they were in the federal collection. As in the federal collection, there are different dates for the Minutes of decision for the different groups. Sproat's allotments in this area were not confirmed as reserves. Sproat's authority from the B.C. government as laid out in BC OIC 1878-615 covered only the Yale electoral district. O'Reilly re-visited and re-allotted reserves for these Indians. [See Binder 8, Corr. No. 2832/86; Federal Collection, vl. 18, pp. 57-101]

<sup>450</sup> Laich-quil-tach/Eu-claw-taw are a Kwa'kwala and Salish pronunciations of the same group. There are many variants on the spelling of Laich-quil-tach. The current spelling is Lekwiltok. For the purposes of this index the spelling used will be Laichquiltach. In the field minute in the federal collection, O'Reilly notes that this tribe was divided into four bands: Kah-kah-mat-sis, We-way-a-kum [also We-wai-a-kum], Kwi-ah-kah and We-way-a-kay [also spelled We-wai-a-kay]. We-way-a-kum and We-way-a-kay are currently known as Campbell River and Cape Mudge, respectively. Kwiakah and Kahkahmahtsis amalgamated and became part of what is currently known as Comox. Sproat was in this area and made allotments in 1879, however, his allotments were not confirmed. O'Reilly makes no reference to Sproat's work. In writing to the CCLW, O'Reilly discusses the agricultural potential of the land. He also provides basic census information. He notes that he was unable to set aside land at Campbell River as the Indians were absent. [See Binder 5, Corr. No. 775/80, pp. 30-56; Federal Collection, vl. 11, pp. 277-91]

<sup>452</sup> Powell refers to a letter from the CCLW dated April 6, 1888 (not in collection) regarding the dispute at Campbell River between Messrs. Nunn and the Indians. Powell also refers to a "certified copy of an order of the Honourable Executive Council on the subject" and the appointment of Ashdown H. Green "to determine the extent and the boundaries of the Indian Reserve at Campbell River." Neither document is contained in the provincial collection. Powell states he will advise Green to proceed with the matter as early as possible. [See Binder 5, Corr. No. 775/80, pp. 47-48; Binder 8, Corr. No. 2832/86]

<sup>453</sup> Green submits his Minute of decision at Campbell River. This Minute of decision could not be located in the federal collection. Green notes in the covering letter that he had the "authority to determine the extent, and boundaries of the Indian Reserve at that place, as recommended in the Provincial Order in Council of 6th April" and that he "left Victoria on the 25th Ult<sup>mo</sup>" [ie. April]. Green states that his "award gave satisfaction to all parties interested, and that the dispute between the Messrs Nunn, and the Indians is now amicably settled." Interestingly, Green signs the letter as "Surveyor to the IRC" [See Binder 8, Corr. No. 2832/86; Federal Collection, vl. 11, pp. 277-91; vl. 18, pp. 57-101]

<sup>456</sup> Given that Green was the surveyor to the IRC as well as the person setting aside the land, it is presumed that he did the sketch. Regrettably, he entitled the sketch "Laich-kwil-tach (Eu-cla-taw) Indians We-way-a-kay Band" thereby failing to distinguish that Campbell River 11 was held by the We-way-a-kum [ie. Campbell River Indians], while Quinsam 12 was held by the We-way-a-kai [ie. Cape Mudge Indians].

<sup>464</sup> This allotment is described by Sproat as a "conditional reserve". No subgroup is identified. In the federal version both the "We-wai-a-kum and We-wai-a-kay Subgroups" are identified as recipients of the reserve, but Sproat's allotment at Quathiaski Cove was not confirmed. <sup>468</sup> The date on this MOD is cited as: "17 Decm 1879." This would appear to be an error. All the surrounding minutes of decision are dated in October and the correlating MOD in the federal collection is dated "17 Oct 1879". The date from the federal collection has been relied upon. This reserve is currently held by the Comox Indians. [See Binder 8, Corr. No. 2832/86; Federal Collection, vl. 18, pp. 79-83; 1943 Schedule, p. 36]

<sup>470</sup> This allotment was not confirmed as a reserve. The description for this allotment is confused by the fact that the island Sproat refers to is actually two islands currently known by other names. Sproat identifies "Valdez Island" as the location for this reserve. Based upon the description provided, the area Sproat is referring to is currently known as Maurelle Island. "Valdez Island", as identified by Sproat, is currently known as Quadra Island.

<sup>478</sup> This reserve is currently held by the Nisga'a Village of Laxgalt'sap, formerly known as the Lakalzap Indians and prior to that as Greenville. The 8A "extension" is across the river from the Andegulay 8, not adjoining it. N.B. The 1943 Schedule incorrectly cites the date of allotment of this reserve as September 3, 1888. The correct date is September 9, 1888. [See p. 45, this volume; 1943 Schedule, p. 129; NRCan Schedule (2005), pp. 78, 90, 91, 98]

<sup>484</sup> Vowell identifies three groups for which he has set aside four pieces of land: Tsimpsean (a.k.a. Tsimshian); Nass River (a.k.a. Nisga'a) and Lakelse. The Lakelse appear to have been a sub-group of the Tsimpsean. The reserves allotted to them were ultimately held by Lax Kw'alaams and/or Metlakatla. [See Corr. Nos. 1210/04, 1404/04 this binder; Binder 12, Corr. No. 692/94, pp. 5-6; Federal Collection, vl. 15, pp. 371-79, 403-09]

<sup>485</sup> The reserve name is also spelled Kil-lut-sal and is spelled "Kil loot sal" by O'Reilly. For many years, the Killutsal reserve was erroneously noted to be held by the Kitsumkalum Indians. That error was corrected and the reserve is currently noted to have been held by the Lax Kw'alaams [a.k.a. Port Simpson] Indians. It was sold in 1960. <sup>486</sup> Vowell identifies these Indians as "Lakelse Band, Tsimpsean Indians." For many years, Killutsal 1 and 1A were erroneously noted to be held by the Kitsumkalum Indians. <sup>487</sup> This reserve is currently held in common by Lax Kw'alaams & Metlakatla. <sup>492</sup> According to Sproat this reserve was to "contain about 160 acres but about 40 acres have been selected out of it as a general graveyard for several Indian tribes and others temporarily residing near New Westminster." This reserve was sold in 1953. [See 1943 Schedule, p. 91; NRCan Schedule (2005), p. 52]

<sup>494</sup> Sproat allots the reserves jointly to the "Whonock (or Oo-a-nuck) and Langley Indians." The Langley Indians are currently identified as Kwantlen First Nation. He makes reference to the "old Whonock reserve." This is a reference to the colonial allotment. This reserve was also known as Doanuck 1. [See NRCan Schedule (2005), p. 52, 90; PILQ, pp. 52, 166 #21; MPS 534]

<sup>504</sup> Although the JIRC originally conceived that this area would be held in common by the Neskonlith, Adams Lake and Little Shuswap Lake Indians, this reserve is now held solely by the Little Shuswap Indians. It would seem that the other common reserve was split between the Neskonlith and Adams Lake Indians, while this area went entirely to the Little Shuswap Lake Indians. The 1943 Schedule erroneously cites the date of allotment as August 14, 1877 when it should be August 16, 1877. N.B.: The description of this would seem to be oriented incorrectly. Reference is made to the "eastern side of Salmon Arm", when it should correctly say the western side. The correction has been made in the federal copy but not in the provincial. [See Federal Collection, vl. 3, p. 204; vl. 16/1, p. 11; 1943 Schedule, p. 32; CLSRTBC 7]

<sup>505</sup> These Indians may also have been known as "Kuaut". Reference is made to an "old reserve", which would seem to be encompassed within the allotment of the JIRC. This would be the colonial reserve identified on the 1871 Schedule prepared by B.C., item Q(2) described as "North-west side of Little Lake, on trail to Adams Lake." In the 1875 Dominion Schedule, it is item 74. [See pp. 26-28, these Minutes of decision; Binder 10, Corr. No. 4243/91; CLSRBC 221; CLSRBC 7025; CLSRTBC 192; CLSRTBC 7; PILQ, p. 105; 1875 Dominion Schedule, p. 103]

<sup>506</sup> O'Reilly forwards the surveyed plans for four the Little Shuswap Lake reserves as defined by the JIRC in 1877. He briefly discusses the delay in obtaining approval for the reserves. The enclosure is not included with the letter. There is a marginal reference to Corr. No. 1255/83. This letter is not in the provincial collection. There is no correspondence for 1883 in the provincial collection. [See Binder 2, Corr. No. 1081/78, pp. 22-24]

<sup>507</sup> The federal copy of this letter is found at the end of the collection of minutes of decision in volume 3. [See federal collection vl. 3, pp. "340-343" (i.e. the second set of pages numbered this way)]

<sup>510</sup> Powell forwards to the CCLW Sproat's Minutes of decision "in respect of lands and water privileges allotted by him to the Nicola Indians in 1878." Powell also forwards plans numbered 1 to 10, a reference map and 15 field books. He also encloses a copy of a letter from Sproat. Pages 49-67 of the submitted material relate to "Water Privileges." [See Federal Collection, vl. 3, pp. 264-398]

<sup>512</sup> Although Sproat states that the reserve was assigned in 1878, he does not submit the Minute of decision until April 1880. [See Corres. No. 268/80, this binder]

<sup>514</sup> This reserve was also known as Naik, Taloochie. In the federal collection, Sproat identifies the Indians as "Lower Nicola Indians, (Naweesistikun's tribe)". There is a marginal notation which states: "See Plan No. 4." This would appear to be CLSRBC 215. [See 1943 Schedule, p. 101; NRCan Schedule (2005), p. 55; CLSRBC 215]

<sup>515</sup> This allotment was never confirmed as a reserve. Sproat identifies it in the federal collection as "The Plains Reserve." The land is located on the right bank of the Nicola River west of the other Nicola River allotment. Sproat states that the land is to revert to the province in 10 years if the Nicola-Mameet (i.e. Upper Nicola) Indians agricultural land requirements are sufficient. There is a marginal notation which states: "See Reference Map". This would appear to be CLSRBC 266a. [See Federal Collection vl. 2, pp. 44-45; vl. 4/9, pp. 20-21; NTS sheet 921/2; CLSRBC 266A]

<sup>519</sup> Vowell states that he has received a Certified Copy of an Order-in-Council dated May 6, 1899, relinquishing the "Zoht reserve at Nicola in exchange for Lot 716, situated in the valley of Clapperton Creek." Vowell requests the Deputy Commissioner of Lands and Works to obtain from the CCLW "such instrument as may be necessary transferring the said Lot 716 to the Department, and thus bring this longstanding transaction to an end." [See Binder 4, Corr. No. 269/80, p. 17; Federal Collection, vl. 3, pp. 304-306; 1885 Schedule, p. 396; 1902 Schedule, p. 57]

<sup>525</sup> Sproat writes to Captain Wake, RN on Valdez Island. He refers to a letter dated March 15, 1879 from Capt. Wake (not in collection). Sproat advises Wake that the Indian Reserve Commission "has no official charge of the Surveys [sic] of Indian Reserves" and it has "nothing to do with the management of Indians, nor, directly with trespasses whether by Indians or by white settlers."

<sup>526</sup> This reserve was also known as Valdez 3. The JIRC note that the Lyackson Indians live on Valdez Island "which has not up to the present time been surveyed ..." Valdez Island is currently spelled Valdes. [See NRCan Schedule (2005), p. 56]

<sup>528</sup> This "field minute" is 41 pages long, has three sketches and two appendices. Sproat goes through a history of reserve allotment in the areas. He commences the field minute by identifying the Indians as the "Nekla-kap-a-muk division or "Nation" of the Indians of British Columbia." He then provides the locations at which the Neklakapamuk are found. By his own admission he divided the Neklakapamuk into four groups for census purposes: Spuzzum, Boston Bar, Boothroyd and Lytton. He asserts, however, that this grouping is in accordance with the wishes of the Indians. Sproat divided the Lytton group into subgroups: Kanaka Flat, Siska Flat, Skuppah and Lytton proper. (p. 3). He also quotes Joseph Trutch on the issue of the lack of title of the Indians in the "public lands" (p. 4). In discussing the surveying of the reserves, at one point, Sproat states that, "some of the oldest Indian settlements between Spuzzum and Lytton were not, so far as I can find, marked off nor delineated by the Royal Engineers, and it also is a fact that, some of these "omitted" places, and other old Indian settlements which had been delineated by the Royal engineers, were not included in the reserves laid off and surveyed by the Colonial Government in 1870, and do not appear in the Schedule of Reserves furnished by the Provincial [sic] to the Dominion Government." (p. 16) Sproat states that the "satisfactory result" of his work "has been achieved because the Indians left the adjustment entirely in my own hands ..." (p. 23)

The field minute which was given a separate correspondence number (1769/78) is forty-one pages long, has a table of contents, two appendices and three sketches. An extract of the field minute is found in the federal collection. The federal extract begins at p. 23 of this version. [See Federal Collection, vl. 1, pp. 210-11; vl. 5/2, esp. pp. 65-113]

<sup>536</sup> O'Reilly numbered this allotment "No. 8". It is unclear why he did this as a No. 8 reserve for this group had already been allotted. But by 1887, the number attributed to the reserve was changed from 8 to 27. [Sec Corr. No. 1190/87, this binder; 1943 Schedule, p. 68]

<sup>539</sup> There is a notation on the sketch which states: "Memo Vide L.O. [i.e. see letter of] May 6th 1884 to Indian Commr." The notation is intitalled, but the initials are difficult to discern. A letter of this date has not been located.

<sup>545</sup> In the federal collection, O'Reilly provides additional information with respect to this group. These Indians are currently known as Mamalilikulla-Qwe'qwa'sot'em. Sproat had visited this area in 1879 and although O'Reilly makes no mention of Sproat's trip, O'Reilly's allotments appear to be in the same general vicinity as Sproat's allotments. The reserves as allotted by O'Reilly are currently held by three different groups: Mahmalilikullah 1 is currently held by the Mamalilikulla-Qwe'qwa'sot'em (formerly Mamalelequala Que'qua'sot'enox and/or Mahmalilikullah), the Kwicksutaineuk-Ah-kwaw-ah-mish Indians hold reserves 2, 3 and 4 and the Da'naxda'xw First Nation (formerly Tanakteuk) holds reserve no. 5. [See Binder 5, Corr. No. 775/80, pp. 76-80; Federal Collection, vl. 11, pp. 253-55, 257, 265-68; vl. 18, pp. 139-47; NRCan Schedule (2005), pp. 44, 52, 57, 90, 101]

<sup>546</sup> Sproat states that 2 islands on which there are graves are also to be reserved, however, these islands appear not to have been confirmed as reserves.

<sup>548</sup> The name for this group has also been spelled Maltipe and Mah-teelth-pe; these Indians were formerly known as Tlowitsis-Mumtagila. Currently they are known as Tlowitsis Tribe. Sproat's allotments for this group were not confirmed. O'Reilly visited the area in 1886 and re-allotted the majority of the areas set aside by Sproat. [See Binder 8, Corr. No. 2816/87; NRCan Schedule (2005), pp. 71, 90]

<sup>549</sup> Also spelled Mah-telth-pe, Maltipe and/or Maltipi. These Indians subsequently amalgamated with Tournour Island (a.k.a. Klah-wit-sis). They are currently known as Tlowitsis Tribe (formerly Tlowitsis-Mumtagila). [See Federal Collection, vl. 11, pp. 271-76; 1943 Schedule, pp. 40-41; NRCan Schedule (2005), pp. 71, 90]

<sup>550</sup> The Federal version of this minute is dated "17 Oct 1879". As both this version and the surveyor's copy in the federal collection are dated 12 Dec 1879, it would appear that there was an error in transcription in the "True Copy." Sproat's allotment was not confirmed. [See Federal Collection, vl. 11, pp. 274, 276; vl. 16/3, pp. 63-65; vl. 18, pp. 107-117]

<sup>551</sup> The Federal version of this minute is dated "17 Oct 1879". Given that the surveyor's copy of this Minute is dated 12 Dec. 1879, it would appear that there was an error made in the transcription. O'Reilly re-allotted this reserve. [See Federal Collection, vl. 11, pp. 275-76; vl. 16/3, p. 65, vl. 18, p. 111]

<sup>562</sup> O'Reilly identifies the Indians only as "Tsimpsean". These two groups were resident at Fort Simpson and the Metlakatla. The majority of the reserves allotted by O'Reilly on this trip were either for the Metlakatla or allotted jointly between the Metlakatla and Fort Simpson (a.k.a. Port Simpson, currently Lax Kw'alaams). For the purpose of this index, the two groups will be identified as Metlakatla and Port Simpson. There are notations at the top of the page which state: "Memo!! Interview with Mr. O'Reilly Indian Commissioner May 8, 1882. Note Fort Simpson and Metlakatla reserve not approved of! Further consideration necessary & boundaries [?] defined. Geo. A. Walkem, C.C. L & W". At the end of this set of Minutes of decision and sketches are two documents apparently from the 1940s. The original docs not have page numbers. Pagination has been assigned for reference. [See Corr. No. 1464/82, this binder; Binder 8, Corr. No. 395/84; Federal Collection, vl. 9, pp. 18-57; NRCan Schedule (2005), p. 100]

<sup>571</sup> The Minute of decision and sketch for this reserve were previously registered in the Indian Land Registry as: ILR #14794, A.M.O.D. and sketch, Tsimpsean 2, Tsimpsean (currently held jointly by Lax Kw'alaams & Metlakatla).

<sup>572</sup> O'Reilly submits Minutes of decision for four (4) reserves defined by him "for the use of the Tsimpsean Indians." He notes that these "small plots of land were mentioned by the Indians to the Commissioners Messrs Cornwall and Planta last year" [ie. 1887]. There is a notation on the Minutes of decision which states: "Reserves No's [sic] 22, 23 & 24 Approved Reserve No. 25 disallowed - F.G. Vernon CCLW<sup>ksm</sup>" The four allowed reserves were allotted, and are still held in common, by the Metlakatla and Lax Kw'alaams (a.k.a. Port Simpson, Fort Simpson) Indians. <sup>573</sup> O'Reilly refers to a letter from the CCLW dated February 22, 1889 (not included in provincial collection). O'Reilly replies to the CCLW with respect to the assertion that settlers have a prior claim to lands defined by him for the Tsimpsean as reserves. O'Reilly asserts the Indians requirements for the lands. At one point he states: "... I submit that since the appointment of the Joint Commission to define reserves for the Indians, this is the first occasion upon which a simple notice of intention to purchase land, without even an attempt at improvement by the intending purchaser has been deemed sufficient to deprive the natives of their just rights." O'Reilly also refers to the Cornwall-Planta Commission and questions whether the provincial government has "kept faith" with the Indians.

<sup>576</sup> O'Reilly refers to his Minutes of decision submitted September 19, 1888. He advises that he is "satisfied the Indian claim to "Kish neelt (No. 25) cannot be upheld, and I therefore beg to withdraw it from the list of those reserves sent for your approval." He does, however, request that the other three reserves be approved. [See Corr No. 2332/88, pp. 2-3, this binder]

<sup>582</sup> The Commission encloses amended Minutes of decision for Squamish and Musqueam Indians. They state that the amendments were "satisfactory as we were told, to both whites and Indians." They further state that the Minutes of decision and map sent in November "may be considered as withdrawn." This letter is signed by McKinlay and Sproat. A similar letter was sent to Lawrence Vankoughnet, Superintendent General Indian Affairs Ottawa. It was signed by Anderson and Sproat. There are additional sketches in the Provincial set. [See Federal Collection, vl. 3, pp. 136-149a]

<sup>584</sup> In the provincial collection it appears that the original map has been torn in two. It is now identified as Maps 10 and 11. The date stamp on Map 10 has been partially obliterated, but it would be a date received stamp. Given the date of the covering letter is June 27, the date received stamp is most likely July 9, 1877. The upper portion of the the right hand side (Map 11) has been torn. The signatures have been completely or partially obliterated. In addition, the inset portion of the sketch which shows Inlailawatash 4, has been torn off. It can be seen on the federal sketch, which is in one piece. [See Federal Collection, vl. 3, p. 149a]

<sup>586</sup> This reserve was also known as Musqueam 3. At this point, Sproat is reiterating the original decision of the JIRC. It is unknown why Sproat dated this reiteration November 10th, 1876, when the JIRC Minute of decision is dated June 15, 1877. In the federal collection, there is a marginal note by Sam Bray which states: "Apparently an error - Mr. Sproat was not acting as sole commissioner at this date. S.B." This would be correct. The status of this initial allotment is uncertain. The 1943 Schedule cites June 30, 1879 as the allotment date, even though Sproat is reiterating a previous allotment. [See Federal Collection, vl. 3, pp. 140, 148; 1943 Schedule p. 162; NRCan Schedule (2005), p. 59]

<sup>591</sup> This group amalgamated with the Quawshelah and are currently known as Gwasala-Nakwaxda'xw. A more detailed account of O'Reilly's meeting with these Indians can be found in the field minute in the federal collection. This was O'Reilly's second trip to this area. There is a marginal notation on the covering letter which states: "Approved F.G. Vernon C.C.L.W. January 15, 1889." There is no pagination in the original. <sup>592</sup> Spelled by Sproat "Noo-we-tec", this name has also been spelled Nuwitti or Nahwitti. These Indians are currently known as Tlatlasikwala. For consistency in the index the spelling Nahwitti is used. This reserve was to include an islet in Bull Harbour known as "Indian Island". O'Reilly re-allotted reserves in this area. <sup>593</sup> The Nahwitti Indians are currently known as Tlatlasikwala. In his field minute, found in the federal collection, O'Reilly provides more detail regarding his meeting with this group. [See Federal Collection, vl. 11, pp. 247-251; vl. 18, pp. 191-95; 1943 Schedule, pp. 42-43; NRCan Schedule (2005), p. 92]

<sup>594</sup> O'Reilly submits Minutes of decision and sketches for eight (8) different groups "resident between the eastern shore of Vancouver Island, and the West coast of the Mainland." The groups have been known by different names over the years. O'Reilly also provides, for the first time, a table with information related to the population, acreage, livestock and cultivable land. He notes that the "several plots of land ... are of a very worthless character, they are, with few exceptions, merely fishing stations, the land being incapable of cultivation ..." There are two notations which were written on the back of the first page of the letter which states, in part: "The within Reerves are hereby approved with the exception of No. 3 for Fort Rupert Indians ..." The first note is signed by Wm. Smithe, CCLW. The second note, noting the problem had been resolved, was written in 1887, is signed by F.G. Vernon, CCLW. Also, for the first time, the pages Minutes of decision are numbered, however, rather than numbering the submission consecutively from beginning to end, each new group begins again with the number "1". For clarity for the purpose of this index, consecutive page numbers are provided for reference. The names used in this index correlate to the names used in the federal collection index. In the federal collection, O'Reilly submitted separate field minutes for each group.

<sup>595</sup> This reserve was to include an islet in Bull Harbour known as "Indian Island". Sproat also recommended that the settler in the vicinity of the main Indian village not be disturbed as he has made improvements to the land "and as the Indians expressed a desire to have several white traders near them." It would appear, however, that the islet was not included in the reserve.

<sup>602</sup> The Nass River Indians are now identified as Nisga'a. As a result of the Nisga'a Treaty and the act ratifying the treaty in April 2000, all of the reserves allotted to the Nisga'a are identified as Nisga'a lands. The reserves are considered to be held by the Nisga'a in fee simple. The groups within the Nisga'a are currently identified as the Nisga'a Villages of: New Aiyansh (formerly Gitlakdamix, a.k.a Aiyansh), Gitwinkshilkw (a.k.a. Gwinaha/Canyon City), Laxgalt'sap (formerly Lakalzap, a.k.a Greenville) and Gingolx (formerly Kincolith). The sketches included with the Minutes are all signed as "Approved" by the CCLW, George A. Walkem. They are dated May 8, 1882. O'Reilly's field minute in the federal collection contains more detail regarding his visit to this area, including additional information regarding settlers. <sup>603</sup> The original correspondence number is very difficult to read. Someone has re-written it. There is a notation on the left hand side which states: "For amended Decisions see 395/84". O'Reilly forwards "rough plans and descriptions for reserves laid out" by him for the Nass River and Tsimpsean Indians. He notes that the reserves do not include "the whole of the lands it may be necessary to assign to these Indians as owing to the lateness of the season" he was unable to visit all the places claimed by them for fishing and "other purposes." No additional information is provided by O'Reilly. In the federal collection, however, he provides field minutes which provide more detail on his interaction with these Indians. The Tsimpsean Indians, as identified by O'Reilly have since split into two groups: Metlakatla and Lax Kw'alaams (formerly known as Port Simpson). The Nass River Indians are currently known as Nisga'a. Pagination has been assigned to the M.O.D.s and sketches for reference. [See Binder 8, Corr. No. 395/84; Federal Collection, vl. 9, pp. 18-57, 76-113, NRCan Schedule (2005), pp. 91-92, 94]

<sup>604</sup> O'Reilly identifies these Indians as "Nass River." This set of Minutes of decision includes allotments for four groups: Kincolith, Lakalzap, Gitwinksihlkw and Gitlakdamix. As a result of their treaty and the Act ratifying the treaty in April 2000, these Indians are currently known respectively as the Nisga'a Villages of Gingolx, Laxgalt'sap, Gitwinksihlkw and New Aiyansh. There is no pagination on the original Minutes of decision. Page numbers have been provided for reference. On the covering letter there are some notations: "See O/C 108, 1887 re appointing Commissioner. See also Sessional Papers 1887 for report leading up to appointment of Commissioner. Approved see over." [See Binder 7, Corr. No. 506/82; Federal Collection, vl. 11, pp. 25-48; NRCan Schedule (2005), pp. 77-79, 91]

<sup>607</sup> Vowell forwards the plan of the Nazko reserve for final approval and signature. It is noteworthy that more than 5 years have passed since the original allotment and nearly 5 since the approval by the CCLW. Although there is a correspondence number of 24157/09 on the letter, the material has been included within 7219/04.

<sup>619</sup> Vowell forwards six plans for reserves approval of the CCLW (not in collection). The First Nations identified are: Necoslie (currently Nak'azdli), Tache and Trembleur Lake (both currently part of Tl'at'en Nations). All the reserves were allotted by O'Reilly. Vowell states the reserves were approved April 15, 1893, however, the date of approval on the covering letter states April 14, 1893. [See Corr No. 272/99, this binder; Binder 11, Corr. No. 902/93; NRCan Schedule (2005), pp. 91, 99]

<sup>620</sup> This group is currently known as Xeni Gwetin First Nations. The name has also been spelled "Nemiah Valley." Vowell's field minute in the federal collection provides more detail about his trip to this area. There is a marginal notation at the commencement of the Minutes of decision indicating that the allotments were approved by the CCLW on October 18, 1899. This version of Vowell's covering letter and Minutes of decision have been taken from a microfilm copy. The copy included in the collection is poor and difficult to read. In addition to the black and white microfilm copies of the sketches, there are photographs of the sketches as well. The provenance of the photos and the microfilm copy is not known. Pagination from the microfilm copy has been used. [See Federal Collection, vl. 15, pp. 133-51; NRCan Schedule (2005), pp. 75, 92]

<sup>623</sup> The Surveyor General forwards the plan of the Nemaiah Valley reserves. The letter is somewhat puzzling as the SG makes certain statements which do not seem to coincide with the facts. For example, he states, "[y]ou will please note that these minutes of decision have not been approved as they are not signed by the Chief Commissioner ..." This is a curious statement, as the version included in the collection was approved in October 1899. The SG also notes the difference in area for Tanakut 4. He states the difference is accounted for in the Lake frontage. The same reason is provided for the lower acreage of Chilco Lake 1. He finally states that the "No. 3" reserve is "not yet surveyed." As the plan for the Nemaiah Valley depicts all four reserves, it is unclear what plan the SG was forwarding.

<sup>624</sup> Identified as Meadow reserve. There is a handwritten note at the end of the minutes of decision which states: "Note The consideration if this matter has been laid over for cause. W.S.G. [W.S. Gore, CCLW] 16/2/05" It is unclear what this statement means. It is noteworthy that the comment is written approximately four and a half years after Vowell's allotments.

<sup>625</sup> This group is identified by the JIRC as "South Thompson or Niskahnith Indians". "Niskahnith" has also been spelled, Neskainlith. The current spelling is Neskonlith for both the reserves and the First Nation. This reserve is described by the JIRC as an "old reserve", i.e. a colonial reserve. It was cited in the 1871 Schedule prepared by B.C. as "Right bank of Thompson River, extending back to Lake" and is attributed to "Shuswap." On the 1875 Schedule published by the Dominion, it is item no. 73, identified as "Shuswap Lake." [See 1943 Schedule, p. 30; NRCan Schedule (2005), pp. 60, 92; PILQ, p. 105, item Q (1); 1875 Dominion Reserve Schedule, p. 103, item 73]

<sup>628</sup> This reserve was once part of a larger area which was allotted by the JIRC as a reserve to be used in common by the "South Thompson or Niskahnith Indians, Adams Lake Indians and Little Shuswap Lake Indians". The current reserves have been substantially altered since the original allotment. The description of this land is oriented incorrectly; the cardinal points are reversed. This makes the reserve description very problematic, however, given other geographic locators, a survey done by Edward Mohun in 1877, and a survey done by E.M. Skinner in 1885 there is no doubt that Switsemalph 3 is part the larger area in question. Skinner described the common reserve as "No. 1." This area now comprises Switsemalph 3, Switsemalph 6 and Switsemalph 7; the first reserve is held by Neskonlith, the latter two by Adams Lake. The 1943 Schedule incorrectly cites August 13, 1877 as the date of allotment. The description of the area is clearly dated August 16, 1877 on the original. [See Federal Collection, vl. 1, pp. 96, 98, 99; vl. 3, pp. 198-200, 202-204; vl. 16/1, pp. 11-12; CLSRBC 221; CLSRBC 7025; CLSRBC 192; CLSRBC 7; 1943 Schedule, pp. 26, 27, 30]

<sup>629</sup> The report is somewhat difficult to read. The ink is blotchy and has run in some spots. Within the report, reference is made to the "Provincial Commissioners", this would appear to be in reference to both McKinlay and Sproat, who sign the report. N.B.: a transcription has been done of the letter.

<sup>634</sup> Powell encloses a letter from Indian Agent MacKay related to the water privileges of the "Niskahnith" Indians as assigned by the JIRC in 1877. Powell requests that the provincial government take "such steps ... as may be considered necessary to protect the Indians from the evil complained of." The "Niskahnith" Indians are currently identified as Neskonlith. [See NRCan Schedule (2005), p. 92]

<sup>635</sup> Sproat makes reference to his letter of April 12 "last", this could be the letter found in Binder 1, Corr. No. 883/78. Sproat is writing to the CCLW about the "Lower Fraser Reserves." He requests that the CCLW "reserve from pre-emption" all lands near reserves in the New Westminster District until he has "examined it." He encloses a list of lands which he particularly desires to be reserved from pre-emption. The three areas he describes cover a substantial distance: the first covers about 20 miles; the second approximately 9 miles and the third approximately 11 miles. It should be noted that it appears that on the first and third description Sproat has confused the left and right banks of the Fraser River. Notably, Scowlitz is on the right bank, not the left and the waggon road is on the left and not the right bank. It is possible that Sproat had not yet visited the area. If he was orienting himself from the waggon road, the, it appears he was unaware that the waggon road changed sides of the river at Alexandra.

<sup>637</sup> O'Reilly provides a tabular list of Indian reserves allotted by Sproat in 1879, surveyed in 1881, but not approved by the CCLW, "as required by the Order in Council of 8th March 1878." Although O'Reilly identifies the area as the "New Westminster District", at the time of Sproat's work, these reserves were within the Yale District, where he had authority to allot reserves. O'Reilly notes that the plans had been forwarded in May 1881 and July 1882 and that, based upon information from the Indian Agent, the reserves are all occupied, cultivated and improved and no attempt has been made to encroach upon them. O'Reilly requests that the reserves be approved.

<sup>644</sup> Sproat identifies this group as "Nicoamen". Although Sproat allots this reserve in 1878, the 1943 Schedule indicates that this reserve was allotted by Order-in-Council December 2, 1895. The current reserve appears to be in the same location as Sproat's allotment. Interestingly, the date of allotment for this reserve is the same as that for other Nicomen reserves for which the Minutes of decision are found in binder 4. [See Binder 4, Corr. No. 269/80; Federal Collection, vl. 3, pp. 332-360; 1943 Schedule, p. 104]

<sup>654</sup> Spelled Nimkeesh by Sproat. This group is currently known as the Namgis First Nation. Sproat excludes 320 acres from his allotment. Sproat's allotments for these Indians were not confirmed. He did not have authority from the B.C. government to allot reserves in this area. O'Reilly visited the area in 1884 and 1886. His allotments were confirmed. [See Binder 8, Corr. No. 2817/86, pp. 11-14; Federal Collection, vl. 11, pp. 258-64; vl. 18, pp. 163-165; NRCan Schedule (2005), pp. 59, 91]

<sup>655</sup> O'Reilly states that Cormorant Island is "held under lease by Messrs. Spencer, and Earle, the circumstances of which are fresh in your memory. I may mention that before defining these reserves I conferred with Mr. Spencer on the ground, and that he expressed himself perfectly satisfied with the arrangement made by me." These Indians are currently known as Namgis. [See Corr. No. 1125/84, this binder; Binder 5, Corres. No. 775/80; NRCan Schedule (2005), p. 92; Federal Collection, vl. 10, pp. 1-2]

<sup>656</sup> These Indians are currently known as Namgis First Nation. O'Reilly spelled the band name "Nimkeesh". They were also known as Nimkish. This was O'Reilly's second trip to this area. He had also visited this group almost exactly two years earlier in 1884. [See Corr. No. 3139/84, this binder]

<sup>659</sup> O'Reilly refers to a conversation with the CCLW that morning and suggests that he should proceed to Cormorant Island "at some convenient time during the present season to ascertain what quantity of land is necessary for the Indians" as leases for the land are being allowed and "portions of the Leasehold ... may be deemed necessary for the use of the Indians." O'Reilly states that this "should be done in justice to the Tribe who have inhabited that portion of Cormorant Island known as Alert Bay for many generations ..." Sproat had visited the area previously, however, his work was not confirmed. [See Corr. No. 3138/84, this binder; Binder 5, Corres. No. 775/80]

<sup>662</sup> The sketch included in the collection is a photocopy. Based upon O'Reilly's letter, the original sketch was in colour. The land for the school site is on the western section of the island. In order to acquire the land for the school, the lessee, Mr. Spencer, would have to relinquish the land. O'Reilly recommends that Spencer be given notice, so that Indian Affairs "may, without delay, proceed to the erection of the contemplated buildings." An additional notation on the sketch states: "Now known as L. 1957 Rupert 412 Acres" The pre-emption and previously allotted reserves are also depicted on the sketch. [See Binder 10, Corr. <sup>663</sup> O'Reilly refers to the CCLW's letter dated November 20, 1889 (enclosed typescript) in which the CCLW advised O'Reilly that the lessee on Cormorant Island had been informed that the provincial government intended to "resume possession" of that portion of the island identified by O'Reilly. O'Reilly advises the CCLW that Indian Affairs has "fully decided" to proceed with the establishment of the school. O'Reilly requests that the CCLW approve setting aside the land as an Indian reserve. <sup>665</sup> There are two sketches included here. The first is a black and white photocopy. It has the initials "F.G.V.", i.e. Forbes George Vernon, CCLW, and the notation: "now known as Lot 1957 Rupert 412 Ac". Although it is a black and white photocopy, the previously allotted reserves (Alert Bay 1 and Nimpkish 2) can be seen. The second sketch is a photograph of a colour sketch. It is different from the other sketch (no comments). The provenance of the photo is unknown. The previously allotted reserves (Alert Bay 1 and Nimpkish 2) are depicted in red/pink on the photograph and the sketch. [See Binder 9, Corr. No. 2755/89]

<sup>676</sup> There is a notation on the sketch at p. 14 which states: "These sketches do not belong to the minutes of decision of 1891. [??] 5008/91 but were brought over here by Mr. A. Green [Ashdown Green, surveyor to the IRC] when the Nitinat survey of Saouk[?] was up for discussion." The note is dated "24/11/93" and initialled, however, the initials are unknown. This remark would also appear to apply to the sketch found at p. 13. These two sketches (pp. 13, 14) are the same as those found in the federal collection.

Currently, the Nootka Indians are identified as Mowachaht/Muchalaht. [See Federal Collection, vl. 12, pp. 258-283; 1943 Schedule, pp. 179-181; NRCan Schedule (2005), pp. 58-59, 92]

<sup>680</sup> Although not stated in the Minute of decision, Yuquot was the main village site for the Nootka Indians. There has been considerable archaeological work there.

<sup>681</sup> The signature block is missing from this covering letter, however, based upon the similar letter found in the federal collection, it would appear that Sproat and McKinlay would have signed off the letter to the CCLW. Interestingly, this letter is dated one day earlier than the federal letter enclosing the same Minutes of decision. The covering letter may have been separated from the Minutes of decision as it has a later correspondence number than the Minutes themselves. Indeed, a correspondence no. "155/78" is noted at the top of the page, but is crossed out. No sketches are included with these Minutes. It is noted in the covering letter that the sketches are unfinished "owing to open questions," but will be sent as soon as "these questions are settled." These Minutes of decision relate to the JIRC's work in the summer and fall of 1877, prior to the Commission being disbanded. [See Federal Collection, vl. 3, pp. 150-263]

<sup>682</sup> Sproat encloses Minutes of decision for work done "in the past season in matters left over for adjustment by the Reserve Commission during the previous season." He requests that these Minutes be attached as a "supplement to the 1877 decisions." He also states that "in due course" he will submit more succinct descriptions of the reserves as soon as the maps being prepared from the "actual surveys" are completed. In this version some revised allotment dates are given, however, the date relied upon is that of the allotment by the JIRC in 1877. Sproat's signature is found at the end of the Minutes of decision. N.B.: The provincial version is quite difficult to read, the versions found in vl. 2 and vl. 3 of the federal collection are much more legible. [See Binder 2, Corr. Nos. 1084/78, 1081/78; Federal Collection, vl. 1, pp. 12-13, 92-107; vl. 2, pp. 116-123; vl. 3, pp. 3-23, 150-263; 1943 Schedule, pp. 29-30]

<sup>683</sup> This reserve and Louis Creek 4 are allotted by the JIRC for the North Thompson, Canoe Lake and Kamloops Indians. These two reserves are currently held exclusively by the North Thompson Indians (currently known as the Simpcw First Nation). Barriere River 3 was sold in 1921 in exchange for Barriere River 3A. [See 1943 Schedule, 31; NRCan Schedule (2005), NRCan Schedule (2005), pp. 65, 92]

<sup>684</sup> The JIRC allot a reserve at the "old Indian settlement at Canoe Lake", but acknowledge they had not been able to visit the area and that the "exact boundaries must be hereafter defined." The exact location of this settlement is not known. Although there was a colonial reserve allotted to the Canoe Creek Indians in the vicinity of Canoe Creek, it seems improbable that the JIRC were referring to that land as they did not "confirm" the area, nor did they describe it as an "original" reserve, two terms commonly used when dealing with colonial reserves. Other reserves for Canoe Creek Indians were allotted by O'Reilly in 1881. [See Binder 3, Corr. No. 368/79; Federal Collection, vl. 3, p. 160]

<sup>685</sup> This reserve was originally identified by the JIRC. Sproat does not provide a revised date. The date used is the date from the covering letter. Sproat states that the North Thompson and Canoe Lake Indians have agreed to have reserves in common. The comment is virtually the same as that made by the JIRC in the originally submitted Minutes of decision. It does not appear that this area ever became a reserve. The North Thompson Indians are currently known as the Simpcw First Nation. [See Binder 2, Corr. No. 1081/78; Federal Collection, vl. 2, p. 117, NRCan Schedule (2005), p. 92]

<sup>687</sup> It is not known who the "Canoe Lake Indians" were. It would appear that they were part of the North Thompson group which resided at "Canoe Lake." It has not been possible to determine which lake in the area of North Thompson was formerly identified as "Canoe Lake." There is a note at the beginning of the MODs for this group which states: "North Thompson and Canoe Lake Indians, which tribes agreed to have reserves in common." This reserve and reserve numbers 2, 3, and 4 are currently held by the Simpcw First Nation (formerly the North Thompson Indians). It would seem that this reserve includes the forty acres of land noted to be adjoining the reserve. This reserve was also known as Chu Chua 1. [See Federal Collection, vl. 3, pp. 154-60; 1943 Schedule, p. 30; NRCan Schedule (2005), pp. 65, 92; CLSRBC 136]

<sup>688</sup> In the federal collection, O'Reilly's field minute provides more detail with respect to the sub-groups for whom allotments were made at Esperanza Inlet. In the provincial collection, the allotments for the two groups are delineated only by the sketches. Reserves 1 through 9 were allotted to the Nuchatlitz, currently known as the Nuchatlaht. Reserves 10 through 13 were allotted to the Ehatisaht, currently known as Ehattesaht. In this instance, for the purposes of the index, the former spellings are used for the sub-groups and the larger group, Esperanza Inlet, is also identified. [See Federal Collection, vl. 12, pp. 234-256; 1943 Schedule, pp. 174-176; NRCan Schedule (2005), pp. 45, 61, 84, 93]

<sup>689</sup> Although this group is not specifically cited, other correspondence indicates this is the First Nation to which reference is made. Vowell writes to Vernon regarding encroachment of the Hope-Popcum [sci] wagon road on Indian reserves. Vowell states that any Indian improvements will have to be compensated. Ohamil is currently known as Shxw'ow'hamel First Nation. It should be noted that the Ohamil reserve fell within the Railway Belt. [See Corr. <sup>690</sup> The sketch is undated. For indexing purposes the date attributed to the sketch is the same date as the Minute of decision.

<sup>694</sup> Vowell refers to a letter from the CCLW dated January 29, 1895 (not in collection). He complains to the CCLW that the level of compensation to the Ohamil Indians for the road traversing the reserve is inadequate. He provides a list of Indians to be compensated and the amount they should receive. [See Corr. Nos. 2787/94, 2827/94]

<sup>695</sup> Vowell refers to a letter from the CCLW dated February 11, 1895 (not in collection) regarding compensation for the Ohamil Indians. No figures are provided, however, Vowell thanks the CCLW for his attention to the matter and states that he has notified the Indian Agent "to endeavour to make the Indians content with the amount" cited by the CCLW. [See Corr. No. 574/95, this binder]

<sup>697</sup> These Indians are currently known as Huu-ay-aht First Nation. The Band's name has also previously been spelled Ohiaht. O'Reilly provided no additional information to the CCLW, however, in the federal collection, there is a detailed Field Minute. The sketches are signed "Approved Wm. Smithe CC of L & W." There is no approval date on the sketches. [See Federal Collection, vl. 10, pp. 356-377; NRCan Schedule (2005), pp. 48-49, 93]

<sup>698</sup> Two copies of a sketch for this reserve are included. The first is coloured green and the second a red/pink. The latter sketch would be a later sketch. <sup>701</sup> A portion of this reserve was cut-off by McKenna-McBride, August 14, 1914. The cut-off claim was settled in October 1989. [See 1943 Schedule, p. 181]

<sup>703</sup> O'Reilly submits the Minutes of decision and sketches for seven communities along the west coast of Vancouver Island. He notes that the reserves for the "Nitinat" [currently known as Dididaht] and "Pacheena" [currently known as Pacheedaht] have not been completed as he was unable to visit all their fishing stations. Curiously, the Correspondence No. for the Minutes of decision is clearly shown to be "225/85." This clearly indicates that these Minutes and sketches were included with correspondence from 1885. There is a marginal notation which states: "Enclosed in 1385/82 L.I." [L.I.: letter incoming]. The Minutes are dated 1882. There is no correspondence in the federal collection indicating that additional work was done in 1885 in this area by O'Reilly. It is possible that the original copy submitted by O'Reilly was misplaced and another copy provided in 1885. As the Minutes of decision and sketches were originally submitted and dated 1882, the correspondence number cited will be 1385/82. There is a signature, or signature stamp, on the sketches which states: "Approved Wm. Smith, C.C. L & W". There are no page numbers in the original. Pagination has been assigned for reference. [See Federal Collection, vl. 10, pp. 308-392]

<sup>713</sup> The letter is from Drake and Jackson, Barristers to A.C. Elliott, Provincial Secretary, regarding Mr. O'Keefe being required to remove his crops by "a certain hour of a certain day in March." Drake and Jackson state that they have advised Mr. O'Keefe "to resist all attempts of the Indians to interfere with his land, crops and property by force if necessary." Interestingly, this letter has no correspondence number.

<sup>714</sup> Sproat advises that he has heard a rumour that Commission's decision regarding O'Keefe's land may be "the subject of an examination by the Supreme Court." Sproat requests to be allowed to present "the opposite side of the case from that of Mr. O'Keefe."

<sup>715</sup> Sproat writes on various outstanding issues. He makes inquiries as to the O'Keefe matter. Interestingly, Sproat states that the "Nicola Chief" and the "Okanagan Chief" are the same man. He does not provide a name. He goes on to discuss general issues relating to the work of the Commission, including the cost of the Commission. At one point he refers to the "existing arrangements" as being "merely experimental." (p. 3)

<sup>716</sup> Sproat states that while at Douglas Lake a delegation of Okanagan Indians came to him to complain again about the presence of Mr. O'Keefe on their land. Sproat states that, "I again renewed my advice to the Indians that they should not meet the proceedings of Mr. O'Keefe by action of a similar character, but should continue to act with the prudence and self control which they have hitherto shown." (p. 2). At another point, Sproat inquires, "... whether a man by ploughing a piece of land and putting a fence around it, can acquire legal title to 320 acres. // If so, the land act [sic] is useless ..." (p. 3).

<sup>725</sup> Moffatt refers to a road which "is about to be run through the Opitchesaht [sic] Reserve, which measure if carried out, will be a great inconvenience & hardship to the Indians of that Band." Moffatt does not specify which reserve. These Indians are currently known as Hupa'asath First Nation. Moffatt suggests that, if possible, the road take some other route. A note on the back of the letter states: Ack Say the Govt Agent at Alberni will be instructed to make the road by another route." [See Corr. No. 2506/87, this binder]

<sup>726</sup> This letter to the CCLW pre-dates O'Reilly's reporting letter to the Superintendent General of Indian Affairs by almost 4 months. O'Reilly advises the CCLW of the presence of a settler named Charles Taylor "occupying a portion of land belonging to the Opetchisaht tribe." O'Reilly reports that Taylor claimed the land under a pre-emption record dated November 16, 1872, however Taylor "admitted... that the Indian village stood upon the land prior to his record." O'Reilly states that he thought it best to "place this fact before you lest any application should be made for a title in his name." O'Reilly included the area in the reserve allotted to the Indians. In the federal collection field minute, O'Reilly provides some additional information, including that it was the Chief, Ka-now-ish, who complained about Taylor's presence and that the Chief desired to have Taylor removed. The sketch indicates the location of Taylor's house. [See Federal Collection, vl. 10, pp. 379-82; CLSRBC 39]

<sup>733</sup> O'Reilly submits three original plans and tracings and a tabular statement indicating when and by whom reserves for Oregon Jack Creek and Lytton were defined and approved or not. The table is included with the correspondence, but copies of the plans are not. O'Reilly advises the CCLW that the surveys of reserves for the Oregon Jack Creek and Lytton Indians have been completed. O'Reilly notes that, "for the most part" the reserves had been set aside by Sproat, but the work was completed by him in 1881 (approximately six years earlier). O'Reilly also notes that the reserves set aside by Sproat had not previously been submitted for approval, however, those defined by him, had been approved by Walkem on May 23, 1882. With respect to the additional reserves set aside by O'Reilly (Upper Nepa 6, South Nepa 7 and Papyum 27), O'Reilly notes that he was advised by the CCLW on August 18, 1886 "that the lands being situated in the Railway belt, did not come within his jurisdiction. Subsequently he informed me verbally that he had more fully considered the matter, and that he was prepared to approve of them ..." This, however, did not occur due to business of the legislative assembly and the ill health of the CCLW. O'Reilly concludes by noting that, "[a]ll these lands are in the occupation of the Indians, and have been more or less improved by them. I trust therefore that you will be able to assent to their being officially declared Indian Reserves."

<sup>738</sup> The date "16th and 21st November 1877" is given as the date of decision. This page contains the error in township identification; rather than reading 50 and 51, it reads 5 and 6. The numbers 5 and 6 have been crossed out and the numbers 50 and 51 have been written in. The federal collection contains some additional information regarding this error. Volume 2, in particular has three inserted pages entitled "Erratum," signed by Anderson and McKinlay. This original allotment differs from the current shape of the reserve. The "error" was finally settled through a Specific Claim involving the First Nation, Canada and B.C. The date of the settlement is Dec. 12, 1997. At the end of the Minutes of decision for the Osoyoos Indians (pp. 50-51), the JIRC note that the Indians wanted more extended frontage on the Okanagan River. The JIRC note that upon returning next season they may alter their decisions if it is possible and has the full consent of the Indians. The JIRC was disbanded before it could return to the area. [See Federal Collection vl. 2, pp. 152-161, esp. pp. 154, 160; 1943 Schedule, p. 109; NRCan Schedule (2005), p. 62; CLSRBC 232]

<sup>740</sup> The marginal notation states: "Decision 16th and 21st November 1877 Reviewed 9th Oct 1878." Sproat states that he reviewed both the request of Messrs. Haynes and Lowe and that of the Indians and decided that neither could be granted. He then reiterates the description of the Osoyoos reserve using the Roman Numeral L [50] and LI [51]. There is a marginal notation on the second page which states: "The Indian Commission have no authority to confer any water rights upon these or any other Indians." The initials are difficult to discern, but they look like "W.G." and possibly "P.R." beneath. The "W.G." would be William Gore, Surveyor General for B.C.

<sup>743</sup> Sproat submits an eleven page report on the matter of Osoyoos 1. The report includes an extract from the Minutes of decision by the JIRC (pp. 1-2), copies of letters sent to the CCLW and the former members of the JIRC and two sketches. Sproat concludes the report by noting that the sale by the provincial government to Haynes included about 4245 acres of the Osoyoos Indian Reserve.

<sup>744</sup> The page states: "Memorandum for reference" and identifies Sproat's letter to the CCLW dated April 9, 1879, with covering report and correspondence. This material can be found in Binder 3 of this collection. A copy can also be found in the federal collection. [See Binder 3, Corr. Nos. 433/79, 434/79, 740/79; Federal Collection, vl. 2, pp. 143-147]

<sup>745</sup> Three letters are included here. Interestingly, the "covering" letter appears to be a letter from J.C. Haynes, Stipendiary Magistrate at Osoyoos, to Geo. Walkem. Haynes encloses what appears to be an original letter from Sproat and a copy of the letter he (Haynes) wrote to Sproat in reply. Interestingly, the correspondence identified by a correspondence number in this trio is the letter from Sproat to Haynes "of Osoyoos New Westminster". Neither of the two letters from Haynes have correspondence numbers. In his letter to Haynes, Sproat advises that the purchase of the Osoyoos reserve land "will be departmental, and not under the care of the Reserve Commission." [See Corr. Nos. 433/79, 434/79 this binder]

<sup>746</sup> Henry Moffatt, writing for the Indian Superintendent, reports that the Indian Agent for the Kamloops and Okanagan District, J.W. MacKay, has written stating that all the "marsh land belonging to the Indian reserve at Osoyoos [sic], allotted by the late [i.e. former] Indian Reserve Commission "has been sold, or is being sold, and the Indians are very much exercised thereat as they require the marsh grass to winter their stock." Moffatt notes that a portion of the land was sold "some years since to J.C. Haynes Esq." and a Mr. Patterson, C.E. is surveying the remainder. Moffatt also notes that the north end of the reserve has been pre-empted and surveyed by Patterson for a man named Armstrong. Moffatt suggests that no patents be issued until the "Indian claims" are finally adjusted. A notation on the first page states: "Ack 23/9/84". This letter is not included in the provincial collection. [See Corres. No. 2998/84, this binder]

<sup>748</sup> Powell refers to a letter from the CCLW dated December 4, 1884. This letter is not contained in the collection, however, Powell quotes from it and refers to its contents. Powell's letter is strongly worded. In light of the fact that Haynes acquired all the cultivable land in the vicinity, Powell suggests that "in the event of the Commissioner [ie. O'Reilly] being unable to find any vacant cultivable Crown lands in the locality, the money paid by Mr. Haynes should be devoted to a settlement of the question..." N.B.: In this instance, the correspondence number is out of sequence. The letter dated December 9 and this one are both date stamped as received December 11. In this case, the earlier dated letter was given the second/higher correspondence number.

<sup>751</sup> The original narrative index suggested that this memorandum was an attachment to the letter dated January 9, 1888. The problem is that the memo is dated January 24, 1888. The context is somewhat difficult to glean, however, it seems that the memo was a response to a letter from the CCLW, which is not included in the provincial collection. The queries would appear to relate to the use of reserve lands by the Indians. Powell points out the uncertainty which exists with respect to the lands because of the province's failure to confirm the work of the Indian Reserve Commissions. It is also perhaps notable that the CCLW would have asserted that the Indians on the Osoyoos reserve had 1100 acres each per family.

<sup>754</sup> This band name is currently spelled Pacheenaht. O'Reilly notes that this was his second visit to this group. His first visit was in 1882. [See Binder 7, Corr. No. 1385/82, pp. 43-45; Federal Collection, vl. 12, 298-302;]

<sup>755</sup> O'Reilly submits plans for the CCLW's "final approval and signature." He notes that the minutes of decision had already been approved and that tracings of the plans and duplicate field books will be forwarded. The plans are not included in the provincial collection.

<sup>757</sup> The Pacheena Indians are currently known as Pacheedaht First Nation. O'Reilly refers to the letter from the CCLW dated July 17, 1894 (not in collection) in which the CCLW advised O'Reilly that a portion of the "N.W. quarter of Section 12, Township 10, Renfrew District lying to the west of Harris Creek was available for an Indian fishery." O'Reilly cites correspondence number 2373/94. This is, in fact, a letter from O'Reilly to the CCLW asking that land in the area be withheld from pre-emption. Interestingly, O'Reilly states he has, "after examination ... subject to your approval, duly declared it a reserve for the use of the Pacheena tribe." Notations on the page state: "See L.I. [letter incoming] 2028/94" and "Ans 27/11/94". The response is not included in the collection. [See Corr. Nos. 2028/94, 2373/94, this binder; Federal Collection, vl. 20, pp. 160a-160; NRCan Schedule (2005), p. 93]

<sup>758</sup> Vowell applies to the CCLW for 40 acres of land for a fishing station on the San Juan River. He notes that he had made the verbal request on April 4, 1894, but had been advised that a settler had a pre-emption claim on the land. Since that time Vowell has learned that the settler failed to comply with the laws regarding pre-emptions, thus, Vowell reasserts his claim to the land on behalf of the Indians, noting that the interests of the "second party" would not be prejudiced. Although he does not specifically identify the Indians, based upon later correspondence, the Indian group is Pacheena (currently known as Pacheedaht). [See Corr. Nos. 2373/94, 4349/94, this binder; NRCan Schedule (2005), pp. 62, 93]

<sup>759</sup> O'Reilly refers to the CCLW's letter dated June 26, 1894 (not in collection) and securing a portion of land for the Pacheena Indians as a fishing station. O'Reilly requests that if the land is declared to be vacant that the CCLW will not entertain any further applications until the area necessary for the Indians has been set apart for them. [See Corr. Nos. 2028/94, 2373/94, 4349/94, this binder]

<sup>766</sup> O'Reilly forwards to the CCLW for his "information and approval, rough plans and descriptions of the lands reserved by me ..." O'Reilly identifies six groups and provides no other information with respect to his allotments. In the federal collection a detailed field minute can be located for each group. The Minutes of decision do not follow in the order cited by O'Reilly. [See Federal Collection, vl. 8, pp. 9-48, 49-56, 57-78, "Third Copy" at the end of the volume; vl. 9, pp. 240-265, 266-281, 282-290]

<sup>767</sup> These Indians are currently known as Mount Currie. In the covering letter, O'Reilly states: "With regard to the reserves for the Pemberton Indians, I have the honour to request you to direct that for the present no pre-emption claim be recorded, or sale of land made in the tract of country known as the Upper, and Lower Pemberton Meadows, the reserves for these Indians having not been finally dealt with." Despite O'Reilly's request, later evidence suggests that pre-emptions were allowed. [See NRCan Schedule (2005), p. 93]

<sup>778</sup> W.S. Gore, Deputy Commissioner Lands & Works, refers to another letter to Vowell dated March 14, 1905 (not in collection). Gore advises Vowell that the approval of the Mount Currie 6 reserve (i.e. Pemberton Meadows) "was subject to the timber lease covering a portion of that ground." Gore advises that a lease was granted April 1, 1891 and renewed April 1, 1903 for a period of 21 years. Gore states he has enclosed a tracing which shows the timber leasehold and the reserve (not included in the collection).

<sup>779</sup> Pages 9 through 14 are all additional correspondence related to both Mount Currie 6 and Mount Currie 7. No correspondence number was given to the documents. For the purpose of this index, Corr. No. 950/07 has been used, as it is the later dated material. Given the date of this memo (1924), it is possible that this memo relates to the work of Ditchburn and Clark, there is, however no signature to confirm this. Reference is made to the "Royal Commission on Indian Affairs" [i.e. McKenna-McBride] confirming Mount Currie 6 without any reference to the timber lease.

<sup>782</sup> The CCLW advises that if arrangements can be made with Mr. Bell to abandon his pre-emption, which is surrounded by Mount Currie 6, then "there will be no objection to the ground being included within the Indian reserve."

<sup>783</sup> Vowell advises that the Pemberton Indians paid Mr. Bell $150 for his land and that his pre-emption has been cancelled. This land is now set aside as Mount Currie 7.

<sup>784</sup> With respect to Vowell's allotment of the former pre-emption as an Indian reserve, the Deputy CLW states that "the land formerly covered by Mr. Bell's pre-emption record has now been entered upon the Official Plans of this Department as Indian Reserve No. 7, in conformity with the said Minute."

<sup>786</sup> Moffatt makes reference to his letter of August 12 and the CCLW's reply of August 24 regarding an application to purchase Tent Island. Neither letter is in the provincial collection. Moffatt corrects the name of the purchaser through reference to the B.C. Gazette of August 1.

<sup>788</sup> In December 1904, the Privy Council approved an exchange of land between the Penticton Indians and a settler named Ritchie. The new reserve was named Penticton 3A and was also known as Nicola Prairie 3A. It adjoins Penticton 1. It was formally set aside as a reserve through OCPC 1958-993. [See 1943 Schedule, p. 111; NRCan Schedule (2005), p. 62]

<sup>790</sup> This reserve was a timber reserve. The JIRC state: "The wood now growing or to grow is to belong to the Indians. The soil is not to belong to them. The object of this arrangement is to afford them a supply of wood without their having an inducement to locate on the spot. If the arrangement is not within the powers of the Commissioners or cannot be carried out, then the piece of land to be Indian Reserve." (p. 45). This reserve was ultimately reduced by O'Reilly in 1893 as a result of claims to the land by a settler named Ellis, cut-off by McKenna-McBride in 1913 and re-instated in 1982. [See Federal Collection, vl. 1, p. 103; vl. 13, pp. 21-35; vl. 14, p. 131; vl. 16/3, p. 135; 1943 Schedule p. 111; NRCan Schedule (2005), p. 62]

<sup>791</sup> Settler Thomas Ellis writes to F.G. Vernon, CCLW advising that the request of Mr. O'Reilly and Mr. McBay, he has agreed to relinquish and convey to the "Indian Department" that portion of Lot 250 on the condition that the provincial government convey to him an equal amount of land from Lot 190. Ellis states that a sketch is attached, however, it is not included in the provincial collection.

<sup>792</sup> O'Reilly refers to a letter from the CCLW dated April 28, 1891 on the subject of Penticton 2 (not in the provincial collection). Interestingly, O'Reilly states he "found that by far the greater part of the land assigned to the Indians for timber purposes has in fact little or not timber on it. He states he has, therefore, "cancelled 1107 acres of the reserve ... retaining only for the Indians 320 acres ...". He has arranged for the Indians to receive a portion of Lot 250 from Mr. Ellis. There appear to be references on the first page of the letter to other correspondence. One notation states: "Ans. 28/8/93." The other states: "CG 497/75 29 Aug 94 see L.I. 2783/94." Another notation, clearly made at a later date, states: "Cut off Vidi No. 2a Okanagan Reserves [?] & Cut offs". This latter statement would refer to the work of McKenna-McBride. O'Reilly states that the arrangement is acceptable to the Indians. O'Reilly's Minute of decision for the new reserve can be found in the federal collection. [See Federal Collection, vl. 13, pp. 21-35]

<sup>809</sup> O'Reilly notes that there have been several notices in the Government Gazette of the intention to purchase in the Quatsino area. O'Reilly states he is "credibly informed" that these pre-emptions will include the site of Indian houses and fisheries. O'Reilly requests that no pre-emptions be allowed on the West Coast of Vancouver Island until he has visited the area to define reserves.

<sup>810</sup> The Klaskino and Koskemo Indians amalgamated with the Quatsino and are currently known as Quatsino. In submitting the Minutes of decision and sketches for this group, O'Reilly asks that the CCLW approve the reserves allotted for the Indians with the exception of Nos. 13 & 14, for which Crown Grants have been issued by the Provincial Government to Mr. John Thomson and Messrs. Pamphlet and Booth, respectively. O'Reilly refers to his correspondence dated September 23, 1889 on this matter. [See Binder 9, Corr. Nos. 395/89, 2429/89, 2430/89; Federal Collection, vi. 12, pp. 84-112]

<sup>812</sup> O'Reilly forwards two plans for the CCLW's approval. The plans are not included in the provincial collection. A notation on the letter states: "Ans 20/6/93." This letter is not found in the provincial collection. O'Reilly notes that Reserve nos. 13 and 14 remain unapproved as Crown Grants were issued which affected the allotments.

<sup>815</sup> O'Reilly puts the alienation of an Indian village at Clienna before the CCLW. Interestingly, he states: "There is no ground for supposing that the application was made in ignorance of this being an Indian settlement, for it will be seen on reference to the notice ... that the Indian village is mentioned in their application, the surveyor also shews [sic] the position of it on his notes." [See Binder 10, Corr. No. 1677/90; Federal Collection, vl. 12 pp. 82-82a, 83, 84-86, 91, 112; 175-180; vl. 14, pp. 232, 237-37a, 239, 240-44; 259-61]

<sup>816</sup> A typescript memo signed by Gore is included with O'Reilly's letter. The provenance of the memo is not known. In it Gore states that, "No protest to these applications was made by the Indian Department ... The Lands & Works Department cannot guard the interests of the Indians until after the Indian Department have clearly defined the exact position of their reserves." Interestingly, Gore does not appear to find O'Reilly's protest to be one which represents the Indian Department.

<sup>826</sup> The sketch for the Quesnel reserves is a black and white photocopy which has been copied in pieces. The scale cannot be relied upon. The original had a notation which stated: "Approved Geo. A. Walkem, Chief Comr of L & W, Victoria, May 8, 1882." There are no sketches indicating the location of the graves. Photos of the sketches have also been included. The provenance of the photos is unknown. They are not the same as the sketches.

<sup>827</sup> O'Reilly submits Minutes of decision for the Quesnel, Alexandria, Williams Lake and Alkali Lake Indians. He provided one covering letter for the four groups. In the federal collection, O'Reilly provided a field minute related to his visit to each group. This version of this correspondence appears to be either a reduced photocopy or a microfilm copy. The provenance of this copy is not known. The disposition of the original is not known. The sketches included in the photocopy have been reduced and, in some cases, are cut-off, however, it appears that colour photos were taken of the sketches and, subsequently, added to the collection, however, based upon the photocopies, the photographs have come from a different source as the signatures found on the photocopies are not on the photographs. The photos have been placed next to the allotments for the various groups. The photos are not the best quality and are not to scale. <sup>828</sup> Sproat argues that a pre-emption at the mouth of Goldstream, Saanich Inlet is invalid as the place is an old Indian settlement. He also notes that surveys are being done of reserves on the island and that in a "short time" the provincial government will have to convey the land to the Dominion Government. Sproat states, "I mention the matter to you, now, for your information ... so that there may be no delay in making the conveyance when asked for."

<sup>833</sup> This represents O'Reilly's first reporting letter to the CCLW. It is noteworthy that in his first letter O'Reilly requests the cancellation of a settler's pre-emption and includes the land that had been within the pre-emption within the reserve allotment. A sketch, not found with the original Minute of decision in the federal collection is included here. The notation on the sketch states: "Approved W. Smithe CC of LW." [See Federal Collection, vl. 7, p. 15; vl. 8, pp. 270-275]

<sup>835</sup> Currently, this reserve is held by the Seabird Island band. It was originally allotted by Sproat "[f]or all the Indians between Cheam and Spuzzum - namely Popkum, Skawtits, Ohamil, Ska-wah-look, Hope, Union Bar, and Yale Indians." Sproat also notes that the island is believed to be called "Skow-a-kull" by the Indians. As well, Sproat states: "If the Indians have not in 6 years from 13 June 1879 sufficiently used this land in the opinion of the Government of Canada the unused portion is to cease to be Indian Land." [See NRCan Schedule (2005), p. 95]

<sup>836</sup> Moffatt encloses a letter from P. McTiernan, Indian Agent at New Westminster, who inquires as to the claim of a Chinese settler that he has bought 160 of land on Seabird Island, which is encompassed within the reserve. A notation on the first page states: "Answd Sept 25/84". This letter is not in the provincial collection.

<sup>837</sup> Moffatt writes to Forbes George Vernon, CCLW advising that the Commissioners propose to visit the Sechelt Peninsula and Jervis Inlet "to settle the various issues in question under the powers secured to them." In light of the pending work, the provincial government is requested not to issue pre-emptions, sell any land, issue any leases, particularly timber leases and, most especially, that there "be no interference with the localities now occupied as Indian Villages [sic]." It is noted that Superintendent Powell has been informed that applications have been made at both Dean's Canal and Butc Inlet which include portions of land "actually occupied" by Indians. Moffatt encloses a basic sketch of Princess Royal Reach and Queen's reach.

<sup>839</sup> The JIRC report on their trip to Jervis Inlet. Among other things, they state that there "is no land available in Jervis Inlet for agricultural settlers and white men are never likely to settle on its shores except for mining or fishing purposes. We had great difficulty, over a shoreline of about 200 miles, finding a reasonable quantity of land for the reserves of the She-Shells (Sechelts) who number 167 persons." (p. 2) The "rough map sent to the Provincial Secretary" (p. 6) may be a reference to the sketch included with the Minutes of decision.

<sup>849</sup> The JIRC identify this allotment as "Klay-e-quim". Three areas are identified in the allotment: "the flat at the mouth of the river ... a small patch on the south eastern side ... and a small timbered valley." These allotments are currently known as Sechelt Lands 8, 6 and 7 respectively. They were formerly known as Klayekwim 8, Klayekwim 6 and Klayekwim 7.

<sup>869</sup> A.M. Burgess, Deputy Minister of the Interior, writes to O'Reilly regarding his allotment at Semiahmoo. Burgess states that O'Reilly's allotment had been a Military Reserve, that the land was the property of the Dept. of Interior and that negotiations were "in progress for its sale to a private individual at a high price." Burgess states he has written to the Minister "pointing out to him that the Department of Indian Affairs cannot appropriate, for Indian or other purposes, public lands under the jurisdiction of the Department of Interior ..."

<sup>870</sup> O'Reilly spelled the name of this group "Se-shart", it has also been spelled Sechart and Tseshaht. It is currently spelled Tseshaht. In the federal collection, O'Reilly provided a detailed field minute, in addition to the Minutes of decision and sketches. The sketches included with the Minutes of decision have been signed "Approved Wm. Smith CC of L & W." There is no approval date on the sketches. <sup>871</sup> O'Reilly provides the CCLW for his "information, and approval, plans and descriptions of the various plots of land reserved" by O'Reilly for the Seton Lake, Anderson Lake, "Pemberton Meadows" and Douglas Indians. No other contextual information is provided by O'Reilly. In the federal collection O'Reilly provides more detailed field minutes and information with respect to the allotments for each group. All the sketches and many of the Minutes of decision have the CCLW, George Walkem, signature or signature stamp. The sketches are indicated to be approved May 8, 1882. Pagination has been assigned for reference to the Minutes of decision. [See Binder 13, Corr. No. 5927/04; Federal Collection, vl. 9, pp. 114-25, 126-48, 149-65]

<sup>877</sup> This document is a typescript extract of the Minutes of decision for the Lower Similkameen Indians. The title of the document states: "Okanagan Indians, Keremeos (Lower Similkameen) Group." The provenance of this extract is unknown, however a similar version of the Minutes of decision was prepared for use of the McKenna-McBride Commission (1912-1916). It is not know why and/or how this copy came to be included in the provincial collection.

<sup>878</sup> Sproat makes reference to a letter from the CCLW dated January 14, 1879 which enclosed letters from settlers in the Similkameen dated December 2, 1878 (neither letter is in the provincial collection). Sproat states he is "embodying" his Field Minutes and will send the CCLW the one on Similkameen as soon as he receives the sketches. [See Corr. Nos. 201/79, 202/79, this binder]

<sup>879</sup> Sproat reviews his decision making process with respect to reserve allotment in the Similkameen area and the problems of allowing pre-emptions before the Commission has resolved the "Indian land questions." He notes, among other things, that under the method he devised "it would not be necessary to disturb a single white settler in any land he occupied, nor indeed to inquire (and I have not inquired) whether the lands were legally held or not. // This determination so displeased the Indians that at one time I thought it would be impossible to negotiate with them at all ... however, finally I succeeded in effecting an adjustment." (p. 2) It appears that Mr. Daigneault pre-empted the land which Sproat set aside for the Indians. (pp. 3-4) [See Federal Collection, vl. 5/3, pp. 73-80d]

<sup>887</sup> O'Reilly refers to a letter from the CCLW dated December 3, 1884. This letter is not included in the provincial collection. As with the letter on the Kootenay, it appears that O'Reilly was requested to provide "a statement shewing [sic] the number of Indians resident at Keremeus; the number of cattle possessed by them; the number of acres enclosed; and the number of acres under cultivation at the present time." O'Reilly provides Sproat's 1878 census. O'Reilly goes on to comment about a position proffered by the B.C. government, concluding, "in my opinion, if the Indians are to be consulted at all as to the extent of their reserves, as is contemplated by the Dominion Government, the course you dictate would be found impracticable." (pp. 2-3)

<sup>889</sup> O'Reilly identifies the Indians as "Keremeus". Currently they are known as Lower Similkameen. O'Reilly refers to his letter of November 29, 1884 with respect to his allotment of Terbasket 3 and notes that, "to the present time [it] has not been approved." He also refers to Sproat's allotments of 1878 (Similkameen 1 and Lower Similkameen 2) and the subsequent sale of those lands. There is a marginal notation on the first page of the covering letter which states: "Approved F.G. Vernon CCLW<sup>88</sup> January 16, 1889." There are additional notations which state: "Ans<sup>4</sup> 16/1/89 LO[?] 310 Vol 30 See L.I. [?] 3138/84" This latter reference is the letter to which O'Reilly referred. [See Binder 8, Corr. No. 3138/84; Federal Collection, vl. 11, pp. 15-24; NRCan Schedule (2005), pp. 55, 96]

<sup>891</sup> MacKay refers to two letters, one dated May 19, 1891, the other dated May 25, 1891. Neither of these letters is in the provincial collection. In his letter, MacKay notes that on the last visit the Indian Commissioner "did not meet the Chiefs of Chu chu way ha and Ashnola. The Indians of these bands therefore maintain that their land questions have not been settled." MacKay, in referring to his letter of May 25, states that he had explained "the circumstances under which this land is held by the Indians although it be not an Indian Reserve."

<sup>895</sup> Vowell encloses 5 letters received from Indian Agent MacKay of the Okanagan Agency applying for extensions to reserves. Vowell requests that the CCLW "not allow the lands in question to be disposed of..." Vowell advises he will address the matter in the next two to three months.

<sup>896</sup> MacKay reports that he "found that the Statements made by Mr. J.F. Allison and by Mr. Barrington Price were substantially correct." He also states that Mr. H. Bullock Webster declined to meet with him. "I accordingly laid information against him for breach of the Peace, and had him bound over by the local Magistracy to keep the Peace for three months." [See Corr. No. 3529/91, this binder]

<sup>909</sup> O'Reilly forwards "Plans Nos. 2 and 4 of reserves for the Similkameen Indians" for final approval (not included in the collection). The Similkameen Indians are currently known as Lower Similkameen. Reference is made to a letter from the CCLW dated April 28, 1891 (not in collection) in which the CCLW had made a "suggestion" to amend a boundary. O'Reilly states that it was amended. [See Corr. No. 2129/95, this binder; Binder 11, Corr. No. 3885/93; NRCAN Schedule (2005), p. 96]

<sup>913</sup> In this case, O'Reilly identifies the Indians as Upper Similkameen and Lower Similkameen. In previous correspondence the Lower Similkameen Indians were identified either as Similkameen or Keremeus. In writing to the CCLW, O'Reilly states that, "in conformity with the general authority expressed by you to the effect that certain reserves in the Similkameen valley might be enlarged to meet the wishes of the Indians as represented by Mr. Agent Mackay, I visited that section of country in August last." He goes on to provide fairly detailed descriptions of the reserves set aside by him. He notes that five of the reserves "adjoin and may be considered extensions of the reserves previously allotted by Mr. Sproat." He also states that it was necessary to amend the Minutes of decision for Reserves Nos. 3 and 4 for the Upper Similkameen, "the Minutes as furnished by Mr. Sproat being unworkable by the gentleman sent to make the survey." O'Reilly submitted separate field minutes to the SGIA regarding his work with these two groups. [See Binder 3, Corr. No. 1132/79; Federal Collection, vl. 14, pp. 210-221, 224-231]

<sup>933</sup> As with Skookumchuck 4, based upon correspondence in the federal collection, it appears that upon survey in 1882, the boundaries of this reserve were altered. A copy of the altered boundaries is included with this set of Minutes of decision without explanation or comment at p. 24, although, clearly since the survey was done in 1882, it was not included with O'Reilly's original submission. [See Federal Collection, vl. 7, pp. 116-116b]

<sup>939</sup> The 1943 Schedule erroneously indicates that Sproat also allotted Skuppah 2A. The available evidence indicates that instructions to set aside the land were issued in 1910 and the land surveyed in 1911.

<sup>949</sup> There is a notation on the covering letter which states: "Approved F.G. Vernon CCLW<sup>ts</sup> January 16, 1889". Sproat had made allotments in this area in 1880, however, his allotments were not confirmed. The version of the Minutes of decision included in the provincial collection has been taken from a microfilm copy. There are coloured photographs of the sketches in addition to black and white photocopies. The provenance of the microfilm and the photographs is not known. Comparison of the photographs and the photocopies indicates they are not the same. The photographs and the photocopies of the sketches are not to scale. Pagination has been taken from the microfilm copy. [See Binder 5, Corr. No. 775/80, pp. 2-29; Federal Collection, vol. 11, pp. 84-110]

<sup>950</sup> Powell forwards to G.A. Walkem, CCLW, Sproat's Minutes of decision for the "Coast Work 1879 and 1880 with sketches attached." Powell also states that "Charts shewing [sic] the Indian Reserves" are also enclosed. It is unclear what is being identified as a "chart." The Minutes of decision have the same correspondence number as the covering letter. In the Federal Collection there is only a "True Copy" of this set of Minutes of decision. The original book has not been located. Sproat's reserve allotments for these groups fell outside the Yale District, thus, arguably, outside the area authorized by B.C. for his work. O'Reilly re-allotted most of the reserves identified in this correspondence number [See Federal Collection, vl. 18, pp. 5-193; vl. 11, pp. 84-110]

<sup>954</sup> O'Reilly's original allotments for these Indians were made in 1881, however, the Minutes of decision were withheld pending negotiations between the provincial and Dominion governments with regard to the purchase of additional lands. There is some discrepancy between the Minutes of decision in the provincial collection and the Minutes found in the federal collection. Notably, the provincial collection contains an allotment at Whiskey Creek. [See Federal Collection, vl. 8, pp. 181-192; vl. 14, pp. 133-39, vl. 16/3, pp. 137-139, 155-157]

<sup>955</sup> Reference is made to a letter from the CCLW dated June 6, 1891 (not in collection) regarding the survey at Soda Creek. O'Reilly advises that he has telegraphed and written the surveyor (Fletcher) to be "guided solely by his instructions and the Minutes of decision supplied him from this office."

<sup>960</sup> This island was also known as Deadman's Island. This island, along with Discovery Island and Chatham Island were, according to the JIRC, reserved for these Indians by Governor Douglas, June 10, 1863. This reserve was cut-off by McKenna-McBride July 24, 1913, but returned in June 1993. [See 1913 Schedule of Reserves, p. 63; 1943 Schedule, p. 23; NRCan Schedule (2005), p. 66]

<sup>961</sup> This section is entitled "Victoria Superintendency, Victoria District, Songish Indians." The JIRC state that the "land reserve of these Indians ... appears to be the private property of the tribe by written agreement made on 30th April 1850, between the Chiefs and people and the agent of the Hudson's Bay Co. acting on behalf of the Crown ..." This is a reference to the Douglas Treaty. It is worth noting that many places which now form part of the city of Victoria were included within the boundaries of the original Songhees 1 allotment, including, it appears, Point Ellice, where Peter O'Reilly had his home. This reserve was ultimately exchanged for New Songhees 1. [See PILQ, pp. 5-11; CLSRBC 224]

<sup>966</sup> Powell writes to the CCLW, as he has learned from the surveyor, Gastineau, that, despite the allotment by the JIRC in 1877, an application to pre-empt the land has been made. Powell advises the CCLW that the Indians have improvements on the land and that it is one of the Indians' "old and favourite fishing places, and under any circumstances, is not open to sale or pre-emption." This area was not confirmed as a reserve. [See Binder 2, Corr. No. 1081/78, p. 30]

<sup>967</sup> Powell refers to his letter of May 1 and the CCLW's reply (no date given). The CCLW's response is not included in the provincial collection, however, its contents may be inferred in the second paragraph on the second page. Powell argues the invalidity of the application of the settler named Byrne. N.B.: Notation on back which provides gist of reply to be made to Powell.

<sup>968</sup> Powell advises Smithe, CCLW, that the federal government will not recognize Mr. Byrne's title to the land at Eagle Pass, which was set aside as a reserve by the JIRC in 1877. Powell states that the land has been "illegally patented" to Byrne "owing to the mistake of the Lands and Works Department, as the Indians would appear to have priority of claim to said land." Powell points out that the land was a fishing station and was cultivated when the Commission visited it in 1877. Powell requests that the patent be revoked. The notation on the back of the letter indicates that the letter was to be sent to Mr. Byrne.

<sup>980</sup> This reserve appears to have included the Spuzzum settlement of Shweemp. It was confirmed as a reserve. In the federal collection, there is a marginal note which says: "Cancelled." According to notation in vl. 18 of the federal collection, this reserve was surrendered and other land re-allotted by O'Reilly in 1884. [See Federal Collection, vl. 6, p. 4, vl. 18, p. 345]

<sup>1000</sup> O'Reilly states he is enclosing an amended minute of decision and plan, however, the plan is not included in the provincial collection. O'Reilly notes that the amendment was required "in consequence of the Provincial Government having sold a portion of the land to the Messrs Bouillon ..." O'Reilly notes that the reserve has recently been resurveyed in accordance with the approval contained in the CCLW's letter to Vowell dated July 14, 1891, also not contained in the provincial collection. In the margin it appears that the word "Approved" was started, but it is incomplete. A comparable covering letter could not be located for the federal collection version. [See Corr. No. 1710/93, this binder; Binder 1, Corr. No. 1591/77, p. 2; Binder 10, Corr. No. 2191/91; Federal Collection, vl. 14, p. 269b]

<sup>1001</sup> O'Reilly forwards the tracing of the plan for Capilano 5. He requests that the CCLW reply to his (O'Reilly's) letter of May 20th signifying the CCLW's approval of the reserve. A notation on the letter states: "Ans 30/5/93". This letter is not included in the provincial collection. The plan is not included in the provincial collection.

<sup>1019</sup> Reference is made to a telegram dated November 18 and a letter dated November 20, both from Vernon. Neither piece of correspondence is included in the provincial collection. McKinlay and Sproat refer to a "Government Reserve between Coal Harbour and First Narrows, Burrard Inlet." They state they have "declined to permit Indian reserves on the Government Reserve." They also state they have dealt with "735 Indians to date."

<sup>1024</sup> O'Reilly forwards two sets of Minutes of decision for the Upper Kootenay Indians. These reserves are currently held by the St. Mary's Indians. The second set of Minutes of decision and sketch is noted to be for a Mr. Baillie Grohman. There is no indication who this person is or why he would receive copies of the Minutes of decision and sketches. The marginal notation on the letter states: "Approved October 11, 1887 F.G. Vernon CCLW." [See Corr. No. 3041/84, pp. 1-2, this binder; Federal Collection, vl. 11, pp. 139a-141a; Dominion Sessional Papers, Indian Affairs Annual Report, pp. 154-55]

<sup>1025</sup> Vowell refers to an area cultivated by an Indian identified as "Cut Mouth" Johnny which is "about 3 miles distant from St. Mary's Prairie Reserve, on west side." It is not clear, however, it is possible that the reserve referred to would appear to be the Kootenay 1, held by the St. Mary's Indians. There is, however, no reserve three miles west of Kootenay 1. Vowell requests that the pre-emption be "held over" until he has received the "particulars" from the Indian Agent, Galbraith. These "particulars" are not included in this collection, nor could any similar correspondence be found in the federal collection. [See Corr. No. 520/95, this volume]

<sup>1032</sup> O'Reilly encloses the plan of the Stony Creek reserves (not included in the collection). He notes that it has been surveyed in accordance with the Section and township lines as defined by the provincial government in accordance with the request of the CCLW in a letter dated April 28, 1894 (not included in collection). The Stony Creek Indians are currently known as Saik'uz First Nation. [See Corr. No. 4726/95, this binder; NRCan Schedule (2005), p. 98]

<sup>1040</sup> This reserve was originally identified as Pinchi 2 or Pinchie 2 and was originally allotted by O'Reilly in the fall of 1871. There appears to be a discrepancy in size between the "old reserve" - 750 acres; the new reserve - 830 acres, and the final survey - 728 acres. It is unclear why the final size was less than the original colonial reserve. [See PILQ, p. 96; Devereux field books CLSR FBBC 310, 336; NRCan Schedule (2005), p. 70]

<sup>1058</sup> It is difficult to determine from this description, however, it appears that the area described by Sproat is Kwatse 3, but it may also have encompassed the graveyard now known as Freda Point 4. Both of these reserves were re-visited and re-allotted by O'Reilly in October 1886. Sproat notes that the graves are either to be included in the reserve or marked on the plan by the surveyor. [See 1943 Schedule, pp. 46-47]

<sup>1062</sup> In submitting the Minutes of decision and sketch, O'Reilly brings to the attention of the CCLW a problem with a water allotment granted four days prior to his visit to the area. He notes that if the water allotment is permitted "to hold good against the Indians, [it] will render their farm land useless, as at present there is barely enough water for them and Messrs. Drummond and Beaumont." O'Reilly points out that the Indians have been in possession of their farm and using the water since 1868, "there is no provision in the Land Act for the record of water by or for the Indians, and that should Mr. Provis' record be allowed to hold good, a very great injustice will be done to the Indians who have been in occupation for twenty years." O'Reilly reminds the CCLW that "no applications for records in the Chilcotin country would be entertained until the Indian reserves were defined." He cites two pieces of correspondence: 1065/86, not in the provincial collection; and, 1089/87, found earlier in this binder. O'Reilly concludes by stating, "I trust therefore that if there is anything you can do to set this matter right, it will be done without delay." There is a marginal notation on the first page of the covering letter which states: "Approved October 11, 1887 F.G. Vernon CCLW." [See Binder 9, Corr. No. 399/88; Federal Collection, vl. 11, pp. 151-159]

<sup>1068</sup> Reference is made two two letters from the CCLW dated May 12 and 13, enclosing correspondence from an N.P. Snowden (not included in the provincial collection). N.B. the term "ultimo" refers to the previous month. [See Binder 7, Corr. No. 1385/82, pp. 24-28]

<sup>1088</sup> Powell makes reference to a letter from the CCLW dated February 29, 1884 which advised that the boundaries of the Port Simpson and Metlakatla reserves No. 1 and 2 "have been adopted, and the boundaries therein set forth confirmed by authority of an order in Council approved by His Honour the Lieut. Governor." The letter referred to does not appear in the provincial collection, nor does the OIC. A letter of a similar date and subject could not be located in the federal collection.

<sup>1091</sup> A second sketch of this reserve is included with this set of Minutes of decision. This sketch depicts the reserve in red/pink indicating that the sketch was done at a later date. The provenance of this second sketch is unknown, however, it resembles the reserve as surveyed by Ashdown Green in 1883. [See CLSRBC 33]

<sup>1095</sup> Vowell justifies the area set aside for these Indians noting that the "whole country for many miles has been burnt over and there is practically no soil left. ... The altitude of the reserve and the poverty of the soil preclude any possibility of agricultural pursuits and it is necessary that a large range be given them for the horses they possess and the cattle they hope to acquire." Vowell's report to the SGIA provides more detail regarding his meeting with these Indians. [See Corr. Nos. 698/04, 889/04 this binder; Federal Collection, vl. 15, pp. 453-57]

<sup>1100</sup> Sproat allots four fisheries, however, none of these allotments were confirmed as reserves. In addition to allotting fisheries, Sproat also confirms the Indians' "right of access to these places ... but in such manner as to be least inconvenient to owners of lands (at present unowned) and the Indians are not to occupy these places except for capturing and drying the fish in their accustomed way, and only in their fishing season."

<sup>1104</sup> O'Reilly provides the CCLW, for his "information and approval, rough sketches and minutes of decision of the Indian Reserves made by me in the Kootenay district." Interestingly, for the first time, O'Reilly adds the statement: "I may mention that in no case have the reserves encroached on lands claimed by any settler." The "Upper Kootenay Indians", as identified by O'Reilly are currently known as St. Mary's, Tobacco Plains and ?Akisq'nuk First Nation (formerly Columbia Lake). The sketches all appear to have been initialed by Wm. Smithe, CCLW. In the federal collection O'Reilly provides separate field minutes for the Kootenay and Shuswap Indians. The original document contains no page numbers. Pagination has been provided for reference. [See Federal Collection, vl. 10, pp. 11-20, 22-61]

<sup>1107</sup> This area was not confirmed as a reserve. The description is quite difficult to read. There is a marginal notation which states: "See Plan No. 3." This would appear to be CLSRBC 206. [See Federal Collection vl. 3, pp. 286-288; vl. 16/3, p. 140; vl. 20, pp. 40a-40; CLSRBC 206]

<sup>1109</sup> Powell encloses a letter from Indian Agent MacKay regarding a proposition to add 9800 acres of land to the reserve of the "Spahomin Band of Indians" to be taken from the commonage set aside by Sproat. Currently, there is no "Spahomin Band of Indians", however, the Spahomin reserve is held by the Upper Nicola Indians. It would appear that the commonage under consideration is the Douglas Lake Commonage. It appears that Spahomin Creek 8 was once part of the Douglas Lake Commonage. [See Binder 4, Corr. No. 269/80, pp. 5, 9-10; NRCAN Schedule (2005), p. 75]

<sup>1110</sup> In the covering letter, O'Reilly refers to the "Commonage at Nicola." It is presumed that this is a reference to the Douglas Lake Commonage. O'Reilly states that it will be "impossible" for him to visit this area before "next season" and that he "shall feel obliged if you will take no steps in respect to it" until he has reported on them.

<sup>1111</sup> Based upon a visit to the area, O'Reilly advises that the Douglas Lake Commonage can be cancelled. He notes that the area was used exclusively by the white settlers, that it was "overstocked and eaten out; not an animal belonging to the Indians was visible upon it during my visit, nor has it I believe been used by them to any extent."

<sup>1118</sup> O'Reilly notes that Sproat had set apart a reserve of about 600 acres at this place in 1878, however, "the Indians were dissatisfied as it did not include a number of their cultivated fields, [n]or did it embrace any pasture land of value." O'Reilly goes on to state, "Under the authority conveyed to me by you, in such cases, I have enlarged this reserve, with which the Indians are now perfectly contented." There is marginal notation on the first page of the letter which states: "Approved F.G. Vernon January 16, 1889" [See Binder 5, Corr. No. 655/80, pp. 107-108]

<sup>1128</sup> Vowell forwards "Plan No. 1" of the Upper Similkameen reserves for "final approval and signature." He notes that the Minutes of decision for reserve nos. 3, 4, and 7 were approved on November 21, 1893. Vowell goes on to state that reserve number 6 (One Mile 6) was allotted by Sproat on October 5, 1878 and the No. 1 reserve (Vermillion Forks) was an "old reserve made prior to 1871, and confirmed by Mr. Sproat on October 5, 1878." [See Binder 5, Corr. No. 655/80, pp. 105-116a; Binder 11, Corr. No. 3885/93; Federal Collection, vl. 6, pp. 115-129]

<sup>1131</sup> Also known as Yahlkaywalick or Yahkl kay wa lick. Sproat's original allotment was a temporary reserve which was cancelled by O'Reilly, then re-allotted and enlarged in the same locale. [See Binder 11, Corr. <sup>1132</sup> Identified on Minute of decision as "Yakh'l kay-wa-lick". Although this reserve was cut-off by the McKenna-McBride Commission in November 1913, the cut-off was rejected by Ditchburn and Clark and the reserve was confirmed as allotted by O'Reilly.

<sup>1133</sup> There are four undated, handwritten lists which appear to be based upon the 1871 Schedule of Indian Reserves found in the Papers on the Indian Land Question, however, the remarks are different. The provenance of these pages is unknown. It is also unknown why and/or how they came to be included in the provincial collection at this point.

<sup>1134</sup> The JIRC states that, in their opinion, it "would be well if the Provincial Government ... reserved ..." various tracts of land. In using the term "reserved" it would appear that the JIRC intends that the lands would be withheld from pre-emption or lease. Substantial tracts of land are identified, including areas in the Gulf of Georgia, along the Fraser and on the west coast of Vancouver Island at Barclay Sound and the Nass and Skeena. There is no indication that the province acceded to this request.

<sup>1135</sup> O'Reilly refers to the CCLW's letter dated June 24, 1887, and two letters from himself to the CCLW dated May 22, 1887 and June 8, 1887 "in which you withheld for further consideration your sanction to the reserves allotted by the late Reserve Commissioner Mr. Sproat for the use of the Adams Lake, Salmon Arm [a.k.a. Neskonlith], Coldwater and Hope Indians." O'Reilly requests that the CCLW "oblige" him by giving the matter his earliest attention. The CCLW's correspondence is enclosed in O'Reilly's letter. The letter dated May 22, 1887 could not be located in the provincial collection, however the letter dated June 8, 1887 does appear to be included. [See Corr. No. 1126/89, this binder; Binder 8, Corr. No. 1332/87]

<sup>1138</sup> O'Reilly submits field books and tracings for the Adams Lake, Coldwater, Hope and Salmon Arm (a.k.a. Neskonlith) Indians. He notes the lands were defined by the Joint Reserve Commission and Sproat and "were finally approved" on the 7th and 8th "instant", i.e. 7th and 8th of May. O'Reilly does not, however, identify which were approved on what date, thus, in this case, both dates are given as dates of approval. [See Corr. No. 176/89, this binder; Binder 8, Corr. No. 1332/87]

<sup>1145</sup> Powell writes with respect to a group of Indians living on the "West [sic] shore of Okanagan Lake, opposite the R.C. Mission numbering 54 Souls who have never had any land reserved for them, notwithstanding the fact that they have for many years used the land on which they live, and have considerable improvements thereon."

<sup>1149</sup> The description for this reserve commences "T26, ..." This reserve was also known as Tsintstikeptum 8. It was cut-off by McKenna-McBride, November 13, 1913, but the cut-off was settled in November 1883. Although the JIRC allotted this land to the "Indians at Head of Okanagan Lake," it has long been attributed to the Westbank Indians. [See 1943 Schedule, p. 108; NRCan Schedule (2005), p. 74]

<sup>1152</sup> O'Reilly notes that this reserve was originally defined by him on November 26, 1894, but "[o]wing to unavoidable delay in completing the survey ... the Minute of decision has hitherto been withheld." O'Reilly's field minute in the federal collection provided more detail regarding the "unavoidable delay." The approval by the CCLW is noted in the margin on the covering page of the letter. <sup>1157</sup> O'Reilly enlarged Sproat's 1879 allotment of this reserve. Sproat allotted 20 acres. The original survey of the reserve placed the area at 362 acres; resurvey in 1913 placed the area at 388 acres. There is some question as to which First Nation holds this reserve, Yale or Ohamil. It appears to have been allotted by both Sproat and O'Reilly to Yale and it was confirmed as a Yale reserve through PC 1930-208, however, in or about 1917, it appears a chief of the Yale Indians agreed the reserve, less the timber, should go to the Ohamil Indians. [See Federal Collection, vl. 10, pp. 102-03; 1943 Schedule, p. 80; NRCan Schedule (2005), pp. 65, 93]

<sup>1161</sup> Sproat provides a progress report, of sorts, of his work. He notes that he has, "so far found the Indians to be reasonable in their expectations, and willing generally to be guided by my advice with respect to their Land questions." He indicates that he is aware of settler concerns and that "it is a matter of great importance to the Province that the lands in the New Westminster district should, by a settlement of Indian questions be freed from Indian claims ..." Sproat requests that, through an OJC, the Province give him the same powers in the New Westminster District that he has in the Yale District.

SORTED BY RESERVE

- This index is sorted alphabetically and chronologically by the Reserve name.
- The Reserve name is the current name unless the reserve was not confirmed or has significantly altered since it was allotted (eg. Port Simpson 1 and Lax kw'alaams 1). In these cases the reserve is identified as it is in the correspondence, or it is correlated to a geographic area.
- The Band name is as it is found in the collection. Cross-reference to current names (Mar. 2005) can be found in the footnotes and/or in the NRCan Schedule (2005).
- In some instances where the correspondence only identified a "tribe", which now consists of separate bands, a band name has been specified (e.g. Saanich, the individual groups, Tsartlip, Tsawaout, Malahat, etc. have been identified). The exception to this is the Laichquiltach. In this case, the allotments for We-way-a-kay, We-way-a-kum, Kwi-ah-kah, and Kahkahmatsis have been sorted by the "Tribe". Also, the reserves for the Gilford Island Indians were allotted without distinguishing the bands/sub-groups within the Gilford Island tribe. In the majority of cases, however, Band or sub-group names are identified.
- Sproat and O'Reilly visited some of the same groups, but, may have identified them slightly differently. Every effort has been made to ensure that the "Band/Tribe" is properly correlated, but, there may be distinctions between the allotments.

Please see the Additional Subjects section for indices on subject areas identified in the provincial collection

Errors & Omissions Although every attempt has been made to ensure the thoroughness and correctness of this index, undoubtedly some errors have slipped in and an insightful point may have inadvertently been omitted. My apologies for these, hopefully, minor problems..

Terms Used in the Index

M.O.D. is an abbreviation for Minute of Decision

A.M.O.D. is an abbreviation for Amended Minute of Decision

Field Minute refers to Sproat's, O'Reilly's or Vowell's report of his work in the field. Field minutes are dated after/after than the Minutes of decision and often contain additional information regarding the reserve allotment. In the index the Field Minute will, by and large, follow the listing for the M.O.D. and Sketch.

Reserve names are current spellings and current numbers, unless the reserve no longer exists or was not confirmed as a reserve, in which case it is identified as it is in the collection.

Band/Tribe names are, by and large, as they are found within the books; some archaic spellings may be modernized and, in some cases, hyphens have been removed. Correlations to current band names or spellings is provided in the footnotes.

[ ] have been used to identify page numbers in correspondence. A Band name within the brackets indicates the Band which currently holds the reserve. This format has been specifically used for the Laichquiltach.

m/copy indicates that the document is a microfilm copy. Generally, the provenance of microfilm copies is unknown.

w/encl indicates the letter contained an enclosure

NRCan Schedule (2005) refers to a schedule prepared by the Legal Surveys Division, Natural Resources Canada as revised to Feb. 2005.

1943 Schedule refers to the 1943 Schedule of Indian Reserves in British Columbia prepared by the Department of Indian Affairs. This schedule is particularly valuable because of its notations.

<sup>5</sup> It is unclear if this document is complete. There is no covering letter and no reference to an Indian reserve. The document is a Land Act declaration regarding the Sale of Unsurveyed Land. No direct connection is made to any Indian reserve. Also, this copy is a microfilm copy.

<sup>7</sup> Ultimately, the Minutes of decision for these Indians are amended by O'Reilly, but, he retained the original date of the allotment on the amendments. The amended Minutes of decision do not appear to be included in the provincial collection. The Minutes of decision and sketches for this group are photocopies. The provenance of the photocopies is unknown. The photocopies of the sketches, have been cut-up. Photos appear to have been added at a later date. Comparison of the photocopies and the photos indicate that they are not the same. The provenance of the photos is unknown. The scale of both the photocopies and the photos cannot be relied upon. [See Federal Collection, vl. 8, pp. 133-39; 213-217]

<sup>9</sup> The Alkali Lake Indians are currently known as Esketemc. The sketches included with the Minutes of decision are black and white photocopies which have been cut up. Photos are also included. A comparison of the photocopy and the photo indicates that they are not the same. The provenance of the photos is not known. The scale for both the photocopies and the photos cannot be relied upon. Each photocopy sketch is signed as approved by Geo. A. Walkem, Chief Commissioner of Lands and Works on May 8, 1882. [See Binder 12, Corr. Nos. 3111/94, 3577/95; Federal Collection, vl. 8, pp. 143-166; NRCan Schedule (2005) p. 81]

<sup>10</sup> The Alkali Lake Indians are currently known as Esketemc. There is a series of six letters dealing with a dispute between a settler, W.H. Wright, and the Alkali Lake Indians. Interestingly, rather than being directed to the CCLW, the correspondence is directed to the Provincial Secretary. The correspondence numbers are, therefore, slightly out of sequence. It is unclear how correspondence to the Provincial Secretary's office came to be included in the provincial collection. W.H. Wright appears to be a settler residing at Dog Creek. He has sent a petition to Messrs. Stoddard and Smith requesting that it be put before the "House of Representatives." This correspondence is clearly numbered, however, the numbering is out of sequence with other correspondence. It is noted to have been received by the Clerk of the Executive Council. It is possible that the correspondence number pertains to Executive Council correspondence. [See NRCan Schedule (2005), p. 81]

<sup>12</sup> Vowell indicates he has received a letter from the Deputy Provincial Secretary May 19, 1894, providing a copy of the petition from W.H. Wright. This letter is not contained in the provincial collection. Vowell advises that he has instructed the Indian Agent to tell the Indians of his agency they are not to "take the law in their own hands ... as should they do so, they must expect to be severely punished." Vowell goes on to suggest that provincial authorities take the matter in hand "and have the guilty punished, by so doing a salutary example would be made of the offenders which beyond doubt would prove beneficial in inculcating generally amongs the Indians a wholesome fear of the law."

<sup>14</sup> There is no inside date on this letter. The date is taken from the Provincial Secretary's date received stamp. Soues, the provincial government agent, refers to a letter from the Provincial Secretary dated May 19, 1894 (not in the provincial collection). Soues requests that the issue of the Alkali Lake Indians "have Executive attention as soon as possible." Soues reports that he has ascertained that day that when the Indians in the area find a meadow suitable for cutting hay "they should have it for their own use in the same manner as Whites." In Soues' opinion, such a situation "can only lead to endless trouble, possibly bloodshed." He recommends that Vowell come to the area. He states that their are "a number of evil spirits" amongst the Alkali Lake Indians and that the Chief is unable to control them. Soues believes that Vowell could resolve the situation with the Indians.

<sup>15</sup> Vowell advises the Provincial Secretary that he has met with the Alkali Lake Indians with the Indian Agent present and has explained to them that they are not to interfere with the lawful rights of settlers. Vowell states that if they should attempt to "violate the law, they are of course amenable to punishment. [sic]" N.B. There are two copies of the first page of the letter: one with the additional note showing and one without.

<sup>16</sup> There is no date on the letter. The date is taken from the Provincial Secretary's date stamp. There is a draft letter included with this correspondence. The addressee is unknown, it is undated, but it is signed by Soues. The content of the draft is opposite to that contained in the letter. In the letter, Soues states that Vowell has said the Indians "have no title" to the Wright pre-emption, but the draft states that the pre-emption should be cancelled as Wright had made a declaration that the land was not used or occupied by the Indians when, in fact, the Indians cut hay on the meadow. The draft concludes by stating that the Indian Reserve Commissioner has made a request for the meadow.

<sup>17</sup> O'Reilly refers to a letter from the CCLW dated August 22, 1894, a letter from the Attorney General dated February 3, 1894 (neither of which is found in the provincial collection) and a letter from himself to the Attorney General dated February 7, 1894 (a copy of which he encloses). The correspondence deals with O'Reilly's allotments in 1881. [See Binder 6, Corr No. 109/82, pp. 8-16]

<sup>20</sup> The Alkali Lake Indians are currently known as Esketeme. The Minutes of decision are clearly dated incorrectly. "September 31, 1895" in an incorrect date. Beyond the fact that there are only 30 days in September, such a date would be subsequent to both the covering letter and the approval by the CCLW. The date of August 30, 1895, which is shown in the federal collection is used in the index. O'Reilly's field minute found in the federal collection provides additional detail regarding his meeting with these Indians. [See Corr. No. 1409/98, 1524/98, this binder; Binder 6, Corr. No. 109/82, pp. 8-16; Federal Collection, vl. 14, pp. 117-125; NRCan Schedule (2005), p. 81]

<sup>21</sup> These Indians are currently known as Tl'etinqox-T'in Government. O'Reilly encloses for approval Minutes of decision and sketches for the Anaham Indians. He provides a bit of additional information with respect to the Indians and the allotments. The notation on the side of the page states: "Approved October 11 1887. F.G. Vernon CCLW." There are no page numbers in the original. Pagination is provided for reference. [See Binder 9, Corr. No. 146/88; Federal Collection, vl. 11, pp. 167-174; NRCan Schedule (2005), pp. 71, 81]

<sup>22</sup> Laing Meason's letter is very informative as to the Anaham Indians' interaction with O'Reilly when he was allotting reserves in the area. It is also interesting that Laing Meason took up certain issues with the Premier of B.C., A.E.B. Davie, when Davie was in the area and, subsequently, relied upon Davie's word with respect to lands the Indians might have. [See

<sup>26</sup> Vowell makes reference to a letter dated May 20, 1902 (not in collection). He notes that the group consists of "six families who have hitherto lived independently of each other at Revelstoke, Trail, Lower Kootenay and the Arrow Lake." [See Federal Collection, vl. 15, pp. 6-8, 9-13; 1943 Schedule, p. 33; NRCan Schedule (2005), pp. 40, 81]

<sup>27</sup> There is no covering letter for this set of Minutes of decision. It appears that this set of Minutes of decision were also included with the covering letter at correspondence number 1351/77. That covering letter indicates that the Minutes of decision enclosed includes the Victoria Superintendency and Sooke. There are no dates next to the individual Minutes of decision in this section. All are given the date June 11, 1877, which appears at the end of the Minutes. Interestingly, at the end of the Minutes of decision collection there is a notation which states: "The negotiations [sic] with the Esquimalt and Songhish Indians are at present incomplete." The sketch depicts only a few Beecher Bay reserves. [See Corr. No. 1355/77, this binder; Federal Collection, vl. 3, pp. 124-132; also Third Copy #2, ILR No. 13329]

<sup>35</sup> In writing to the Chief Commissioner of Lands and Works, O'Reilly provides only a two paragraph letter in submitting the Minutes of decision for the four groups. He states that the lands "so set apart are mostly rough mountain ranges, only valuable as runs for cattle, and horses, the small proportion of good land in this district having been already appropriated by white settlers." In the federal collection, O'Reilly provided the Superintendent General with field minutes describing his meetings and allotments for each group. There are no page numbers provided for the M.O.D.s and sketches. Pagination has been assigned for reference. [See Federal Collection, vl. 8, pp. 1-9, 85-104, 115-132; vl. 9, pp. 292-303]

<sup>39</sup> Vowell encloses a letter from Wm. Laing Meason, Indian Agent, Williams Lake, applying for 50 inches of water for irrigation for the Canoe Creek Indians. Vowell requests that the CCLW instruct the provincial agent in the area to approve the application. There is a notation, which was originally on the back of the letter, which states: "Ack state there can be no objection against granting the required record [??] to granting rights. Instruct Mr. Soues accordingly."

<sup>45</sup> Laing-Meason identifies the Canoe Creek, Dog Creek, Alkali Lake, Williams Lake and "Chilcotin (2 or 3 Tribes)." He states that the Canoe Creek, Dog Creek and Alkali Lake Indians all have some land, but that it is inadequate. There is no reserve at Williams Lake and the "Chilcotin Tribes wish to have their Reserves marked out for them wh[?] has never been done." Meason requests that Sproat send assurances he will visit in the coming season.

<sup>47</sup> Moffatt encloses a letter from Williams Lake Agency Indian Agent Wm. Laing Meason. Reference is made in both letters to instructions from the CCLW "relative to not recording lands in Chilcotin, claimed by Indians, until the allotment of Reserves by the Indian Reserve Commissioner." Meason also notes that the instructions forwarded to Mr. Soues, "Recorder of Lillooet District - are, and have been, of no use." Reference is made to a letter from the CCLW dated May 11, 1886, which was forwarded to Powell on May 12, 1886. Neither letter could be located in the provincial collection.

<sup>51</sup> Sproat refers to his letter dated July 28 regarding the "alleged water record of Mr. P. Park." Sproat advises the CCLW that since writing that letter, two days earlier, he has "had several visits from Indian Chiefs who live above Clinton" who requested that he visit their area as they were anxious about white settlers taking up the land. [See Corresp. No. 1798/78]

<sup>54</sup> Corr. No. 1351/77 is the covering letter which encloses the Minutes of decision for the JIRC for Indian groups in the "Victoria Superintendency - Howe Sound to Sooke", Corr. No. 1352/77. Within this set of Minutes of decision each allotment is separately dated. The entire collection of Minutes of decision is signed and dated on the last page as April 26, 1877. All the sketches enclosed with the Minutes are also signed by the Commissioners and by Edward Mohun, Surveyor to the JIRC. All the sketches are also dated April 26, 1877 in Mohun's handwriting. While the Minutes of decision can be found in the federal collection, the sketches appear to have been separated from the original submission as they are not contained in the federal collection. [See Federal Collection, vl. 3, pp. 56-119]

<sup>57</sup> There is a note at the end of this set of Minutes of decision which states: "The position of Pokheitsk Creek is not shewn [sic] on our plans - I cannot say whether the land proposed to be reserved is in the Railway Belt - I do not think that the lands set apart interfere with any of our preemption [sic] or purchase claims."

<sup>58</sup> O'Reilly identifies the Indians as the "Pokheitsk Indians (a branch of the Cook's Ferry tribe)." He also notes that the land upon which the reserves are allotted may fall within the Railway Belt, however, he notes that the extent of the Railway Belt "has not been defined." Nevertheless, he requests that the area be kept from either pre-emption or purchase. Interestingly, there are more allotments in the federal collection version than in the provincial collection. All of the reserves allotted by O'Reilly are held by the Cook's Ferry Indians. [See Federal Collection, vl. 13, pp. 671-697; NRCan Schedule (2005), pp. 43-44]

<sup>61</sup> Vowell refers to a letter from Gore dated September 20 and a report from a Mr. H. Fry, P.L.S.; neither of which is in the provincial collection. There is a notation which states: "See 4017/93." This is the last document in binder 11. Based upon that correspondence, this letter appears to refer to work done at Cowichan.

<sup>62</sup> It is unclear which reserves are being discussed, except that they would appear to be for the Cowichan Indians. Vowell deals with how the boundaries of the reserve will be identified. He makes reference to a letter from W.S. Gore dated September 20, 1893, which appears to have contained a proposal for resolving the boundary issue. This letter is not in the provincial collection. A notation on the letter states: "See 3173/93." This correspondence can be found earlier in this binder. [See Binder 1, Corr. No. 1352/77, esp. pp. 26-27; Binder 12, Corr. No. 3006/94; Federal Collection, vl. 3, p. 112, notation.]

<sup>66</sup> O'Reilly submits a Minute of decision and sketch for approval of the CCLW. O'Reilly notes that the land "is situated within the limits of Mr. William Sutton's timber lease No. 5. At an interview with that gentleman he offered no objection to the making of this reservation as it does not materially interfere with the fir timber. It is, however, valued by the Indians on account of the Cedar on it, and as being the site of their potato gardens and their fishery." Based upon information in the federal collection, it would appear that this reserve was cancelled. Interestingly, there is no correspondence included in this binder with respect to the other reserve allotted by O'Reilly at Cowichan Lake, which was affected by the pre-emptions of two settlers. [See Federal Collection, vl. 11, pp. 198-214]

<sup>67</sup> The Dog Creek Indians amalgamated with the Canoe Creek Indians (date unknown). They are currently identified as Canoe Creek. The organization of this set of minutes is slightly different from that in the federal collection. Notably, in the federal collection, the graveyard is discussed immediately following the allotment of I.R. 1. Despite these small changes, the content of the Minutes is the same. Interestingly a "Third Copy" of some of the Dog Creek allotments can be found at the end of vl. 8. The handwriting in the "Third Copy" is the same as that found in the provincial collection. [See Federal Collection, vl. 8, pp. 127-28; "Third Copy" at end of vl. 8; NRCan Schedule (2005), pp. 42, 84]

<sup>70</sup> O'Reilly identifies these Indians as "Douglas." In the federal collection, O'Reilly identified the Indians as "Skookum Chuck, a branch of the Douglas tribe." Currently, the reserves allotted by O'Reilly are held by two different groups: Samahquam and Skatin Nation (formerly Skookum Chuck). This appears to be the last set of Minutes of decision submitted by O'Reilly. He retired in 1898. The approval of O'Reilly's allotments is noted in the margin on the first page of the covering letter. Interestingly, O'Reilly notes that four of the reserves he's allotted cover either abandoned pre-emptions, or a pre-emption for which the Certificate of Improvement was not obtained. This version of this correspondence number has come from a microfilm copy. There is a photograph of the sketch included. The provenance of the photo and the microfilm copy is unknown. The sketches are not to scale. In this case, pagination from the microfilm copy has been used to identify the material. [See Binder 6, Corr. No. 360/82, pp. 20-25; Federal Collection, vl. 14, pp. 58-68; NRCan Schedule (2005), pp. 45, 63, 65, 84]

<sup>72</sup> The Fort George Indians were also known as Lheit lit'en Nation and are currently known as Lheidli Teneh Nation. [See Binder 12, Corr. No. 3547/95; Federal Collection, vl. 14, pp. 328-335; NRCan Schedule (2005), pp. 54-55, 84]

<sup>73</sup> The Fountain Indians are currently known as Xaxli'p. The Minutes of decision and sketches for this group are in a slightly different order in the federal collection. All the sketches for this group are "Approved" by George A. Walkem, CCLW, dated May 8, 1882. All the Minutes of decision also appear to have Walkem's signature, or signature stamp. [See Federal Collection, vl. 9, pp. 240-264; NRCan Schedule (2005), p. 84]

<sup>75</sup> Spelled "Frazer Lake" by O'Reilly. The Fraser Lake band split into two groups: Stellat'en First Nation (formerly Stellaquo); and, Nadleh Whuten. Reserves 1 to 4 are currently attributed to the Nadleh Whuten. Reserve number 5 is held by Stellat'en First Nation but it is identified as Stellaquo 1. [See Binder 12, Corr. Nos. 4788/95, 4865/95; Federal Collection, vl. 20, pp. 127a-128; See 1943 Schedule, pp. 149-150; NRCan Schedule (2005), pp. 59, 68, 85]

<sup>76</sup> This "Circular" relates to the intent and application of the "Pre-emption Law." Young states, among other things, that the "the object and intent of the Government in enacting that Law, was not to give facilities to the servants of the Government to speculate in land ..."

<sup>77</sup> Sproat inquires what the procedure for approval of the "apportionments of lands to the Indians from time to time" is to be now that he has been appointed "to take the place of the Indian Superintendents." He cites a "Canadian order in Council [sic]" dated 23 February 1877. This is the PC which authorized the work of the JIRC and stated that the Commission should continue to be government by BC OIC 1877-279. It is possible that the "Indian Superintendents" Sproat refers to are Powell and Lenihan. Among other things, Sproat states that approval or notice of appeal "must of course be given on the spot at the time of my decision." And that it "will not be prudent to give any information to the Indians as to the proposed reserves until the question has been finally arranged between yourself and me." (p. 2) Sproat indicates his many premises upon which he believes his work as Commissioner will be undertaken. [See Reference Guide to the Establishment of B.C. Indian Reserves, pp. 98-99]

<sup>80</sup> Sproat questions his authority to allot reserves in the "Railway Belt". He believes he would require Orders-in-Council from both the Dominion and Provincial governments. With respect to the province providing an OIC, Sproat writes, "You will oblige me by doing what is necessary in this matter as soon as possible, as I do not wish to lose any time ..." He notes the "questions are settled up to Comox and Jervis Inlet ..., but that he has "no powers" in the "Coast District", where the Sliammon and Klahoose are located, nor "up the coast of the mainland and in Vancouver and any of the islands... // I may mention that the Indians much desire to own islands [sic], but I do not think it right to give islands to them entirely as the effect is to strengthen the tribal system and to encourage habits of savage seclusion." N.B.: This letter is dated October 1878. Although the setting aside of land for the railway was part of the Terms of Union of 1871, the Railway Belt was not transferred until 1880. Because of alterations in the proposed route, the official date of the transfer is considered to be December 19, 1883. [See OCPC 1897-3362]

<sup>82</sup> Sproat advises the CCLW that he will be making various reports to the Dominion Government "in a short time." Sproat notes that he is "still without replies from [the CCLW] as to various matters referred to the Provincial Govt during two years past."

<sup>83</sup> Sproat provides a brief report on his work to date. He notes that since commencing his work as "single Commissioner in the middle of May last [i.e. May 1878], I have dealt with 5000 Indians ..." He states that, "the question of the Indians' lands has been examined and adjusted in the large extent of country south from Cache Creek and Lytton, and on both sides of the Gulf of Georgia up to and including Jervis Inlet and Comox." In describing this area, he appears to have included areas visited by the JIRC. He requests that the province issue him the requisite authority "for prosecuting the adjustment of the Indian land question in the districts not yet examined." [See Corr. No. 542/79, this binder]

<sup>85</sup> Sproat advises the CCLW that the Superintendent General of Indian Affairs has stated that he should proceed with the allotment of reserves on the coast, "leaving the work in the interior" until the two governments have resolved certain issues, particularly the matter of water. Sproat requests the "necessary authority" in order to make the allotments. [See Corr. No. 297/79, this binder.]

<sup>86</sup> This appears to be an informal memo from Sproat to the CCLW on the issue of his authority and the "want of an Order in Council ... to act either on those parts of the coast of the islands and the mainland not yet examined, or in the Lillooet district &c in the Interior." [emphasis in original]. He goes on to discuss other issues related to the work of the commission, including organizing the survey parties and census taker. He initials the memo, rather than officially signing it as the Reserve Commissioner. N.B.: There is no correspondence number on this memo.

<sup>87</sup> Sproat refers to a letter dated May 28 received from the CCLW (not in collection). The letter is in response to Sproat's memorandum dated May 26 (see unnumbered item, this binder). Sproat states: "I note that my authority, so far as the Provl. Government is concerned, is sufficient without the Order in Council which I had supposed might have been necessary ..."

<sup>88</sup> The date on this letter to the CCLW is largely obliterated, however, Sproat encloses a telegram from the Superintendent General dated May 30, 1879. It is presumed that the letter is, therefore, dated around May 31, 1879. Sproat notes that the Superintendent General has given him authority to go to the Interior instead of the Coast "provided that you arrange satisfactorily irrigation and any other questions at issue affecting Indian lands."

<sup>92</sup> Although Powell commences and concludes the letter referring to the Westbank Indians, the letter also touches upon other issues and other groups, including reference to the Indians along the Fraser from Yale, at Williams Lake and Soda Creek. He also discusses water allotments for reserves, the sale of reserve lands and the length of time it has taken for the provincial government to confirm the reserves. Powell makes reference to correspondence from the CCLW dated November 5th and 24th and from himself dated November 19. None of these letters is contained in the provincial collection. Powell takes issue with the position of the B.C. government. At one point Powell states, "... you will pardon me for stating that your impression as to "the immense area of land lying in a wild waste condition" is, in my opinion, calculated to mislead in correct consideration of this matter." (p. 2) [See Corr. No. 206/85, this binder]

<sup>99</sup> Moffatt requests a response to a letter dated November 6, 1889 ["6th ultimo"] so that the response can be presented to the SGIA. The letter referred to is not included in either the federal or provincial collections.

<sup>104</sup> There are two extracts at the end of volume 12. There is no correspondence number attributed to the extracts. The first is noted to be an extract from a letter from O'Reilly to the Superintendent General. O'Reilly requests to be informed if it is the opinion of the Superintendent General that "Patents [sic] are necessary for the conveyance by the Provincial to the Dominion government of the lands approved of as reserves or if a formal approval as hitherto is sufficient." O'Reilly states that Smithe, the former CCLW, did not think the Patents were necessary. O'Reilly states that the Supt. General wishes him to pursue the matter, he requests that the "form of conveyance you wish adopted" be sent to him.

<sup>107</sup> Sproat identified these Indians as "Tsaw-waw-ty-neuch Indians Gilford Island." Sproat appears to have erred in his identification of the band attribution for the reserves. Many different First Nations hold the reserves he attributes only to the Tsaw-waw-ty-neuch. Sproat allotments were by geographic location. None were confirmed as reserves. To distinguish Sproat's allotments from O'Reilly's the band is identified as "Gilford Island/Tsawawtyneuch." [See Binder 8, Corr. No. 2817/86, pp. 24-29; NRCan Schedule (2005), p. 85]

<sup>108</sup> The Gilford Island Indians are currently known as Kwicksutainuek-Ah-kwaw-ah-mish [reserves 1,8,9]; Kwa-wa-aineuk (now Gwawaenuk Tribe) [reserves 2 through 6] and Tsawataineuk [reserve 7]. Although Sproat had been to this area in 1879, O'Reilly makes no reference to any of Sproat's earlier work. [See Federal Collection, vl. 11, pp. 237-246; NRCan Schedule (2005), pp. 47, 52, 72, 85]

<sup>110</sup> O'Reilly refers to an application to pre-empt made by the Reverend Crosby for "320 acres at the junction of the Skeena and Hagwilget rivers." O'Reilly notes that Indian Agent Todd has submitted a letter objecting to the pre-emption. O'Reilly supports Todd and adds that if Crosby's pre-emption is allowed, it will be difficult to define lands for the Indians in the area. He requests that Crosby's pre-emption "remain in abeyance." It is noteworthy that it is Indian Agent Todd who has written the letter and not R.E. Loring, the Indian Agent for the Babine Agency, whose office was located in Hazelton.

<sup>111</sup> O'Reilly advises the CCLW of his plans to visit the Upper Skeena. O'Reilly inquires if there would be any objection to "that portion of the townsite occupied by the Indians being included within the Reserve, should it be found necessary to do so ..." The note on the back of the letter states: "Ack. Request Hon. Mr. O'Reilly to be good enough to call at this office tomorrow Saturday Augst 8th at 11 A.M. when the matter can be discussed." [See Binder 11, Corr. No. 319/92]

<sup>113</sup> These Indians are currently known as Gitanmaax. There is no sketch included with Vowell's Minute of decision. There is, however, a sketch in the federal collection. Although Vowell states that Ksoo-gun-ya 2 is cancelled because it was found to be "destitute" of timber. In the federal collection, he explains that fire "and other causes" were the reasons there was no timber. [See Binder 11, Corr. No. 319/92, pp. 3-7; Binder 13, Corr. No. 2901/99; NRCan Schedule (2005), pp. 45-46, 86; Federal Collection, vl. 14, pp. 19-22]

<sup>114</sup> Interestingly, O'Reilly identifies the tribe as "Kit-i-sun" [i.e. Gitksan]. He does not identify the tribe in the federal collection. He also states that, "[o]wing to the absence of the Indians from some of the villages and to the objection made by others to have their reserves defined, it will be necessary for the Reserve Commission to revisit this locality ..." In the federal collection, the Minutes of decision and sketches for these groups were separately submitted, each with a field minute providing more detail of O'Reilly's meeting with the group.

<sup>121</sup> Attached to the petition from the Kincolith Chiefs is an extract from the Government Gazette dated May 19, 1888. In this notice three parcels of land are identified. As far as can be determined, there is not an Indian reserve in the areas described under "Lot 1" and "Lot 3", however, Kincolith 14 is very near the area described in "Lot 2". Based upon the description, it is not possible to determine if the land is adjacent to or was ultimately included within the reserve. [See NTS Sheet 103/I]

<sup>123</sup> O'Reilly specifically notes that the land set aside as a reserve "does not adjoin that of any white settler, nor is it likely to interfere in any way with the progress of the country." As a result of Nisga'a Treaty and the act ratifying the treaty in April 2000, these Indians are currently known as the Nisga'a Village of Gingolx. The reserves are considered to be held by the Nisga'a Nation in fee simple. [See Binder 7, Corr. No. 506/82; Binder 9, Corr. No. 168/89; Federal Collection, vl. 14, pp. 89-92; NRCan Schedule (2005), pp. 77-78, 87; IIR #281681]

<sup>124</sup> The Kisgegas Indians amalgamated with the Gitanmaax Indians. This reserve is currently held by Gitanmaax. There is a more detailed description of Vowell's trip to this area in the federal collection. Vowell includes within this allotment an area of 320 acres for which an application to purchase had been made. Vowell states that the application embraces the old village site of "Aligosumdagh", some potato gardens, an important salmon fishery and a burial ground. He refers to his letter of April 28, 1898, in which he requested that the settler's application not be entertained (not included in the collection). N.B.: Vowell does not send his report to the federal government until November 1899, after approval has been received from the CCLW. [See Binder 13, Corr. Nos. 3536/99, 7144/99; Federal Collection, vl. 15, pp. 125-130; NRCan Schedule (2005), pp. 45, 87]

<sup>125</sup> Vowell refers to his letter of October 27, 1898 enclosing the Minute of decision for Kisgegas and requests that the CCLW approve the Minute so that the survey can commence as soon as possible. [See Corr. No. 7144/99, this binder; Binder 12, Corr. No. 7221/98]

<sup>126</sup> In the federal collection, O'Reilly provides much more detail regarding his meeting with these Indians. There is also an additional letter describing his visit to the area. [See Federal Collection, vl. 12, pp. 6-11; vl. 13, pp. 417-425; see also G.E. Shankel, The Development of Indian Policy In British Columbia, Ph.D. Dissertation, University of Washington, 1945, pp. 141-44, esp. fn. 58]

<sup>134</sup> O'Reilly identifies this group as "Kit-lath-la." It was also identified as "Kit-kath-la." In the covering letter to these Minutes of decision, O'Reilly notes that the reserve at the head of Lowe Inlet for the Kitlathla (later known as Kitkatla; currently known as Gitlaaxla Nation) include lands applied for by a settler named John Sayea, for which the settler gave notice of intent to purchase. O'Reilly provides no other context or background. The sketch included with the Minutes is signed: "Approved, Wm. Smith C C of L & W." In the federal collection, O'Reilly's field minute provides additional detail with respect to his meeting with these Indians. [See Binder 10, Corr. <sup>135</sup> This group is currently known as Gitxaala Nation (formerly Kitkatla). In his covering letter, O'Reilly notes that, with one exception, the allotments for this group are sealing or fishing stations "occupied by the Indians but worthless for any other purpose." This was O'Reilly's second visit to this area. In 1882, he allotted three reserves for these Indians. The version of this letter M.O.D. & sketch is a microfilm copy. Two versions of the sketches associated with these allotments are included: one is a photocopy, the other is a series of colour photographs. The two copies of the sketches are not the same and neither is to scale. The provenance of the microfilm and the photos is not known. Pagination found on the microfilm is not used in the index. [See Binder 7, Corr. No. 1464/82, pp. 18-20; Binder 12, Corr. No. 629/94; Federal Collection, vl. 12, pp. 17-29; NRCan Schedule (2005), pp. 46, 85, 87]

<sup>136</sup> O'Reilly submits plans of three reserves defined by him for the Kitlathla (currently known as Kitkatia) and Kitasoo Indians to be approved by the CCLW. He also encloses correspondence from surveyor F.A. Devereux related to encroachment by settlers upon the two reserves set aside by O'Reilly for these Indians. There are numerous notations on the front page of the letter. One states: "Approved F.G. Vernon, CCLWks, January 20th 1893." Crossed out and initialled were the words: "with the exception of Reserve Nos. 3 and 11." Another states: "Ans 24/1/93" and the third states: "Kitasoo plan taken by Mr. Green 22/6/93." Mr. Green is most likely Ashdown H. Green, surveyor to the IRC. Notably, although this correspondence pre-dates the following piece, the correspondence number is higher. [See Corr. No. 203/93, this binder]

<sup>154</sup> Based upon the Indian Agents' reports in the Indian Affairs Annual Reports, it would appear that at some point in the early 1900s, the Klaskino and Koskemo Indians were considered to be part of the Quatsino Band. The Indian Agent's report in the 1910 sessional paper states that the Klaskino were so intermarried with the Koskemo and Quatsino that "they have lost their identity." No official date for an amalgamation could be located. [See Federal Collection, vl. 12, pp. 175-181; 1943 Schedule, p. 37]

<sup>155</sup> Vowell identified these Indians as "Kluskus Lake." They are currently known as Kluskus. Notations on the side of the letter state: "Ansd 14/11/82" and "Approved June 5/84". Neither piece of correspondence is currently included in the provincial collection. There are no page numbers in the original. Pagination has been provided for reference.

<sup>158</sup> O'Reilly advises the CCLW that in view of his (O'Reilly's) "proposed early visit to Kootenay" [sic] for the purpose of defining the Indian reserves, he requests that "pending the negotiations with the Indians, no application to pre-empt or purchase land in that locality should be granted, except subject to what may be deemed necessary for the Indians." A notation on the back of the letter states: "Ack receipt and say[?] Mr. Vernon Asst. Comm of L. & W for Kootenay has been instructed on the subject referred to." This is an interesting letter inasmuch as it is extremely similar to letters sent by Sproat, during his tenure as IRC, making the same request, however, in this case, there is the notation that the relevant provincial officer has been notified.

<sup>161</sup> These Indians amalgamated with the Kispiox Indians. They are currently known as Kispiox and the reserve is held by Kispiox. [See Binder 13, Corr. No. 2901/99; Federal Collection, vl. 14, pp. 29-33; NRCan Schedule (2005), pp. 50, 89]

<sup>162</sup> Sproat identified this group as "Kwah-kewlth". They are currently known Kwakiutl. Sproat's allotments for this group were not confirmed by B.C. It is noteworthy that Sproat omits any comment about the Douglas Treaty with these Indians. The Minutes in the federal collection are in a slightly different order. O'Reilly re-allotted these reserves in 1886. [See Binder 8, Corr. No. 2817/86, pp. 6-10; Federal Collection, vl. 11, pp. 118, 229-236; vl. 18, pp. 179-185; PILQ, p. 11; NRCan Schedule (2005), pp. 51-52]

<sup>163</sup> This group is currently known as Kwakiutl or Kwagewlth. O'Reilly identifies these Indians as Fort Rupert, although elsewhere he, and others, identifies them as Kwawkewlth. For consistency, Kwawkewlth is used in this index. Interestingly, O'Reilly makes no mention of the Douglas Treaty involving these people. Sproat had previously visited this group, however, his allotments were not confirmed. [See Binder 5, Corr. No. 775/80, pp. 96-101a; Federal Collection, vl. 11, pp. 229-236; vl. 18, pp. 183-85; NRCan Schedule (2005), p. 89; PILQ, p. 11]

<sup>165</sup> Sproat identified this group as "Laich-kwil-tach" Indians. There are a number of variations throughout the collection on the spelling of name of this group. For consistency within the index it is spelled "Laichquiltach" and the subgroup is identified in [ ] beneath. There are a few minor differences in the identification of the sub-groups between the federal and provincial collections. Again, for consistency, the sub-groups have been identified as they were in the federal collection. As in the federal collection, there are different dates for the Minutes of decision for the different groups. Sproat's allotments in this area were not confirmed as reserves. Sproat's authority from the B.C. government as laid out in BC OIC 1878-615 covered only the Yale electoral district. O'Reilly re-visited and re-allotted reserves for these Indians. [See Binder 8, Corr. No. 2832/86; Federal Collection, vl. 18, pp. 57-101]

<sup>168</sup> Laich-quil-tach/Eu-claw-taw are a Kwa'kwala and Salish pronunciations of the same group. There are many variants on the spelling of Laich-quil-tach. The current spelling is Lekwiltok. For the purposes of this index the spelling used will be Laichquiltach. In the field minute in the federal collection, O'Reilly notes that this tribe was divided into four bands: Kah-kah-mat-sis, We-way-a-kum [also We-wai-a-kum], Kwi-ah-kah and We-way-a-kay [also spelled We-wai-a-kay]. We-way-a-kum and We-way-a-kay are currently known as Campbell River and Cape Mudge, respectively. Kwiakah and Kahkahmahtsis amalgamated and became part of what is currently known as Comox. Sproat was in this area and made allotments in 1879, however, his allotments were not confirmed. O'Reilly makes no reference to Sproat's work. In writing to the CCLW, O'Reilly discusses the agricultural potential of the land. He also provides basic census information. He notes that he was unable to set aside land at Campbell River as the Indians were absent. [See Binder 5, Corr. No. 775/80, pp. 30-56; Federal Collection, vl. 11, pp. 277-91]

<sup>170</sup> Powell refers to a letter from the CCLW dated April 6, 1888 (not in collection) regarding the dispute at Campbell River between Messrs. Nunn and the Indians. Powell also refers to a "certified copy of an order of the Honourable Executive Council on the subject" and the appointment of Ashdown H. Green "to determine the extent and the boundaries of the Indian Reserve at Campbell River." Neither document is contained in the provincial collection. Powell states he will advise Green to proceed with the matter as early as possible. [See Binder 5, Corr. No. 775/80, pp. 47-48; Binder 8, Corr. No. 2832/86]

<sup>171</sup> Green submits his Minute of decision at Campbell River. This Minute of decision could not be located in the federal collection. Green notes in the covering letter that he had the "authority to determine the extent, and boundaries of the Indian Reserve at that place, as recommended in the Provincial Order in Council of 6th April" and that he "left Victoria on the 25th Ult<sup>mo</sup>" [ie. April]. Green states that his "award gave satisfaction to all parties interested, and that the dispute between the Messrs Nunn, and the Indians is now amicably settled." Interestingly, Green signs the letter as "Surveyor to the IRC" [See Binder 8, Corr. No. 2832/86; Federal Collection, vl. 11, pp. 277-91; vl. 18, pp. 57-101]

<sup>173</sup> Vowell identifies three groups for which he has set aside four pieces of land: Tsimpsean (a.k.a. Tsimshian); Nass River (a.k.a. Nisga'a) and Lakelse. The Lakelse appear to have been a sub-group of the Tsimpsean. The reserves allotted to them were ultimately held by Lax Kw'alaams and/or Metlakatla. [See Corr. Nos. 1210/04, 1404/04 this binder; Binder 12, Corr. No. 692/94, pp. 5-6; Federal Collection, vl. 15, pp. 371-79, 403-09]

<sup>175</sup> O'Reilly encloses Minutes of decision and "plans" for the approval of the CCLW for the reserves set aside by him at Lillooet, Cayoosh and Bridge River. All the sketches are approved by the CCLW, George A. Walkem, dated May 8, 1882. O'Reilly provides no additional information with respect to his meetings with these groups, however, there are detailed field minutes in the federal collection. The signature, or signature stamp, of George Walkem and an approval date of May 8, 1882, appears on many of the Minutes of decision and all the sketches. There are no page numbers in the provincial collection, pagination has been assigned. [See Federal Collection, vl. 9, pp. 166-181, 204-14, 215-39]

<sup>179</sup> Powell forwards to the CCLW Sproat's Minutes of decision "in respect of lands and water privileges allotted by him to the Nicola Indians in 1878." Powell also forwards plans numbered 1 to 10, a reference map and 15 field books. He also encloses a copy of a letter from Sproat. Pages 49-67 of the submitted material relate to "Water Privileges." [See Federal Collection, vl. 3, pp. 264-398]

<sup>182</sup> This "field minute" is 41 pages long, has three sketches and two appendices. Sproat goes through a history of reserve allotment in the areas. He commences the field minute by identifying the Indians as the "Nekla-kap-a-muk division or "Nation" of the Indians of British Columbia." He then provides the locations at which the Neklapamuk are found. By his own admission he divided the Neklapamuk into four groups for census purposes: Spuzzum, Boston Bar, Boothroyd and Lytton. He asserts, however, that this grouping is in accordance with the wishes of the Indians. Sproat divided the Lytton group into subgroups: Kanaka Flat, Siska Flat, Skuppah and Lytton proper. (p. 3). He also quotes Joseph Trutch on the issue of the lack of title of the Indians in the "public lands" (p. 4). In discussing the surveying of the reserves, at one point, Sproat states that, "some of the oldest Indian settlements between Spuzzum and Lytton were not, so far as I can find, marked off nor delineated by the Royal Engineers, and it also is a fact that, some of these "omitted" places, and other old Indian settlements which had been delineated by the Royal engineers, were not included in the reserves laid off and surveyed by the Colonial Government in 1870, and do not appear in the Schedule of Reserves furnished by the Provincial [sic] to the Dominion Government." (p. 16) Sproat states that the "satisfactory result" of his work "has been achieved because the Indians left the adjustment entirely in my own hands ...." (p. 23)

<sup>185</sup> In the federal collection, O'Reilly provides additional information with respect to this group. These Indians are currently known as Mamalilikulla-Qwe'qwa'sot'em. Sproat had visited this area in 1879 and although O'Reilly makes no mention of Sproat's trip, O'Reilly's allotments appear to be in the same general vicinity as Sproat's allotments. The reserves as allotted by O'Reilly are currently held by three different groups: Mahmalilikullah 1 is currently held by the Mamalilikulla-Qwe'qwa'sot'em (formerly Mamalelequala Que'qua'sot'enox and/or Mahmalilikullah), the Kwicksutaineuk-Ah-kwaw-ah-mish Indians hold reserves 2, 3 and 4 and the Da'naxda'xw First Nation (formerly Tanakteuk) holds reserve no. 5. [See Binder 5, Corr. No. 775/80, pp. 76-80; Federal Collection, vl. 11, pp. 253-55, 257, 265-68; vl. 18, pp. 139-47; NRCan Schedule (2005), pp. 44, 52, 57, 90, 101]

<sup>186</sup> The name for this group has also been spelled Maltipe and Mah-teelth-pe; these Indians were formerly known as Tlowitsis-Mumtagila. Currently they are known as Tlowitsis Tribe. Sproat's allotments for this group were not confirmed. O'Reilly visited the area in 1886 and re-allotted the majority of the areas set aside by Sproat. [See Binder 8, Corr. No. 2816/87; NRCan Schedule (2005), pp. 71, 90]

<sup>192</sup> O'Reilly identifies the Indians only as "Tsimpsean". These two groups were resident at Fort Simpson and the Metlakatla. The majority of the reserves allotted by O'Reilly on this trip were either for the Metlakatla or allotted jointly between the Metlakatla and Fort Simpson (a.k.a. Port Simpson, currently Lax Kw'alaams). For the purpose of this index, the two groups will be identified as Metlakatla and Port Simpson. There are notations at the top of the page which state: "Memo!! Interview with Mr. O'Reilly Indian Commissioner May 8, 1882. Note Fort Simpson and Metlakatla reserve not approved of! Further consideration necessary & boundaries [?] defined. Geo. A. Walkem, C.C. L & W". At the end of this set of Minutes of decision and sketches are two documents apparently from the 1940s. <sup>193</sup> The Tsimpsean Indians, as identified by O'Reilly, consisted of the Metlakatla and Port Simpson (a.k.a. Fort Simpson) Indians. The Port Simpson Indians are currently known as Lax Kw'alaams. Most of the reserves allotted here were for the Port Simpson (now Lax Kw'alaams) Indians. The sketches included with these Minutes are signed: "Approved Wm. Smith C.C. of L & W." There is no date of approval. The layout of the sketches differs slightly from the federal collection. The field minute in the federal collection provides additional detail about O'Reilly's meeting with these Indians. [See Corr. No. 506/82, pp. 18-30, this binder; Federal Collection, vl. 10, pp. 145-160]

<sup>195</sup> O'Reilly refers to a letter from the CCLW dated February 22, 1889 (not included in provincial collection). O'Reilly replies to the CCLW with respect to the assertion that settlers have a prior claim to lands defined by him for the Tsimpsean as reserves. O'Reilly asserts the Indians requirements for the lands. At one point he states: "... I submit that since the appointment of the Joint Commission to define reserves for the Indians, this is the first occasion upon which a simple notice of intention to purchase land, without even an attempt at improvement by the intending purchaser has been deemed sufficient to deprive the natives of their just rights." O'Reilly also refers to the Cornwall-Planta Commission and questions whether the provincial government has "kept faith" with the Indians.

<sup>197</sup> The Commission encloses amended Minutes of decision for Squamish and Musqueam Indians. They state that the amendments were "satisfactory as we were told, to both whites and Indians." They further state that the Minutes of decision and map sent in November "may be considered as withdrawn." This letter is signed by McKinlay and Sproat. A similar letter was sent to Lawrence Vankoughnet, Superintendent General Indian Affairs Ottawa. It was signed by Anderson and Sproat. There are additional sketches in the Provincial set. [See Federal Collection, vl. 3, pp. 136-149a]

<sup>200</sup> This group amalgamated with the Quawshelah and are currently known as Gwasala-Nakwaxda'xw. A more detailed account of O'Reilly's meeting with these Indians can be found in the field minute in the federal collection. This was O'Reilly's second trip to this area. There is a marginal notation on the covering letter which states: "Approved F.G. Vernon C.C.L.W.<sup>ks</sup> January 15, 1889." There is no pagination in the original. Page numbers have been provided for reference. [See Binder 7, Corr. No. 1425/82; Federal Collection, vl. 11, pp. 57-71; NRCan Schedule (2005), pp. 46-47, 91]

<sup>203</sup> O'Reilly submits Minutes of decision and sketches for eight (8) different groups "resident between the eastern shore of Vancouver Island, and the West coast of the Mainland." The groups have been known by different names over the years. O'Reilly also provides, for the first time, a table with information related to the population, acreage, livestock and cultivable land. He notes that the "several plots of land ... are of a very worthless character, they are, with few exceptions, merely fishing stations, the land being incapable of cultivation ..." There are two notations which were written on the back of the first page of the letter which states, in part: "The within Reserves are hereby approved with the exception of No. 3 for Fort Rupert Indians ..." The first note is signed by Wm. Smith, CCLW. The second note, noting the problem had been resolved, was written in 1887, is signed by F.G. Vernon, CCLW. Also, for the first time, the pages Minutes of decision are numbered, however, rather than numbering the submission consecutively from beginning to end, each new group begins again with the number "1". For clarity for the purpose of this index, consecutive page numbers are provided for reference. The names used in this index correlate to the names used in the federal collection index. In the federal collection, O'Reilly submitted separate field minutes for each group.

<sup>205</sup> The Nass River Indians are now identified as Nisga'a. As a result of the Nisga'a Treaty and the act ratifying the treaty in April 2000, all of the reserves allotted to the Nisga'a are identified as Nisga'a lands. The reserves are considered to be held by the Nisga'a in fee simple. The groups within the Nisga'a are currently identified as the Nisga'a Villages of: New Aiyansh (formerly Gitlakdamix, a.k.a. Aiyansh), Gitwinkshilkw (a.k.a. Gwinaha/Canyon City), Laxgalt'sap (formerly Lakalzap, a.k.a. Greenville) and Gingolx (formerly Kincolith). The sketches included with the Minutes are all signed as "Approved" by the CCLW, George A. Walkem. They are dated May 8, 1882. O'Reilly's field minute in the federal collection contains more detail regarding his visit to this area, including additional information regarding settlers. [See Binder 9, Corr. No. 168/89; Binder 12, Corr. No. 5813/96; Binder 13, Corr. No. 9779/03; Federal Collection, vl. 9, pp. 76-113]

<sup>207</sup> O'Reilly identifies these Indians as "Nass River." This set of Minutes of decision includes allotments for four groups: Kincolith, Lakalzap, Gitwinkshilkw and Gitlakdamix. As a result of their treaty and the Act ratifying the treaty in April 2000, these Indians are currently known respectively as the Nisga'a Villages of Gingolx, Laxgalt'sap, Gitwinkshilkw and New Aiyansh. There is no pagination on the original Minutes of decision. Page numbers have been provided for reference. On the covering letter there are some notations: "See O/C 108, 1887 re appointing Commissioner. See also Sessional Papers 1887 for report leading up to appointment of Commissioner. Approved see over." [See Binder 7, Corr. No. 506/82; Federal Collection, vl. 11, pp. 25-48; NRCan Schedule (2005), pp. 77-79, 91]

<sup>211</sup> This group is currently known as Xeni Gwetin First Nations. The name has also been spelled "Nemiah Valley." Vowell's field minute in the federal collection provides more detail about his trip to this area. There is a marginal notation at the commencement of the Minutes of decision indicating that the allotments were approved by the CCLW on October 18, 1899. This version of Vowell's covering letter and Minutes of decision have been taken from a microfilm copy. The copy included in the collection is poor and difficult to read. In addition to the black and white microfilm copies of the sketches, there are photographs of the sketches as well. The provenance of the photos and the microfilm copy is not known. Pagination from the microfilm copy has been used. [See Federal Collection, vl. 15, pp. 133-51; NRCan Schedule (2005), pp. 75, 92]

<sup>212</sup> The report is somewhat difficult to read. The ink is blotchy and has run in some spots. Within the report, reference is made to the "Provincial Commissioners", this would appear to be in reference to both McKinlay and Sproat, who sign the report. N.B.: a transcription has been done of the letter.

<sup>215</sup> Sproat makes reference to his letter of April 12 "last", this could be the letter found in Binder 1, Corr. No. 883/78. Sproat is writing to the CCLW about the "Lower Fraser Reserves." He requests that the CCLW "reserve from pre-emption" all lands near reserves in the New Westminster District until he has "examined it." He encloses a list of lands which he particularly desires to be reserved from pre-emption. The three areas he describes cover a substantial distance: the first covers about 20 miles; the second approximately 9 miles and the third approximately 11 miles. It should be noted that it appears that on the first and third description Sproat has confused the left and right banks of the Fraser River. Notably, Scowlitz is on the right bank, not the left and the waggon road is on the left and not the right bank. It is possible that Sproat had not yet visited the area. If he was orienting himself from the waggon road, then, it appears he was unaware that the waggon road changed sides of the river at Alexandra.

<sup>219</sup> O'Reilly states that Cormorant Island is "held under lease by Messrs. Spencer, and Earle, the circumstances of which are fresh in your memory. I may mention that before defining these reserves I conferred with Mr. Spencer on the ground, and that he expressed himself perfectly satisfied with the arrangement made by me." These Indians are currently known as Namgis. [See Corr. No. 1125/84, this binder; Binder 5, Corres. No. 775/80; NRCan Schedule (2005), p. 92; Federal Collection, vl. 10, pp. 1-2]

<sup>220</sup> These Indians are currently known as Namgis First Nation. O'Reilly spelled the band name "Nimkeesh". They were also known as Nimpkish. This was O'Reilly's second trip to this area. He had also visited this group almost exactly two years earlier in 1884. [See Corr. No. 3139/84, this binder]

<sup>223</sup> The signature block is missing from this covering letter, however, based upon the similar letter found in the federal collection, it would appear that Sproat and McKinlay would have signed off the letter to the CCLW. Interestingly, this letter is dated one day earlier than the federal letter enclosing the same Minutes of decision. The covering letter may have been separated from the Minutes of decision as it has a later correspondence number than the Minutes themselves. Indeed, a correspondence no. "155/78" is noted at the top of the page, but is crossed out. No sketches are included with these Minutes. It is noted in the covering letter that the sketches are unfinished "owing to open questions," but will be sent as soon as "these questions are settled." These Minutes of decision relate to the JIRC's work in the summer and fall of 1877, prior to the Commission being disbanded. [See Federal Collection, vl. 3, pp. 150-263]

<sup>224</sup> Sproat encloses Minutes of decision for work done "in the past season in matters left over for adjustment by the Reserve Commission during the previous season." He requests that these Minutes be attached as a "supplement to the 1877 decisions." He also states that "in due course" he will submit more succinct descriptions of the reserves as soon as the maps being prepared from the "actual surveys" are completed. In this version some revised allotment dates are given, however, the date relied upon is that of the allotment by the JIRC in 1877. Sproat's signature is found at the end of the Minutes of decision. N.B.: The provincial version is quite difficult to read, the versions found in vl. 2 and vl. 3 of the federal collection are much more legible. [See Binder 2, Corr. Nos. 1084/78, 1081/78; Federal Collection, vl. 1, pp. 12-13, 92-107; vl. 2, pp. 116-123; vl. 3, pp. 3-23, 150-263; 1943 Schedule, pp. 29-30]

<sup>225</sup> In the federal collection, O'Reilly's field minute provides more detail with respect to the sub-groups for whom allotments were made at Esperanza Inlet. In the provincial collection, the allotments for the two groups are delineated only by the sketches. Reserves 1 through 9 were allotted to the Nuchatlitz, currently known as the Nuchatlaht. Reserves 10 through 13 were allotted to the Ehatisaht, currently known as Ehattesaht. In this instance, for the purposes of the index, the former spellings are used for the sub-groups and the larger group, Esperanza Inlet, is also identified. [See Federal Collection, vl. 12, pp. 234-256; 1943 Schedule, pp. 174-176; NRCan Schedule (2005), pp. 45, 61, 84, 93]

<sup>226</sup> Although this group is not specifically cited, other correspondence indicates this is the First Nation to which reference is made. Vowell writes to Vernon regarding encroachment of the Hope-Popcorn [sic] wagon road on Indian reserves. Vowell states that any Indian improvements will have to be compensated. Ohamil is currently known as Shxw'ow'hamel First Nation. It should be noted that the Ohamil reserve fell within the Railway Belt. [See Corr. Nos. 2827/94, 446/95, this binder; NRCan Schedule (2005), pp. 65, 93]

<sup>227</sup> These Indians are currently known as Huu-ay-aht First Nation. The Band's name has also previously been spelled Ohiaht. O'Reilly provided no additional information to the CCLW, however, in the federal collection, there is a detailed Field Minute. The sketches are signed "Approved Wm. Smithe CC of L & W." There is no approval date on the sketches. [See Federal Collection, vl. 10, pp. 356-377; NRCan Schedule (2005), pp. 48-49, 93]

<sup>228</sup> O'Reilly submits the Minutes of decision and sketches for seven communities along the west coast of Vancouver Island. He notes that the reserves for the "Nitinat" [currently known as Dididaht] and "Pacheena" [currently known as Pacheedaht] have not been completed as he was unable to visit all their fishing stations. Curiously, the Correspondence No. for the Minutes of decision is clearly shown to be "225/85." This clearly indicates that these Minutes and sketches were included with correspondence from 1885. There is a marginal notation which states: "Enclosed in 1385/82 L.I." [L.I.: letter incoming]. The Minutes are dated 1882. There is no correspondence in the federal collection indicating that additional work was done in 1885 in this area by O'Reilly. It is possible that the original copy submitted by O'Reilly was misplaced and another copy provided in 1885. As the Minutes of decision and sketches were originally submitted and dated 1882, the correspondence number cited will be 1385/82. There is a signature, or signature stamp, on the sketches which states: "Approved Wm. Smithe, C.C. L & W". There are no page numbers in the original. Pagination has been assigned for reference. [See Federal Collection, vl. 10, pp. 308-392]

<sup>235</sup> This version of O'Reilly's covering letter and Minutes of decision have been taken from a microfilm copy. In addition to the black and white microfilm copies of the sketches, there are photographs of the sketches. The provenance of the microfilm copy and the photographed sketches is not known. O'Reilly notes in his covering letter that he laid out the reserves in accordance with instructions from the Superintendent General of Indian Affairs. At the same time, O'Reilly submits the Minute of decision for a reserve laid out by him for the Lytton Indians. With respect to both reserves, O'Reilly notes that the reserves "do not in any way encroach on the rights of any settler and the land is situated within the railway belt." The pagination from the microfilm copy has been used in the index. [See Federal Collection, vl. 11, pp. 308a-308c; vl. 19, pp. 152-154]

<sup>238</sup> The original narrative index suggested that this memorandum was an attachment to the letter dated January 9, 1888. The problem is that the memo is dated January 24, 1888. The context is somewhat difficult to glean, however, it seems that the memo was a response to a letter from the CCLW, which is not included in the provincial collection. The quercus would appear to relate to the use of reserve lands by the Indians. Powell points out the uncertainty which exists with respect to the lands because of the province's failure to confirm the work of the Indian Reserve Commissions. It is also perhaps notable that the CCLW would have asserted that the Indians on the Osoyoos reserve had 1100 acres each per family.

<sup>242</sup> O'Reilly submits plans for the CCLW's "final approval and signature." He notes that the minutes of decision had already been approved and that tracings of the plans and duplicate field books will be forwarded. The plans are not included in the provincial collection.

<sup>244</sup> The Pacheena Indians are currently known as Pacheedaht First Nation. O'Reilly refers to the letter from the CCLW dated July 17, 1894 (not in collection) in which the CCLW advised O'Reilly that a portion of the "N.W. quarter of Section 12, Township 10, Renfrew District lying to the west of Harris Creek was available for an Indian fishery." O'Reilly cites correspondence number 2373/94. This is, in fact, a letter from O'Reilly to the CCLW asking that land in the area be withheld from pre-emption. Interestingly, O'Reilly states he has, "after examination ... subject to your approval, duly declared it a reserve for the use of the Pacheena tribe." Notations on the page state: "See L.I. [letter incoming] 2028/94" and "Ans 27/11/94". The response is not included in the collection. [See Corr. <sup>246</sup> O'Reilly forwards to the CCLW for his "information and approval, rough plans and descriptions of the lands reserved by me ..." O'Reilly identifies six groups and provides no other information with respect to his allotments. In the federal collection a detailed field minute can be located for each group. The Minutes of decision do not follow in the order cited by O'Reilly. [See Federal Collection, vl. 8, pp. 9-48, 49-56, 57-78, "Third Copy" at the end of the volume; vl. 9, pp. 240-265, 266-281, 282-290]

<sup>247</sup> These Indians are currently known as Mount Currie. In the covering letter, O'Reilly states: "With regard to the reserves for the Pemberton Indians, I have the honour to request you to direct that for the present no pre-emption claim be recorded, or sale of land made in the tract of country known as the Upper, and Lower Pemberton Meadows, the reserves for these Indians having not been finally dealt with." Despite O'Reilly's request, later evidence suggests that pre-emptions were allowed. [See NRCan Schedule (2005), p. 93]

<sup>253</sup> O'Reilly notes that there have been several notices in the Government Gazette of the intention to purchase in the Quatsino area. O'Reilly states he is "credibly informed" that these pre-emptions will include the site of Indian houses and fisheries. O'Reilly requests that no pre-emptions be allowed on the West Coast of Vancouver Island until he has visited the area to define reserves.

<sup>254</sup> The Klaskino and Koskemo Indians amalgamated with the Quatsino and are currently known as Quatsino. In submitting the Minutes of decision and sketches for this group, O'Reilly asks that the CCLW approve the reserves allotted for the Indians with the exception of Nos. 13 & 14, for which Crown Grants have been issued by the Provincial Government to Mr. John Thomson and Messrs. Pamphlet and Booth, respectively. O'Reilly refers to his correspondence dated September 23, 1889 on this matter. [See Binder 9, Corr. Nos. 395/89, 2429/89, 2430/89; Federal Collection, vl. 12, pp. 84-112]

<sup>263</sup> Moffatt writes to Forbes George Vernon, CCLW advising that the Commissioners propose to visit the Sechelt Peninsula and Jervis Inlet "to settle the various issues in question under the powers secured to them." In light of the pending work, the provincial government is requested not to issue pre-emptions, sell any land, issue any leases, particularly timber leases and, most especially, that there "be no interference with the localities now occupied as Indian Villages [sic]." It is noted that Superintendent Powell has been informed that applications have been made at both Dean's Canal and Bute Inlet which include portions of land "actually occupied" by Indians. Moffatt encloses a basic sketch of Princess Royal Reach and Queen's reach.

<sup>265</sup> The JIRC report on their trip to Jervis Inlet. Among other things, they state that there "is no land available in Jervis Inlet for agricultural settlers and white men are never likely to settle on its shores except for mining or fishing purposes. We had great difficulty, over a shoreline of about 200 miles, finding a reasonable quantity of land for the reserves of the She-Shells (Sechelts) who number 167 persons." (p. 2) The "rough map sent to the Provincial Secretary" (p. 6) may be a reference to the sketch included with the Minutes of decision.

<sup>269</sup> A.M. Burgess, Deputy Minister of the Interior, writes to O'Reilly regarding his allotment at Semiahmoo. Burgess states that O'Reilly's allotment had been a Military Reserve, that the land was the property of the Dept. of Interior and that negotiations were "in progress for its sale to a private individual at a high price." Burgess states he has written to the Minister "pointing out to him that the Department of Indian Affairs cannot appropriate, for Indian or other purposes, public lands under the jurisdiction of the Department of Interior ..."

<sup>271</sup> O'Reilly spelled the name of this group "Se-shart", it has also been spelled Sechart and Tseshart. It is currently spelled Tseshah. In the federal collection, O'Reilly provided a detailed field minute, in addition to the Minutes of decision and sketches. The sketches included with the Minutes of decision have been signed "Approved Wm. Smithe CC of L & W." There is no approval date on the sketches. [See Federal Collection, vl. 10, pp. 339-354; NRCan Schedule (2005), pp. 95, 100]

<sup>273</sup> This document is a typescript extract of the Minutes of decision for the Lower Similkameen Indians. The title of the document states: "Okanagan Indians, Keremeos (Lower Similkameen) Group." The provenance of this extract is unknown, however a similar version of the Minutes of decision was prepared for use of the McKenna-McBride Commission (1912-1916). It is not known why and/or how this copy came to be included in the provincial collection.

<sup>274</sup> Sproat makes reference to a letter from the CCLW dated January 14, 1879 which enclosed letters from settlers in the Similkameen dated December 2, 1878 (neither letter is in the provincial collection). Sproat states he is "embodying" his Field Minutes and will send the CCLW the one on Similkameen as soon as he receives the sketches. [See Corr. Nos. 201/79, 202/79, this binder]

<sup>275</sup> Sproat reviews his decision making process with respect to reserve allotment in the Similkameen area and the problems of allowing pre-emptions before the Commission has resolved the "Indian land questions." He notes, among other things, that under the method he devised "it would not be necessary to disturb a single white settler in any land he occupied, nor indeed to inquire (and I have not inquired) whether the lands were legally held or not. // This determination so displeased the Indians that at one time I thought it would be impossible to negotiate with them at all ... however, finally I succeeded in effecting an adjustment." (p. 2) It appears that Mr. Daigneault pre-empted the land which Sproat set aside for the Indians. (pp. 3-4) [See Federal Collection, vl. 5/3, pp. 73-80d]

<sup>283</sup> O'Reilly refers to a letter from the CCLW dated December 3, 1884. This letter is not included in the provincial collection. As with the letter on the Kootenay, it appears that O'Reilly was requested to provide "a statement shewing [sic] the number of Indians resident at Keremeus; the number of cattle possessed by them; the number of acres enclosed; and the number of acres under cultivation at the present time." O'Reilly provides Sproat's 1878 census. O'Reilly goes on to comment about a position proffered by the B.C. government, concluding, "in my opinion, if the Indians are to be consulted at all as to the extent of their reserves, as is contemplated by the Dominion Government, the course you dictate would be found impracticable." (pp. 2-3)

<sup>285</sup> O'Reilly identifies the Indians as "Keremeus". Currently they are known as Lower Similkameen. O'Reilly refers to his letter of November 29, 1884 with respect to his allotment of Terbasket 3 and notes that, "to the present time [it] has not been approved." He also refers to Sproat's allotments of 1878 (Similkameen 1 and Lower Similkameen 2) and the subsequent sale of those lands. There is a marginal notation on the first page of the covering letter which states: "Approved F.G. Vernon CCLW<sup>18</sup> January 16, 1889." There are additional notations which state: "Ans<sup>d</sup> 16/1/89 LO[?] 310 Vol 30 See L.I. [?] 3138/84" This latter reference is the letter to which O'Reilly referred. [See Binder 8, Corr. No. 3138/84; Federal Collection, vl. 11, pp. 15-24; NRCan Schedule (2005), pp. 55, 96]

<sup>287</sup> MacKay refers to two letters, one dated May 19, 1891, the other dated May 25, 1891. Neither of these letters is in the provincial collection. In his letter, MacKay notes that on the last visit the Indian Commissioner "did not meet the Chiefs of Chu chu way ha and Ashnola. The Indians of these bands therefore maintain that their land questions have not been settled." MacKay, in referring to his letter of May 25, states that he had explained "the circumstances under which this land is held by the Indians although it be not an Indian Reserve."

<sup>291</sup> Vowell encloses 5 letters received from Indian Agent MacKay of the Okanagan Agency applying for extensions to reserves. Vowell requests that the CCLW "not allow the lands in question to be disposed of..." Vowell advises he will address the matter in the next two to three months.

<sup>292</sup> MacKay reports that he "found that the Statements made by Mr. J.F. Allison and by Mr. Barrington Price were substantially correct." He also states that Mr. H. Bullock Webster declined to meet with him. "I accordingly laid information against him for breach of the Peace, and had him bound over by the local Magistracy to keep the Peace for three months." [See Corr. No. 3529/91, this binder]

<sup>295</sup> Although O'Reilly identified these Indians as "Lower Similkameen" in the covering letter, on the Minutes of decision the Indians are identified as "Similkameen." These Indians are currently known as Lower Similkameen. [See Binder 9, Corr. No. 99/89; Binder 10, Corr. No. 1610/91; Binder 12, Corr. No. 2041/95; Federal Collection, vl. 14, pp. 224-31; NRCan Schedule (2005), p. 96]

<sup>296</sup> In this case, O'Reilly identifies the Indians as Upper Similkameen and Lower Similkameen. In previous correspondence the Lower Similkameen Indians were identified either as Similkameen or Keremeus. In writing to the CCLW, O'Reilly states that, "in conformity with the general authority expressed by you to the effect that certain reserves in the Similkameen valley might be enlarged to meet the wishes of the Indians as represented by Mr. Agent Mackay, I visited that section of country in August last." He goes on to provide fairly detailed descriptions of the reserves set aside by him. He notes that five of the reserves "adjoin and may be considered extensions of the reserves previously allotted by Mr. Sproat." He also states that it was necessary to amend the Minutes of decision for Reserves Nos. 3 and 4 for the Upper Similkameen, "the Minutes as furnished by Mr. Sproat being unworkable by the gentleman sent to make the survey." O'Reilly submitted separate field minutes to the SGIA regarding his work with these two groups. [See Binder 3, Corr. No. 1132/79; Federal Collection, vl. 14, pp. 210-221, 224-231]

<sup>302</sup> Powell forwards to G.A. Walkem, CCLW, Sproat's Minutes of decision for the "Coast Work 1879 and 1880 with sketches attached." Powell also states that "Charts shewing [sic] the Indian Reserves" are also enclosed. It is unclear what is being identified as a "chart." The Minutes of decision have the same correspondence number as the covering letter. In the Federal Collection there is only a "True Copy" of this set of Minutes of decision. The original book has not been located. Sproat's reserve allotments for these groups fell outside the Yale District, thus, arguably, outside the area authorized by B.C. for his work. O'Reilly re-allotted most of the reserves identified in this correspondence number [See Federal Collection, vl. 18, pp. 5-193; vl. 11, pp. 84-110]

<sup>306</sup> O'Reilly's original allotments for these Indians were made in 1881, however, the Minutes of decision were withheld pending negotiations between the provincial and Dominion governments with regard to the purchase of additional lands. There is some discrepancy between the Minutes of decision in the provincial collection and the Minutes found in the federal collection. Notably, the provincial collection contains an allotment at Whiskey Creek. [See Federal Collection, vl. 8, pp. 181-192; vl. 14, pp. 133-39, vl. 16/3, pp. 137-139, 155-157]

<sup>307</sup> Reference is made to a letter from the CCLW dated June 6, 1891 (not in collection) regarding the survey at Soda Creek. O'Reilly advises that he has telegraphed and written the surveyor (Fletcher) to be "guided solely by his instructions and the Minutes of decision supplied him from this office."

<sup>312</sup> The Commission encloses amended Minutes of decision for Squamish and Musqueam Indians. They state that the amendments were "satisfactory as we were told, to both whites and Indians." They further state that the Minutes of decision and map sent in November "may be considered as withdrawn." The enclosed Minutes of decision and sketch were given correspondence number 1591/77. [See Federal Collection, vl. 3, pp. 136-149a]

<sup>314</sup> O'Reilly forwards two sets of Minutes of decision for the Upper Kootenay Indians. These reserves are currently held by the St. Mary's Indians. The second set of Minutes of decision and sketch is noted to be for a Mr. Baillie Grohman. There is no indication who this person is or why he would receive copies of the Minutes of decision and sketches. The marginal notation on the letter states: "Approved October 11, 1887 F.G. Vernon CCLW." [See Corr. No. 3041/84, pp. 1-2, this binder; Federal Collection, vl. 11, pp. 139a-141a; Dominion Sessional Papers, Indian Affairs Annual Report, pp. 154-55]

<sup>315</sup> Vowell refers to an area cultivated by an Indian identified as "Cut Mouth" Johnny which is "about 3 miles distant from St. Mary's Prairie Reserve, on west side." It is not clear, however, it is possible that the reserve referred to would appear to be the Kootenay 1, held by the St. Mary's Indians. There is, however, no reserve three miles west of Kootenay 1. Vowell requests that the pre-emption be "held over" until he has received the "particulars" from the Indian Agent, Galbraith. These "particulars" are not included in this collection, nor could any similar correspondence be found in the federal collection. [See Corr. No. 520/95, this volume]

<sup>327</sup> In submitting the Minutes of decision and sketch, O'Reilly brings to the attention of the CCLW a problem with a water allotment granted four days prior to his visit to the area. He notes that if the water allotment is permitted "to hold good against the Indians, [it] will render their farm land useless, as at present there is barely enough water for them and Messrs. Drummond and Beaumont." O'Reilly points out that the Indians have been in possession of their farm and using the water since 1868, "there is no provision in the Land Act for the record of water by or for the Indians, and that should Mr. Provis' record be allowed to hold good, a very great injustice will be done to the Indians who have been in occupation for twenty years." O'Reilly reminds the CCLW that "no applications for records in the Chilcotin country would be entertained until the Indian reserves were defined." He cites two pieces of correspondence: 1065/86, not in the provincial collection; and, 1089/87, found earlier in this binder. O'Reilly concludes by stating, "I trust therefore that if there is anything you can do to set this matter right, it will be done without delay." There is a marginal notation on the first page of the covering letter which states: "Approved October 11, 1887 F.G. Vernon CCLW." [See Binder 9, Corr. No. 399/88; Federal Collection, vl. 11, pp. 151-159]

<sup>334</sup> Powell makes reference to a letter from the CCLW dated February 29, 1884 which advised that the boundaries of the Port Simpson and Mclakatia reserves No. 1 and 2 "have been adopted, and the boundaries therein set forth confirmed by authority of an order in Council approved by His Honour the Lieut. Governor." The letter referred to does not appear in the provincial collection, nor does the OIC. A letter of a similar date and subject could not be located in the federal collection.

<sup>338</sup> Vowell justifies the area set aside for these Indians noting that the "whole country for many miles has been burnt over and there is practically no soil left. ... The altitude of the reserve and the poverty of the soil preclude any possibility of agricultural pursuits and it is necessary that a large range be given them for the horses they possess and the cattle they hope to acquire." Vowell's report to the SGIA provides more detail regarding his meeting with these Indians. [See Corr. Nos. 698/04, 889/04 this binder; Federal Collection, vl. 15, pp. 453-57]

<sup>341</sup> O'Reilly provides the CCLW, for his "information and approval, rough sketches and minutes of decision of the Indian Reserves made by me in the Kootenay district." Interestingly, for the first time, O'Reilly adds the statement: "I may mention that in no case have the reserves encroached on lands claimed by any settler." The "Upper Kootenay Indians", as identified by O'Reilly are currently known as St. Mary's, Tobacco Plains and ?Akisq' nuk First Nation (formerly Columbia Lake). The sketches all appear to have been initialed by Wm. Smithe, CCLW. In the federal collection O'Reilly provides separate field minutes for the Kootenay and Shuswap Indians. The original document contains no page numbers. Pagination has been provided for reference. [See Federal Collection, vl. 10, pp. 11-20, 22-61]

<sup>343</sup> O'Reilly notes that Sproat had set apart a reserve of about 600 acres at this place in 1878, however, "the Indians were dissatisfied as it did not include a number of their cultivated fields, [n]or did it embrace any pasture land of value." O'Reilly goes on to state, "Under the authority conveyed to me by you, in such cases, I have enlarged this reserve, with which the Indians are now perfectly contented." There is marginal notation on the first page of the letter which states: "Approved F.G. Vernon January 16, 1889" [See Binder 5, Corr. No. 655/80, pp. 107-108]

<sup>346</sup> There are four undated, handwritten lists which appear to be based upon the 1871 Schedule of Indian Reserves found in the Papers on the Indian Land Question, however, the remarks are different. The provenance of these pages is unknown. It is also unknown why and/or how they came to be included in the provincial collection at this point.

<sup>347</sup> The JIRC states that, in their opinion, it "would be well if the Provincial Government ... reserved ..." various tracts of land. In using the term "reserved" it would appear that the JIRC intends that the lands would be withheld from pre-emption or lease. Substantial tracts of land are identified, including areas in the Gulf of Georgia, along the Fraser and on the west coast of Vancouver Island at Barclay Sound and the Nass and Skeena. There is no indication that the province acceded to this request.

<sup>350</sup> Powell writes with respect to a group of Indians living on the "West [sic] shore of Okanagan Lake, opposite the R.C. Mission numbering 54 Souls who have never had any land reserved for them, notwithstanding the fact that they have for many years used the land on which they live, and have considerable improvements thereon."

<sup>355</sup> O'Reilly notes that this reserve was originally defined by him on November 26, 1894, but "[o]wing to unavoidable delay in completing the survey ... the Minute of decision has hitherto been withheld." O'Reilly's field minute in the federal collection provided more detail regarding the "unavoidable delay." The approval by the CCLW is noted in the margin on the covering page of the letter. [See Corr. Nos. 1409/98, 1524/98 this binder; Federal Collection, vl. 14, pp. 84-87]

<sup>358</sup> Sproat provides a progress report, of sorts, of his work. He notes that he has, "so far found the Indians to be reasonable in their expectations, and willing generally to be guided by my advice with respect to their Land questions." He indicates that he is aware of settler concerns and that "it is a matter of great importance to the Province that the lands in the New Westminster district should, by a settlement of Indian questions be freed from Indian claims ..." Sproat requests that, through an OIC, the Province give him the same powers in the New Westminster District that he has in the Yale District.

<sup>361</sup> This letter to the CCLW pre-dates O'Reilly's reporting letter to the Superintendent General of Indian Affairs by almost 4 months. O'Reilly advises the CCLW of the presence of a settler named Charles Taylor "occupying a portion of land belonging to the Opetchisaht tribe." O'Reilly reports that Taylor claimed the land under a pre-emption record dated November 16, 1872, however Taylor "admitted ... that the Indian village stood upon the land prior to his record." O'Reilly states that he thought it best to "place this fact before you lest any application should be made for a title in his name. O'Reilly included the area in the reserve allotted to the Indians. In the federal collection field minute, O'Reilly provides some additional information, including that it was the Chief, Ka-now-ish, who complained about Taylor's presence and that the Chief desired to have Taylor removed. The sketch indicates the location of Taylor's house. [See Federal Collection, vl. 10, pp. 379-82; CLSRBC 39]

<sup>366</sup> This reserve was not confirmed through OCPC 1924-1265, or BC OIC 1923-911. As far as can be determined, this reserve as allotted by O'Reilly was disallowed by Ditchburn and Clark. Another application for land by the Nak'azdli (Necoslie) Indians (Additional Land Application no. 131, McKenna-McBride) was allowed instead. The reasons for the disallowance are not known. [See McKenna-McBride Report, Vol. 4, p. 796; PC 1924-1265, Schedule, Stuart Lake Confirmations; OIC 1923-911, Schedule, Stuart Lake Confirmations; 1943 Schedule, p. 154]

<sup>376</sup> O'Reilly refers to a conversation with the CCLW that morning and suggests that he should proceed to Cormorant Island "at some convenient time during the present season to ascertain what quantity of land is necessary for the Indians" as leases for the land are being allowed and "portions of the Leasehold ... may be deemed necessary for the use of the Indians." O'Reilly states that this "should be done in justice to the Tribe who have inhabited that portion of Cormorant Island known as Alert Bay for many generations ..." Sproat had visited the area previously, however, his work was not confirmed. [See Corr. No. 3138/84, this binder; Binder 5, Corres. No. 775/80]

<sup>381</sup> O'Reilly refers to his letter of February 1, 1890 and notes that no reply has been received. He states that he, "shall esteem it a favor if you will give this matter your early attention." [See Corr. No. 279/90, this binder; Federal Collection, vl. 20, pp. 94-94a]

<sup>382</sup> There are two sketches included here. The first is a black and white photocopy. It has the initials "F.G.V.", i.e. Forbes George Vernon, CCLW, and the notation: "now known as Lot 1957 Rupert 412 Ac". Although it is a black and white photocopy, the previously allotted reserves (Alert Bay 1 and Nimpkish 2) can be seen. The second sketch is a photograph of a colour sketch. It is different from the other sketch (no comments). The provenance of the photo is unknown. The previously allotted reserves (Alert Bay 1 and Nimpkish 2) are depicted in red/pink on the photograph and the sketch. [See Binder 9, Corr. No. 2755/89]

<sup>393</sup> This reserve is currently held by the Nisga'a Village of Laxgalt'sap, formerly known as the Lakalzap Indians and prior to that as Greenville. The 8A "extension" is across the river from the Andegulay 8, not adjoining it. N.B. The 1943 Schedule incorrectly cites the date of allotment of this reserve as September 3, 1888. The correct date is September 9, 1888. [See p. 45, this volume; 1943 Schedule, p. 129; NRCan Schedule (2005), pp. 78, 90, 91, 98]

<sup>412</sup> Given that Green was the surveyor to the IRC as well as the person setting aside the land, it is presumed that he did the sketch. Regrettably, he entitled the sketch "Laich-kwil-tach (Eu-cla-taw) Indians We-way-a-kay Band" thereby failing to distinguish that Campbell River 11 was held by the We-way-a-kum [ie. Campbell River Indians], while Quinsam 12 was held by the We-way-a-kai [ie. Cape Mudge Indians].

<sup>413</sup> This reserve was ultimately cancelled and replaced with Spillmouse 4. In the federal collection there is an additional notation with respect to the disposition of this reserve. [See Binder 12, Corr. No. 3577/95; Federal Collection, vl. 8, p. 103; end of vl. 11, for extracts of file 20802]

<sup>414</sup> The JIRC allot a reserve at the "old Indian settlement at Canoe Lake", but acknowledge they had not been able to visit the area and that the "exact boundaries must be hereafter defined." The exact location of this settlement is not known. Although there was a colonial reserve allotted to the Canoe Creek Indians in the vicinity of Canoe Creek, it seems improbable that the JIRC were referring to that land as they did not "confirm" the area, nor did they describe it as an "original" reserve, two terms commonly used when dealing with colonial reserves. Other reserves for Canoe Creek Indians were allotted by O'Reilly in 1881. [See Binder 3, Corr. No. 368/79; Federal Collection, vl. 3, p. 160]

<sup>415</sup> This reserve was originally identified by the JIRC. Sproat does not provide a revised date. The date used is the date from the covering letter. Sproat states that the North Thompson and Canoe Lake Indians have agreed to have reserves in common. The comment is virtually the same as that made by the JIRC in the originally submitted Minutes of decision. It does not appear that this area ever became a reserve. The North Thompson Indians are currently known as the Simpcw First Nation. [See Binder 2, Corr. No. 1081/78; Federal Collection, vl. 2, p. 117, NRCan Schedule (2005), p. 92]

<sup>420</sup> Vowell encloses a letter from Indian Agent, P. McTiernan regarding the sale of a portion of Capilano 5 to the Bouillon brothers. This is the first piece of correspondence in the collection from A.W. Vowell. A notation on the letter states: "Ans 14/7/91." This reply is not included in the provincial collection. [See Binder 1, Corr. No. 1591/77, p. 2; Binder 11, Corr. Nos. 193/92, 997/92, 4215/92; 110/93; 1597/93; 1710/93]

<sup>421</sup> Vowell refers to a letter from the CCLW dated July 14, 1891 (not in collection). Vowell encloses a copy of the Minute of decision from the JIRC and questions the CCLW's assertion that a portion of the reserve was set aside by Sproat. Vowell states that a plan accompanies the letter, however, it is not included in the provincial collection. [See Corr. Nos. 947/92, 4215/92 this binder; Binder 1, 1591/77, p. 2; Binder 10, Corr. No. 2171/91]

O'Reilly notes that the amendment was required "in consequence of the Provincial Government having sold a portion of the land to the Messrs Bouillon ..." O'Reilly notes that the reserve has recently been resurveyed in accordance with the approval contained in the CCLW's letter to Vowell dated July 14, 1891, also not contained in the provincial collection. <sup>426</sup> O'Reilly forwards the tracing of the plan for Capilano 5. He requests that the CCLW reply to his (O'Reilly's) letter of May 20th signifying the CCLW's approval of the reserve. A notation on the letter states: "Ans 30/5/93". This letter is not included in the provincial collection. The plan is not included in the provincial collection.

<sup>440</sup> McKinlay and Sproat suggest that the pre-emption of a Robert Hughes is not valid. There is no day on the date of the letter, however, later correspondence indicates that the date is April 20. [See Binder 4, Corr. No. 325/80]

<sup>441</sup> Reference is made to a letter to the Premier of B.C. dated April 20, 1877. This letter does not appear to be in the provincial collection, however, a letter of the same date, on the same subject, written to the Attorney General, A.C. Elliott is found. The notation in the corner states: "Ansd, 26/4/80, Vide over" The latter remark means "see over" referring to a note on the back of the letter which indicates that Hughes took the land "on good faith" with permission from the "Governor of V.I. dated 7 Oct 1865 and has occupied and improved the land ever since, he should not be disturbed but rather protected in his possessory title." The response referred to is not contained in the provincial collection. [See Binder 2, Corres. Nos. 1833/78, 175/77]

<sup>448</sup> Kitwanger is currently spelled "Gitwangak." McLean advises the B.C. Surveyor General, G.H. Dawson, that the reserve he was enquiring about is the Kitwanger reserve, Chig-in-kaht 8, however, the sentence identifying the reserve is convoluted and misleading. McLean states that the reserve, "up stream on the opposite bank from the Kitwanger Indian Reserve No. 7 of the Kitselas Band [sic] is Chiginhakt Indian Reserve No. 8 ..." There is no "Kitwanger Indian Reserve ... of the Kitselas Band," however, Ketoned 7 of the Kitselas Band is downstream of Chig-in-kaht 8 of the Gitwangak. McLean notes that Skinner was to survey the reserves in 1901, but reserves 4, 5 and 7 were reportedly washed away. McLean enclosed a copy of O'Reilly's Minute of decision. [See NTS Sheet 1031/16]

<sup>454</sup> Sproat set aside two separate parcels of land. Based upon a marginal notation in the Federal Collection, it would appear that it may have been the surveyor who identified the two parcels as reserve numbers 5 and 5A. [See Federal Collection, vl. 6, pp. 98-99]

<sup>465</sup> O'Reilly puts the alienation of an Indian village at Clienna before the CCLW. Interestingly, he states: "There is no ground for supposing that the application was made in ignorance of this being an Indian settlement, for it will be seen on reference to the notice ... that the Indian village is mentioned in their application, the surveyor also shews [sic] the position of it on his notes." [See Binder 10, Corr. No. 1677/90; Federal Collection, vl. 12 pp. 82-82a, 83, 84-86, 91, 112; 175-180; vl. 14, pp. 232, 237-37a, 239, 240-44; 259-61]

<sup>468</sup> There appears to be a small error in wording in the Minute of decision. It concludes by reading: "thence west to the western boundary of Mr. Harper's surveyed land ...", but, it perhaps should have read: thence west to the eastern boundary of Mr. Harper's surveyed land. The sketch indicates that it is the eastern boundary. This reserve was sold in 1972. [See Federal Collection, vl. 16/2, pp. 16-17; NRCan Schedule (2005), pp. 75, 83]

<sup>484</sup> Powell refers to a conference between himself, Vernon, the CCLW and Messrs. Sproat and Anderson on the matter of the Sutton pre-emption on the Cowichan Indian reserve. Powell notes that the pre-emption was allowed after the JIRC had allotted the land and that he (Powell) had written Sutton regarding his trespass upon the reserve, "but so far I am not aware that any notice has been taken of my communication."

<sup>504</sup> In the covering letter, O'Reilly refers to the "Commonage at Nicola." It is presumed that this is a reference to the Douglas Lake Commonage. O'Reilly states that it will be "impossible" for him to visit this area before "next season" and that he "shall feel obliged if you will take no steps in respect to it" until he has reported on them.

<sup>505</sup> Based upon a visit to the area, O'Reilly advises that the Douglas Lake Commonage can be cancelled. He notes that the area was used exclusively by the white settlers, that it was "overstocked and eaten out; not an animal belonging to the Indians was visible upon it during my visit, nor has it I believe been used by them to any extent."

<sup>513</sup> Powell writes to the CCLW, as he has learned from the surveyor, Gastineau, that, despite the allotment by the JIRC in 1877, an application to pre-empt the land has been made. Powell advises the CCLW that the Indians have improvements on the land and that it is one of the Indians' "old and favourite fishing places, and under any circumstances, is not open to sale or pre-emption." This area was not confirmed as a reserve. [See Binder 2, Corr. No. 1081/78, p. 30]

<sup>514</sup> Powell refers to his letter of May 1 and the CCLW's reply (no date given). The CCLW's response is not included in the provincial collection, however, its contents may be inferred in the second paragraph on the second page. Powell argues the invalidity of the application of the settler named Byrne. N.B.: Notation on back which provides gist of reply to be made to Powell.

<sup>515</sup> Powell advises Smithe, CCLW, that the federal government will not recognize Mr. Byrne's title to the land at Eagle Pass, which was set aside as a reserve by the JIRC in 1877. Powell states that the land has been "illegally patented" to Byrne "owing to the mistake of the Lands and Works Department, as the Indians would appear to have priority of claim to said land." Powell points out that the land was a fishing station and was cultivated when the Commission visited it in 1877. Powell requests that the patent be revoked. The notation on the back of the letter indicates that the letter was to be sent to Mr. Byrne.

<sup>516</sup> This reserve was a colonial reserve. It was also known as Saanichton 2, Tetahit 2, and Tsawout 2. [See PILQ, p. 104; 1943 Schedule p. 22; NRCan Schedule (2005), pp. 72, 95]

<sup>517</sup> A second sketch of this reserve is included with this set of Minutes of decision. This sketch depicts the reserve in red/pink indicating that the sketch was done at a later date. The provenance of this second sketch is unknown, however, it resembles the reserve as surveyed by Ashdown Green in 1883. [See CLSRBC 33]

This reserve was originally surveyed as a colonial reserve in 1866. [See PILQ, p. 7; 1943 Schedule, p. 20; NRCan Schedule (2005), p. 45; 1913 Schedule of Reserves, p. 61]

<sup>521</sup> This reserve is only identified as "R. V. S. 19" no other additional information is provided. It is also notable that the date of allotment for this reserve is different from the other Cowichan reserves. This reserve was also known as Rogers Lake 4. [See 1943 Schedule, p. 19; NRCan Schedule (2005), p. 44]

<sup>522</sup> The Federal version of this minute is dated "17 Oct 1879". As both this version and the surveyor's copy in the federal collection are dated 12 Dec 1879, it would appear that there was an error in transcription in the "True Copy." Sproat's allotment was not confirmed. [See Federal Collection, vl. 11, pp. 274, 276; vl. 16/3, pp. 63-65; vl. 18, pp. 107-117]

<sup>533</sup> Sproat allots four fisheries, however, none of these allotments were confirmed as reserves. In addition to allotting fisheries, Sproat also confirms the Indians' "right of access to these places ... but in such manner as to be least inconvenient to owners of lands (at present unowned) and the Indians are not to occupy these places except for capturing and drying the fish in their accustomed way, and only in their fishing season."

<sup>534</sup> Sproat's description for this reserve is problematic. The north west corner of the Hudson's Bay Co. pre-emption is actually the same as the northwest corner of the R.C. Mission. This reserve is also known as Tsa-kis 1 and was encompassed within the Douglas Treaty of February 8, 1851. Sproat notes that the Indians are to have prior right to water for household and other purposes. [See PILQ, p. 11; Federal Collection, vl. 18, pp. 183-85]

<sup>535</sup> In the covering letter, O'Reilly makes reference to this allotment. He notes that the reserve is "situated with Mr. Roderick Finlayson's pre-emption claim, upon which he obtained a Certificate of Improvement dated 14th December 1885, but he afterwards sold his interest to Mr. Robert Hunt, and the latter gentleman expressed his entire concurrence in the land being set apart for the Indians provided only that a space of 16 1/2 feed be left between his residence and the boundary of the reserve, which has been done. Mr. Hunt was desirous that the Indians should not be disturbed in the possession of their village site." N.B.: Roderick Finlayson was a HBCo. factor. The notes from the two CCLWs which appears on the back of the first page of the letter makes reference to "No. 3" of the Fort Rupert Indians and the 4 1/2 acres. This would appear to be an error. Reserve No. 3 is Shell Island. The 4 1/2 acres relates to this reserve. [See Corr. No. 1498/87, this binder]

<sup>553</sup> Sproat argues that a pre-emption at the mouth of Goldstream, Saanich Inlet is invalid as the place is an old Indian settlement. He also notes that surveys are being done of reserves on the island and that in a "short time" the provincial government will have to convey the land to the Dominion Government. Sproat states, "I mention the matter to you, now, for your information ... so that there may be no delay in making the conveyance when asked for."

<sup>555</sup> Reference is made to a telegram dated November 18 and a letter dated November 20, both from Vernon. Neither piece of correspondence is included in the provincial collection. McKinlay and Sproat refer to a "Government Reserve between Coal Harbour and First Narrows, Burrard Inlet." They state they have "declined to permit Indian reserves on the Government Reserve." They also state they have dealt with "735 Indians to date."

<sup>587</sup> This reserve was a fishing station. The JIRC description includes Section 10, but the description in the 1943 Schedule does not. It appears that, upon survey, this section was excluded. [See 1943 Schedule, p. 23; NRCan Schedule (2005), pp. 62, 95; CLSRBC 237]

<sup>588</sup> The Federal version of this minute is dated "17 Oct 1879". Given that the surveyor's copy of this Minute is dated 12 Dec. 1879, it would appear that there was an error was made in the transcription. O'Reilly re-allotted this reserve. [See Federal Collection, vl. 11, pp. 275-76; vl. 16/3, p. 65, vl. 18, p. 111]

<sup>595</sup> This reserve was to include an islet in Bull Harbour known as "Indian Island". Sproat also recommended that the settler in the vicinity of the main Indian village not be disturbed as he has made improvements to the land "and as the Indians expressed a desire to have several white traders near them." It would appear, however, that the islet was not included in the reserve.

<sup>602</sup> The 1943 Schedule erroneously indicates that Sproat also allotted Skuppah 2A. The available evidence indicates that instructions to set aside the land were issued in 1910 and the land surveyed in 1911.

<sup>616</sup> The JIRC allot "[a] fishing station at Barlett Newman's pre-emption on the Kamloops Nicola road." It would appear that from this description, and based upon the information in the 1943 Schedule, two reserves are established: Kamloops 2 and Kamloops 3. Both of which are fishing stations and were also known as Fishing Station 2 and Fishing Station 3. [See Binder 3, Corr. Nos. 368/79, 369/79; 1943 Schedule, p. 29; CLSRBC 235; Federal collection, vl. 3, pp. 162-66]

<sup>617</sup> These allotments are described as fishing stations and are oriented to the pre-emption of a settler named Bartlett Newman. Although Sproat used the numbers 1 and 2 to identify the areas, these numbers do not correlate to the reserve numbers.

<sup>618</sup> The JIRC description is quite vague, "also a tract of woodland on the North Thompson River", however, this would appear to be this reserve. This reserve was also known as Gilead 4 or Timber Reserve 4. [See 1943 Schedule, p. 30; NRCan Schedule (2005), p. 49]

<sup>619</sup> This reserve is described as a "small hay meadow to the north east of their reserve." "Their reserve" would appear to be a reference to Kamloops 1. Although the JIRC state they were unable to visit this place, the 1943 Schedule indicates that this reserve was allotted the same day as the other reserves of the Kamloops Indians. [See Binder 3, Corr. Nos. 368/79, 369/79; 1943 Schedule, p. 30; NRCan Schedule (2005), p. 49; CLSRBC 235]

<sup>634</sup> This letter, clearly added to the documents, is addressed to W.S. Arneil, Indian Commissioner, Vancouver. It discusses the actual location of what appears to be the Kilcutseen 9. It is suggested that the location of the reserve as shown on Reference Map 19B and a map in the McKenna-McBride Report (p. 549) is not correct. The recommendation is to undertake a survey to confirm the location of the reserve.

<sup>635</sup> The reserve name is also spelled Kil-lut-sal and is spelled "Kil loot sal" by O'Reilly. For many years, the Killutsal reserve was erroneously noted to be held by the Kitsumkalum Indians. That error was corrected and the reserve is currently noted to have been held by the Lax Kw'alaams [a.k.a. Port Simpson] Indians. It was sold in 1960. [See pp. 234, 237a-238, 239-39a, 245-46 this volume; vl. 9, pp. 18-57; vl. 10, pp. 145-60; vl. 11, pp. 301-07; vl. 15, pp. 371-75, 403-09; NRCan Schedule (2005) p. 53; CLSRBC 160; NTS sheet 1031/7]

<sup>636</sup> Vowell identifies these Indians as "Lakelse Band, Tsimpsean Indians." For many years, Killutsal 1 and 1A were erroneously noted to be held by the Kitsumkalum Indians. That error was corrected and the reserves are currently noted to have been held by the Lax Kw'alaams [a.k.a. Port Simpson] Indians. This reserve was sold in 1960. [See Binder 12, Corr. No. 692/94; NRCan Schedule (2005), p. 53; CLSRBC 160]

<sup>639</sup> Sproat's description for this reserve is somewhat problematic. The northwest corner of the Hudson's Bay Company pre-emption is the same as the northwest corner of the R.C. Mission. The HBCo. pre-emption is considerably larger than the area where the fort is located. This area was also encompassed within the Douglas Treaty dated February 8, 1851. [See Federal Collection, vl. 18, pp. 179, 186; vl. 11, pp. 118, 229-236; PILQ p. 11]

<sup>644</sup> O'Reilly refers to his Minutes of decision submitted September 19, 1888. He advises that he is "satisfied the Indian claim to "Kish neelt (No. 25) cannot be upheld, and I therefore beg to withdraw it from the list of those reserves sent for your approval." He does, however, request that the other three reserves be approved. [See Corr No. 2332/88, pp. 2-3, this binder]

<sup>652</sup> The JIRC confirm the "Original reserve" and enlarge it. This reserve was a desirable piece of property and many attempts were made over the years to acquire it from the Indians. The Kitsilano case (Mathias v. the Queen, et al; Federal Court of Canada) dealt with the issue of the loss of the reserve. [See McKenna-McBride Report, Vol. 1, p. 112; McKenna-McBride Report Vol. 3, p. 658; 1943 Schedule, p. 167; NRCan Schedule (2005), p. 67]

<sup>670</sup> There is a marginal notation which states: "No. 2 Cancelled see 6235/98." This was a timber reserve. It burned prior to 1898. As a consequence this reserve does not appear in any reserve schedule. Officially, this reserve was cancelled August 15, 1898 and Ksoo-gun-ya 2A, allotted by A.W. Vowell, replaced it. <sup>683</sup> O'Reilly enlarged Sproat's 1879 allotment of this reserve. Sproat allotted 20 acres. The original survey of the reserve placed the area at 362 acres; resurvey in 1913 placed the area at 388 acres. There is some question as to which First Nation holds this reserve, Yale or Ohamil. It appears to have been allotted by both Sproat and O'Reilly to Yale and it was confirmed as a Yale reserve through PC 1930-208, however, in or about 1917, it appears a chief of the Yale Indians agreed the reserve, less the timber, should go to the Ohamil Indians. [See Federal Collection, vl. 10, pp. 102-03; 1943 Schedule, p. 80; NRCan Schedule (2005), pp. 65, 93]

<sup>687</sup> It is difficult to determine from this description, however, it appears that the area described by Sproat is Kwatse 3, but it may also have encompassed the graveyard now known as Freda Point 4. Both of these reserves were re-visited and re-allotted by O'Reilly in October 1886. Sproat notes that the graves are either to be included in the reserve or marked on the plan by the surveyor. [See 1943 Schedule, pp. 46-47]

<sup>689</sup> Sproat identified this as a graveyard, but seems to have erred in attributing the allotment to the Tshaw-waw-ty-neuch". When O'Reilly revisited the area in September 1886, he included the graveyard within his allotment of Gwayasdums 1, but it was separately surveyed. Originally the graveyard was known as Burial Ground 1A. In 1965, the name was changed to Kye-yaa-la 13. In 1973, Umdagitis 9 (allotted by McKenna-McBride), which consisted of virtually the remainder of Sail Island and Kye-yaa-la 13 were amalgamated to be one reserve known as Kye-yaa-la 1. The reserve is currently held by the Kwicksutaineuk-Ah-kwaw-ah-mish. [See Binder 8, Corr. No. 2817/86, pp. 24-29; 1943 Schedule, p.36; NRCan Schedule (2005), p. 52; CLSRBC 47, FBBC 263; ILR #13579; ILR #X18406]

<sup>696</sup> Sproat allots 80 acres at a lake identified as "A" on the sketch, "but not so as to include all of it, as the cattle of white settlers may feed in that locality." The reserve, as described by Sproat, appears not to have been confirmed, however, the description is a bit vague and part of it may have been included within Chawathen 4. [See CLSRBC 238]

<sup>700</sup> This reserve was also known as Stave 2. The description identifying land reserved in Lot 445 is also included in Langley 3. Most of this land taken for road and railway purposes. As well, all but a small portion of the reserve was washed away by the Stave River, including Lot 444. [See 1943 Schedule, p. 90; NRCan Schedule (2005), p. 52]

<sup>702</sup> Also known as Chatcum 5. This reserve was included in a colonial allotment, however, it was not identified in the 1871 schedule prepared by B.C. [See NRCan Schedule (2005), p. 52; PILQ, p. 41]

<sup>711</sup> This reserve is located in the area alongside Lukseetsissum Creek (now known as Ruby Creek) identified as "Capt. Tom's Yale." The Minute of decision for this reserve was not located in the provincial collection. [See Federal Collection, vl. 5/1, pp. 14, 14a, 23]

<sup>712</sup> This reserve was also known as Valdez 3. The JIRC note that the Lyackson Indians live on Valdez Island "which has not up to the present time been surveyed ..." Valdez Island is currently spelled Valdes. [See NRCan Schedule (2005), p. 56]

<sup>724</sup> Following the M.O.D. for McLean's 3, O'Reilly allots the "exclusive right of fishing" to two areas. Neither of these was confirmed. Based upon a comparison with the federal collection, it appears that he also identified a salmon fishery. This is not included in this set of Minutes of decision. It also does not appear to have been confirmed as a reserve. [See Federal Collection, vl. 19, p. 39]

<sup>727</sup> The description for this reserve commences "T26, ..." This reserve was also known as Tsinstikeptum 8. It was cut-off by McKenna-McBride, November 13, 1913, but the cut-off was settled in November 1983. Although the JIRC allotted this land to the "Indians at Head of Okanagan Lake," it has long been attributed to the Westbank Indians. [See 1943 Schedule, p. 108; NRCan Schedule (2005), p. 74]

<sup>735</sup> W.S. Gore, Deputy Commissioner Lands & Works, refers to another letter to Vowell dated March 14, 1905 (not in collection). Gore advises Vowell that the approval of the Mount Currie 6 reserve (i.e. Pemberton Meadows) "was subject to the timber lease covering a portion of that ground." Gore advises that a lease was granted April 1, 1891 and renewed April 1, 1903 for a period of 21 years. Gore states he has enclosed a tracing which shows the timber leasehold and the reserve (not included in the collection).

<sup>736</sup> Pages 9 through 14 are all additional correspondence related to both Mount Currie 6 and Mount Currie 7. No correspondence number was given to the documents. For the purpose of this index, Corr. No. 950/07 has been used, as it is the later dated material. Given the date of this memo (1924), it is possible that this memo relates to the work of Ditchburn and Clark, there is, however no signature to confirm this. Reference is made to the "Royal Commission on Indian Affairs" [i.e. McKenna-McBride] confirming Mount Currie 6 without any reference to the timber lease.

<sup>739</sup> The CCLW advises that if arrangements can be made with Mr. Bell to abandon his pre-emption, which is surrounded by Mount Currie 6, then "there will be no objection to the ground being included within the Indian reserve."

<sup>743</sup> In the provincial collection it appears that the original map has been torn in two. It is now identified as Maps 10 and 11. The date stamp on Map 10 has been partially obliterated, but it would be a date received stamp. Given the date of the covering letter is June 27, the date received stamp is most likely July 9, 1877. The upper portion of the the right hand side (Map 11) has been torn. The signatures have been completely or partially obliterated. In addition, the inset portion of the sketch which shows Inlailawatash 4, has been torn off. It can be seen on the federal sketch, which is in one piece. [See Federal Collection, vl. 3, p. 149a]

<sup>757</sup> This group is identified by the JIRC as "South Thompson or Niskahnith Indians". "Niskahnith" has also been spelled, Neskainlith. The current spelling is Neskonlith for both the reserves and the First Nation. This reserve is described by the JIRC as an "old reserve", i.e. a colonial reserve. It was cited in the 1871 Schedule prepared by B.C. as "Right bank of Thompson River, extending back to Lake" and is attributed to "Shuswap." On the 1875 Schedule published by the Dominion, it is item no. 73, identified as "Shuswap Lake." [See 1943 Schedule, p. 30; NRCan Schedule (2005), pp. 60, 92; PILQ, p. 105, item Q (1); 1875 Dominion Reserve Schedule, p. 103, item 73]

<sup>767</sup> This reserve was also known as Naik, Taloochie. In the federal collection, Sproat identifies the Indians as "Lower Nicola Indians, (Naweesistikun's tribe)". There is a marginal notation which states: "See Plan No. 4." This would appear to be CLSRBC 215. [See 1943 Schedule, p. 101; NRCan Schedule (2005), p. 55; CLSRBC 215]

<sup>768</sup> In December 1904, the Privy Council approved an exchange of land between the Penticton Indians and a settler named Ritchie. The new reserve was named Penticton 3A and was also known as Nicola Prairie 3A. It adjoins Penticton 1. It was formally set aside as a reserve through OCPC 1958-993. [See 1943 Schedule, p. 111; NRCan Schedule (2005), p. 62]

<sup>769</sup> This allotment was never confirmed as a reserve. Sproat identifies it in the federal collection as "The Plains Reserve." The land is located on the right bank of the Nicola River west of the other Nicola River allotment. Sproat states that the land is to revert to the province in 10 years if the Nicola-Mameet (i.e. Upper Nicola) Indians agricultural land requirements are sufficient. There is a marginal notation which states: "See Reference Map". This would appear to be CLSRBC 266a. [See Federal Collection vl. 2, pp. 44-45; vl. 4/9, pp. 20-21; NTS sheet 921/2; CLSRBC 266A]

<sup>774</sup> Although the JIRC originally conceived that this area would be held in common by the Neskonlith, Adams Lake and Little Shuswap Lake Indians, this reserve is now held solely by the Little Shuswap Indians. It would seem that the other common reserve was split between the Neskonlith and Adams Lake Indians, while this area went entirely to the Little Shuswap Lake Indians. The 1943 Schedule erroneously cites the date of allotment as August 14, 1877 when it should be August 16, 1877. N.B.: The description of this would seem to be oriented incorrectly. Reference is made to the "eastern side of Salmon Arm", when it should correctly say the western side. The correction has been made in the federal copy but not in the provincial. [See Federal Collection, vl. 3, p. 204; vl. 16/1, p. 11; 1943 Schedule, p. 32; CLSRBC 7]

<sup>775</sup> It is not known who the "Canoe Lake Indians" were. It would appear that they were part of the North Thompson group which resided at "Canoe Lake." It has not been possible to determine which lake in the area of North Thompson was formerly identified as "Canoe Lake." There is a note at the beginning of the MODs for this group which states: "North Thompson and Canoe Lake Indians, which tribes agreed to have reserves in common." This reserve and reserve numbers 2, 3, and 4 are currently held by the Simpcw First Nation (formerly the North Thompson Indians). It would seem that this reserve includes the forty acres of land noted to be adjoining the reserve. This reserve was also known as Chu Chua 1. [See Federal Collection, vl. 3, pp. 154-60; 1943 Schedule, p. 30; NRCan Schedule (2005), pp. 65, 92; CLSRBC 136]

<sup>782</sup> Vowell refers to a letter from the CCLW dated January 29, 1895 (not in collection). He complains to the CCLW that the level of compensation to the Ohamil Indians for the road traversing the reserve is inadequate. He provides a list of Indians to be compensated and the amount they should receive. [See Corr. Nos. 2787/94, 2827/94]

<sup>783</sup> Vowell refers to a letter from the CCLW dated February 11, 1895 (not in collection) regarding compensation for the Ohamil Indians. No figures are provided, however, Vowell thanks the CCLW for his attention to the matter and states that he has notified the Indian Agent "to endeavour to make the Indians content with the amount" cited by the CCLW. [See Corr. No. 574/95, this binder]

<sup>788</sup> Sproat advises that he has heard a rumour that Commission's decision regarding O'Keefe's land may be "the subject of an examination by the Supreme Court." Sproat requests to be allowed to present "the opposite side of the case from that of Mr. O'Keefe."

<sup>789</sup> Sproat writes on various outstanding issues. He makes inquiries as to the O'Keefe matter. Interestingly, Sproat states that the "Nicola Chief" and the "Okanagan Chief" are the same man. He does not provide a name. He goes on to discuss general issues relating to the work of the Commission, including the cost of the Commission. At one point he refers to the "existing arrangements" as being "merely experimental." (p. 3)

<sup>790</sup> Sproat states that while at Douglas Lake a delegation of Okanagan Indians came to him to complain again about the presence of Mr. O'Keefe on their land. Sproat states that, "I again renewed my advice to the Indians that they should not meet the proceedings of Mr. O'Keefe by action of a similar character, but should continue to act with the prudence and self control which they have hitherto shown." (p. 2). At another point, Sproat inquires, "... whether a man by ploughing a piece of land and putting a fence around it, can acquire legal title to 320 acres. // If so, the land act [sic] is useless ..." (p. 3).

<sup>791</sup> The JIRC allot a "perpetual right of pasturage as far as [they] have authority in the matter" for land which they conceive should be used commonly by the Indians and settlers in the area, however, if the arrangement cannot be made, then the land is to be an Indian reserve. This commonage was not confirmed as a reserve. [See NRCan Schedule (2005), p. 61; CLSRBC 218;]

<sup>795</sup> Vowell states that he has received a Certified Copy of an Order-in-Council dated May 6, 1899, relinquishing the "Zoht reserve at Nicola in exchange for Lot 716, situated in the valley of Clapperton Creek." Vowell requests the Deputy Commissioner of Lands and Works to obtain from the CCLW "such instrument as may be necessary transferring the said Lot 716 to the Department, and thus bring this longstanding transaction to an end." <sup>796</sup> Sproat allots this reserve to the "Nekla-kap-a-muk Indians - Upper Similkameen Indians and all other Indians travelling from Nicola to Princeton."

<sup>802</sup> The marginal notation states: "Decision 16th and 21st November 1877 Reviewed 9th Oct 1878." Sproat states that he reviewed both the request of Messrs. Haynes and Lowe and that of the Indians and decided that neither could be granted. He then reiterates the description of the Osoyoos reserve using the Roman Numeral L [50] and LI [51]. There is a marginal notation on the second page which states: "The Indian Commission have no authority to confer any water rights upon these or any other Indians." The initials are difficult to discern, but they look like "W.G." and possibly "P.R." beneath. The "W.G." would be William Gore, Surveyor General for B.C.

<sup>806</sup> The page states: "Memorandum for reference" and identifies Sproat's letter to the CCLW dated April 9, 1879, with covering report and correspondence. This material can be found in Binder 3 of this collection. A copy can also be found in the federal collection. [See Binder 3, Corr. Nos. 433/79, 434/79, 740/79; Federal Collection, vl. 2, pp. 143-147]

<sup>807</sup> Three letters are included here. Interestingly, the "covering" letter appears to be a letter from J.C. Haynes, Stipendiary Magistrate at Osoyoos, to Geo. Walkem. Haynes encloses what appears to be an original letter from Sproat and a copy of the letter he (Haynes) wrote to Sproat in reply. Interestingly, the correspondence identified by a correspondence number in this trio is the letter from Sproat to Haynes "of Osoyoos New Westminster". Neither of the two letters from Haynes have correspondence numbers. In his letter to Haynes, Sproat advises that the purchase of the Osoyoos reserve land "will be departmental, and not under the care of the Reserve Commission." [See Corr. Nos. 433/79, 434/79 this binder]

<sup>808</sup> Henry Moffatt, writing for the Indian Superintendent, reports that the Indian Agent for the Kamloops and Okanagan District, J.W. MacKay, has written stating that all the "marsh land belonging to the Indian reserve at Osoyoos [sic], allotted by the late [i.e. former] Indian Reserve Commission "has been sold, or is being sold, and the Indians are very much exercised thereat as they require the marsh grass to winter their stock." Moffatt notes that a portion of the land was sold "some years since to J.C. Haynes Esq." and a Mr. Patterson, C.E. is surveying the remainder. Moffatt also notes that the north end of the reserve has been pre-empted and surveyed by Patterson for a man named Armstrong. Moffatt suggests that no patents be issued until the "Indian claims" are finally adjusted. A notation on the first page states: "Ack 23/9/84". This letter is not included in the provincial collection. [See Corres. No. 2998/84, this binder]

<sup>813</sup> This reserve was also known as Oyster Harbour 12. McKinlay and Sproat state that the wish to "submit ... for favourable consideration" the case of a squatter named Charles McMillan. It appears that the Commission included part of McMillan's land in their allotment at Oyster Harbour. The "case" had already been submitted to the Indian Superintendent, Col. I.W. Powell and to E.A. Meredith, Deputy Minister of the Interior. Meredith stated that the case should be submitted to the "Local Government" for consideration as it is the Local Government "who are primarily bound to provide such lands as may be necessary for Indian Reserves." Based upon the enclosure, the "case" being made is that McMillan should be compensated for his improvements on the lands which were taken to establish the reserve. N.B.: This correspondence is the last piece in the collection for the JIRC. The Provincial Collection contains no correspondence related to the disbanding of the Commission and the appointment of Sproat as sole Indian Reserve Commissioner. [See NRCan Schedule (2005), p. 43]

<sup>818</sup> O'Reilly numbered this allotment "No. 8". It is unclear why he did this as a No. 8 reserve for this group had already been allotted. But by 1887, the number attributed to the reserve was changed from 8 to 27. [See Corr. No. 1190/87, this binder; 1943 Schedule, p. 68]

<sup>827</sup> This reserve was a timber reserve. The JIRC state: "The wood now growing or to grow is to belong to the Indians. The soil is not to belong to them. The object of this arrangement is to afford them a supply of wood without their having an inducement to locate on the spot. If the arrangement is not within the powers of the Commissioners or cannot be carried out, then the piece of land to be Indian Reserve." (p. 45). This reserve was ultimately reduced by O'Reilly in 1893 as a result of claims to the land by a settler named Ellis, cut-off by McKenna-McBride in 1913 and re-instated in 1982. [See Federal Collection, vl. 1, p. 103; vl. 13, pp. 21-35; vl. 14, p. 131; vl. 16/3, p. 135; 1943 Schedule p. 111; NRCAN Schedule (2005), p. 62]

<sup>828</sup> Settler Thomas Ellis writes to F.G. Vernon, CCLW advising that the request of Mr. O'Reilly and Mr. McBay, he has agreed to relinquish and convey to the "Indian Department" that portion of Lot 250 on the condition that the provincial government convey to him an equal amount of land from Lot 190. Ellis states that a sketch is attached, however, it is not included in the provincial collection.

<sup>829</sup> O'Reilly refers to a letter from the CCLW dated April 28, 1891 on the subject of Penticton 2 (not in the provincial collection). Interestingly, O'Reilly states he "found that by far the greater part of the land assigned to the Indians for timber purposes has in fact little or not timber on it. He states he has, therefore, "cancelled 1107 acres of the reserve ... retaining only for the Indians 320 acres ...". He has arranged for the Indians to receive a portion of Lot 250 from Mr. Ellis. There appear to be references on the first page of the letter to other correspondence. One notation states: "Ans. 28/8/93." The other states: "CG 497/75 29 Aug 94 see L.I. 2783/94." Another notation, clearly made at a later date, states: "Cut off Vidi No. 2a Okanagan Reserves [?] & Cut offs". This latter statement would refer to the work of McKenna-McBride. O'Reilly states that the arrangement is acceptable to the Indians. O'Reilly's Minute of decision for the new reserve can be found in the federal collection. [See Federal Collection, vl. 13, pp. 21-35]

<sup>833</sup> Powell advises the CCLW that Indian Agent MacKay of the Okanagan had learned that four pre-emption claims had been recorded within the "Commonage lying immediately north of and adjoining Penticton Reserve." Given the terms of the allotment of the commonage, Powell suggests that no pre-emptions should be allowed until the issue of the status of the land is settled. There is an extensive note on the back of the letter, partially obliterated and partially crossed out indicating a letter was to be drafted. [See Binder 2, Corr. No. 1081/78, pp. 44-48]

<sup>834</sup> O'Reilly states that this reserve and Franks 10 were portions of the pre-emption of Jules Perret, dated November 1, 1861 (n.b.: in the federal collection a different date is given). Mr. Perret died in 1881 without having obtained a Certificate of Improvement. An Indian woman with whom Perret had lived, named Polly, continued to reside on the land "and the place has virtually become an Indian settlement." In the federal collection, O'Reilly provides a little more information with respect to Polly and Perret. [See Federal Collection, vl. 14, p. 61]

<sup>848</sup> Sproat identifies this group as "Nicoamen". Although Sproat allots this reserve in 1878, the 1943 Schedule indicates that this reserve was allotted by Order-in-Council December 2, 1895. The current reserve appears to be in the same location as Sproat's allotment. Interestingly, the date of allotment for this reserve is the same as that for other Nicomen reserves for which the Minutes of decision are found in binder 4. [See Binder 4, Corr. No. 269/80; Federal Collection, vl. 3, pp. 332-360; 1943 Schedule, p. 104]

<sup>849</sup> These Indians may also have been known as "Kuaut". Reference is made to an "old reserve", which would seem to be encompassed within the allotment of the JIRC. This would be the colonial reserve identified on the 1871 Schedule prepared by B.C., item Q(2) described as "North-west side of Little Lake, on trail to Adams Lake." In the 1875 Dominion Schedule, it is item 74. [See pp. 26-28, these Minutes of decision; Binder 10, Corr. No. 4243/91; CLSRBC 221; CLSRBC 7025; CLSRTBC 192; CLSRTBC 7; PILQ, p. 105; 1875 Dominion Schedule, p. 103]

<sup>851</sup> This allotment is described by Sproat as a "conditional reserve". No subgroup is identified. In the federal version both the "We-wai-a-kum and We-wai-a-kay Subgroups" are identified as recipients of the reserve, but Sproat's allotment at Quathiaski Cove was not confirmed. [See Binder 8, Corr. No. 2832/86; Federal Collection, vl. 18, pp. 95-101; vl. 11, pp. 280, 288, 291]

<sup>853</sup> Vowell applies to the CCLW for 40 acres of land for a fishing station on the San Juan River. He notes that he had made the verbal request on April 4, 1894, but had been advised that a settler had a pre-emption claim on the land. Since that time Vowell has learned that the settler failed to comply with the laws regarding pre-emptions, thus, Vowell reasserts his claim to the land on behalf of the Indians, noting that the interests of the "second party" would not be prejudiced. Although he does not specifically identify the Indians, based upon later correspondence, the Indian group is Pacheena (currently known as Pacheedaht). [See Corr. Nos. 2373/94, 4349/94, this binder; NRCan Schedule (2005), pp. 62, 93]

<sup>854</sup> O'Reilly refers to the CCLW's letter dated June 26, 1894 (not in collection) and securing a portion of land for the Pacheena Indians as a fishing station. O'Reilly requests that if the land is declared to be vacant that the CCLW will not entertain any further applications until the area necessary for the Indians has been set apart for them. [See Corr. Nos. 2028/94, 2373/94, 4349/94, this binder]

<sup>857</sup> This reserve was not confirmed as Sproat described it. Ashdown Green re-allotted the reserve. This reserve is currently held by the Cape Mudge Indians. In the Federal Collection there is an additional notation regarding the Comox Indians. [See Federal Collection, vl. 18, p. 89; 1943 Schedule, p. 48; NRCan Schedule (2005), p. 42]

<sup>859</sup> Also known as Norman Lee's Meadow. There is somewhat of a discrepancy with the acreage for this reserve. Vowell, who allotted the reserve, states that it is 680 acres; the 1943 Schedule indicates that it is 780 acres. The original survey was not until 1910, six years after Vowell's allotment. [See NRCan Schedule (2005), p. 40]

<sup>860</sup> With respect to the discrepancy in the area of the reserve, Vowell states that surveyor Ashdown Green "points out that the spirit of the Minute as far as possible has been fully carried out. // Owing to the configuration of the country, and the rule that all lines are to be run to the cardinal points of the compass, a large quantity of worthless land, nearly 200 acres, has of necessity been included in the reserve. ..."

<sup>861</sup> Sproat writes about the construction of roads through reserves in the Chilliwack area. Sproat wishes to meet with the CCLW to put forward his proposals. He notes that roads "appear to have been made through reserves here since Confederation both by the Government and by private persons without any communication with the Indian Department."

<sup>873</sup> The date on this MOD is cited as: "17 Decm 1879." This would appear to be an error. All the surrounding minutes of decision are dated in October and the correlating MOD in the federal collection is dated "17 Oct 1879". The date from the federal collection has been relied upon. This reserve is currently held by the Comox Indians. [See Binder 8, Corr. No. 2832/86; Federal Collection, vl. 18, pp. 79-83; 1943 Schedule, p. 36]

<sup>883</sup> This reserve was also known as Musqueam 3. At this point, Sproat is reiterating the original decision of the JIRC. It is unknown why Sproat dated this reiteration November 10th, 1876, when the JIRC Minute of decision is dated June 15, 1877. In the federal collection, there is a marginal note by Sam Bray which states: "Apparently an error - Mr. Sproat was not acting as sole commissioner at this date. S.B." This would be correct. The status of this initial allotment is uncertain. The 1943 Schedule cites June 30, 1879 as the allotment date, even though Sproat is reiterating a previous allotment. <sup>884</sup> Currently, this reserve is held by the Seabird Island band. It was originally allotted by Sproat "[f]or all the Indians between Cheam and Spuzzum - namely Popkum, Skawtits, Ohamil, Ska-wah-look, Hope, Union Bar, and Yale Indians." Sproat also notes that the island is believed to be called "Skow-a-kull" by the Indians. As well, Sproat states: "If the Indians have not in 6 years from 13 June 1879 sufficiently used this land in the opinion of the Government of Canada the unused portion is to cease to be Indian Land." [See NRCan Schedule (2005), p. 95]

<sup>886</sup> There is a notation on the sketch which states: "Memo Vide L.O. [i.e. see letter of] May 6th 1884 to Indian Commr." The notation is intitalled, but the initials are difficult to discern. A letter of this date has not been located.

<sup>915</sup> This reserve is currently held by the Shackan Indians. The Indians appear to have also been known as "Potato Ilahie". There is a marginal notation on this minute and others which states: "See Plan No. 8". This would appear to be CLSRBC 210. [See 1943 Schedule, p. 103; NRCan Schedule (2005), p. 64; CLSRBC 210]

<sup>916</sup> Sproat describes two small detached pieces of land of about 5 acres each "between Shawniken and the falls". In the federal collection there is an additional notation written by Sproat which states the one of these pieces of land "has been carried away by a slide" since the time of his "decision". Neither of these pieces of land appear to have been confirmed as a reserve and they do not fall within the current boundaries of Shawniken 3.

<sup>917</sup> There is correspondence indicating that provincial government did not approve this reserve, however, there appears to have been an error in identifying the reserve number. Rather than being "No. 3", the issue lay with Fort Rupert 1. It is within Fort Rupert 1 that the pre-emption of Roderick Finlayson/Robert Hunt was located, not Shell Island 3. [See note on covering letter; Federal Collection, vl. 11, p. 269]

<sup>918</sup> Sproat confirms the "old reserve" subject to the rights of the settlers Boothroyd and Jamieson, "after the claims of the above gentlemen are defined - the extension not to exceed about 100 acres" unless the Indian houses and gardens prove to be on government land and not the settlers, in which case the reserve is to be extended across the wagon road. There is a note at the end of the allotment which states "(See Comm' Field Minute 8 June 1878)". The field minute can be found in the federal collection. [See Federal Collection, vl. 4/3]

<sup>923</sup> This reserve appears to have included the Spuzzum settlement of Shweemp. It was confirmed as a reserve. In the federal collection, there is a marginal note which says: "Cancelled." According to notation in vl. 18 of the federal collection, this reserve was surrendered and other land re-allotted by O'Reilly in 1884. [See Federal Collection, vl. 6, p. 4, vl. 18, p. 345]

<sup>929</sup> Sproat acknowledges receipt of the letter dated July 10, 1879 containing instructions to "lay off Indian reserves in the valley to the north and east of the Similkameen River in Township 52 on account of the number of white settlers already established there to whom the Indians might be a source of annoyance," (see enclosure) however, Sproat advises the CCLW that he has "no intention of laying off any further reserves at that place than those laid off in 1878." (p. 1) Although not specifically identified, it would appear that the reserve Sproat refers to is Similkameen 1. This reserve was subsequently cancelled by O'Reilly and replaced with alternate lands. [See Binder 8, Corr. No. 3138/84; Binder 9, Corr. No. 99/89; Binder 11, Corr. No. 3885/93; Federal Collection, vl. 5/3, p. 64; vl. 11, p. 16; vl. 14, pp. 224-231; 1943 Schedule, p. 111]

<sup>942</sup> As with Skookumchuck 4, based upon correspondence in the federal collection, it appears that upon survey in 1882, the boundaries of this reserve were altered. A copy of the altered boundaries is included with this set of Minutes of decision without explanation or comment at p. 24, although, clearly since the survey was done in 1882, it was not included with O'Reilly's original submission. [See Federal Collection, vl. 7, pp. 116-116b]

<sup>948</sup> The land identified in this allotment is noted as being at "Alexandria Bridge." The description is quite vague, and is oriented to the old Alexandria Bridge. The new Alexandria Bridge is located in a different place. This reserve was originally set aside by E.H. Sandars, Stipendiary Magistrate, in March 1866. Given the description, it would appear that this land is in the vicinity of Skuet 6. This area was ultimately confirmed by O'Reilly, although he misleadingly, he identifies the reserve as the "No. 2" reserve. The sketch indicates that the land from the Alexandria Bridge is included in Skuet 6. [See Federal Collection, vl. 1, pp. 125-27; vl. 4/1, pp. 9, 15-16; vl. 10, pp. 91-97; 1943 Schedule, p. 78]

<sup>949</sup> Although O'Reilly identifies this as the "No. 2" reserve, it is not Papsilqua that he is identifying, but Skuet 6. In this case, "No. 2" means the second reserve with which he is dealing. O'Reilly enlarges Sproat's allotment. The 1943 Schedule erroneously states that this reserve was allotted in May 1877. [See Binder 5, Corr. No. 655/80, pp. 3-15; Federal Collection, vl. 10, pp. 91-96; 1943 Schedule, pp. 92-93]

<sup>962</sup> This section is entitled "Victoria Superintendency, Victoria District, Songish Indians." The JIRC state that the "land reserve of these Indians ... appears to be the private property of the tribe by written agreement made on 30th April 1850, between the Chiefs and people and the agent of the Hudson's Bay Co. acting on behalf of the Crown ..." This is a reference to the Douglas Treaty. It is worth noting that many places which now form part of the city of Victoria were included within the boundaries of the original Songhees 1 allotment, including, it appears, Point Ellice, where Peter O'Reilly had his home. This reserve was ultimately exchanged for New Songhees 1. [See PILQ, pp. 5-11; CLSRBC 224]

<sup>964</sup> The JIRC identify this group generally as Saanich Indians. The Saanich Indians consisted of the Tsawout, Tseycum, Tsartlip and Pauquachin Indians. This reserve was a colonial reserve. It was also known as Brentwood Bay 1, Tsartlip 1 and Chowlul 1 and Chawlip. [See PILQ, p. 104; 1943 Schedule p. 21; NRCan Schedule (2005), pp. 72, 95]

<sup>970</sup> There is a graveyard included within this reserve. Interestingly, in the midst of Minutes of decision dated 1878, the Minute of decision for this reserve and for Pohkeitsk 10 are both dated June 30, 1880.

<sup>994</sup> O'Reilly forwards the plans of the Blackwater reserves for the approval of the CCLW (not included in the collection). The Blackwater Indians amalgamated with the Nazko and are currently known as Nazko. [See Corr. No. 3648/95, this binder; Binder 11, Corr. No. 780/93, pp. 17-20; NRCan Schedule (2005), pp. 60, 81]

<sup>996</sup> Vowell forwards "Plan No. 2" of the reserves of the Canoe Creek Indians for signature and final approval (not included in collection). There is a notation which states: "Approved 9/9/02." [See Binder 12, Corr. No. 3577/95]

<sup>997</sup> It is unclear if this letter is incomplete or not. It is unsigned. Reference is made to the Commission's letter of Feb. 8, 1878. It is presumed that this is the same letter found in the collection, which dealt with lands at Oyster Harbour. The Commission advises that survey of the boundaries of the reserves allotted by the JIRC would commence "in the early part of the year".

<sup>1002</sup> O'Reilly submits the plan of the Fraser Lake Indian reserves for the approval of the CCLW (not included in the collection). The Fraser Lake Indians split into two groups: Stelat'en First Nation (formerly Stellaquo); and, Nadleh Whuten. Reserves 1 to 4 are currently attributed to the Nadleh Whuten. Reserve number 5 is held by Stelat'en First Nation but it is identified as Stellaquo 1. [See Binder 11, Corr. No. 780/93; NRCAN Schedule (2005), pp. 59, 68, 85, 97]

<sup>1006</sup> Sproat refers to his letter of May 20, 1879 in which he enclosed maps and field notes (not included in collection). He inquires whether it is necessary that Mr. Janc, the surveyor temporarily in charge, swear to the field notes as correct. Sproat notes that the field notes were made prior to the passage of the 1879 Land Amendment Act. The marginal notation states: "Replied to verbally Get them sworn to WSG" "WSG would be W.S. Gore, Surveyor General.

<sup>1008</sup> O'Reilly forwards 9 field books and 3 tracings relating to the reserves allotted by him for Lytton and Oregon Jack Creek. He notes that the reserves were allotted by Sproat as well as himself. Neither the field books nor the tracings are included in the provincial collection.

<sup>1009</sup> O'Reilly submits plans of reserves surveyed during the past year [1889] for the "final approval" of the CCLW. The plans cover reserves for a total 9 Bands: Quawshelah, Owekano [sic], Sliammon, Homalco, Nahkwokto, Similkameen, Okanagan, Osoyoos, Penticton. O'Reilly states that when the plans are approved, tracings and duplicate fieldbooks will be forwarded to the Dept. of Lands & Works. The plans are not included in the collection. [See Corr. No. 1610/91, this binder]

<sup>1010</sup> O'Reilly forwards the duplicate fieldbooks (13) and tracings (9) for 9 Bands: Quawshelah, Owekano [sic], Sliammon, Homalco, Nahkwokto, Similkameen, Okanagan, Osoyoos, Penticton. The field books and plans are not included in the collection. O'Reilly also notes that the CCLW has withheld approval for reserves for the "Keremeus" [i.e. Lower Similkameen] and Penticton Indians which were allotted by Sproat. O'Reilly advises that he has forwarded the CCLW's suggestions for alterations of the boundary to the SGIA. [See Corr. No. 1533/90, this binder]

<sup>1011</sup> O'Reilly forwards 9 plans related to his allotments for the Kitimat, Kitkahta and Kitlope Indians for the approval of the CCLW. He notes that the Minutes of decision and rough sketches were previously approved. The enclosure is not included in the collection.

<sup>1014</sup> Vowell forwards the plan of the Kispiox reserve for signature and final approval (not included in collection). He notes that the Minutes of decision were approved by the CCLW February 4, 1892 and September 22, 1898. There is a marginal notation which states: "Approved 5/8/02" [ie. August 5, 1902].

<sup>1016</sup> Vowell forwards the plan of the reserves for signature and final approval (not included in the collection). Vowell notes that the Minutes of decision were approved March 6, 1894 and February 4, 1892. This latter date appears to be incorrect as the date on the correspondence is February 3, 1892. There is a marginal notation which states: "Approved 9/9/02." [See Binder 11, Corr. No. 380/92]

<sup>1017</sup> This group's name is currently spelled Kitsumkalum. Vowell forwards the plan of the reserves for signature and final approval (not included in the collection). Vowell notes that the Minutes of decision were approved February 4, 1892, but, the date on the correspondence is February 3, 1892 [See Binder 11, Corr. No. 380/92; NRCan Schedule (2005), pp. 51, 88]

<sup>1019</sup> Vowell forwards three plans: Kitseguecla, Kitwanga, and Kitlathla, for signature and final approval of the CCLW (not included in the collection). All the allotments were made by O'Reilly prior to his retirement. [See Corr. No. 3026/02, this binder; Binder 11, Corr. No. 319/92, pp. 8-10; Binder 12, Corr. Nos. 629/94; 691/94]

<sup>1021</sup> O'Reilly states that he is forwarding for signature, five (5) original plans and tracings for the reserves allotted in the Indians in the Kootenay district, all of which were approved by the "late" [i.e. former] CCLW on Sept. 2, 1885. There is no enclosure with this letter. It is unclear which specific plans and tracings were sent. [See Corr. No. 1375/87, this binder]

<sup>1023</sup> O'Reilly forwards the surveyed plans for four the Little Shuswap Lake reserves as defined by the JIRC in 1877. He briefly discusses the delay in obtaining approval for the reserves. The enclosure is not included with the letter. There is a marginal reference to Corr. No. 1255/83. This letter is not in the provincial collection. There is no correspondence for 1883 in the provincial collection. [See Binder 2, Corr. No. 1081/78, pp. 22-24]

<sup>1026</sup> O'Reilly forwards to the CCLW 16 duplicate fieldbooks and 2 plans of the allotments for the Port Simpson and Metlakatla Indians. Interestingly, he refers to a letter of January 26, 1892 which is not included in the collection, however, O'Reilly indicates that the correspondence number is 226/92 - that correspondence number appeared on O'Reilly's letter requesting approval. [See Corr. No. 226/92, this binder]

<sup>1027</sup> Vowell forwards the plan of the Nazko reserve for final approval and signature. It is noteworthy that more than 5 years have passed since the original allotment and nearly 5 since the approval by the CCLW. Although there is a correspondence number of 24157/09 on the letter, the material has been included within 7219/04.

<sup>1030</sup> O'Reilly refers to a letter from the Surveyor General dated April 28, 1894 (not in provincial collection). O'Reilly advises that, per Kains' request, the surveyor has been instructed to conform to the section and township lines defined by the provincial government surveys when surveying Indian reserves in the "Nehaco Valley." No Indian group is identified, however, the Stony Creek and Fort George (currently known as Lheidli T'enneh Nation) are two groups in the area.

<sup>1031</sup> Vowell forwards six plans for reserves approval of the CCLW (not in collection). The First Nations identified are: Necoslie (currently Nak'azdli), Tache and Trembleur Lake (both currently part of Tl'at'en Nations). All the reserves were allotted by O'Reilly. Vowell states the reserves were approved April 15, 1893, however, the date of approval on the covering letter states April 14, 1893. [See Corr. No. 272/99, this binder; Binder 11, Corr. No. 902/93; NRCan Schedule (2005), pp. 91, 99]

<sup>1033</sup> The Surveyor General forwards the plan of the Nemaiah Valley reserves. The letter is somewhat puzzling as the SG makes certain statements which do not seem to coincide with the facts. For example, he states, "[y]ou will please note that these minutes of decision have not been approved as they are not signed by the Chief Commissioner ..." This is a curious statement, as the version included in the collection was approved in October 1899. The SG also notes the difference in area for Tanakut 4. He states the difference is accounted for in the Lake frontage. The same reason is provided for the lower acreage of Chilco Lake 1. He finally states that the "No. 3" reserve is "not yet surveyed." As the plan for the Nemaiah Valley depicts all four reserves, it is unclear what plan the SG was forwarding.

<sup>1035</sup> O'Reilly submits three original plans and tracings and a tabular statement indicating when and by whom reserves for Oregon Jack Creek and Lytton were defined and approved or not. The table is included with the correspondence, but copies of the plans are not. O'Reilly advises the CCLW that the surveys of reserves for the Oregon Jack Creek and Lytton Indians have been completed. O'Reilly notes that, "for the most part" the reserves had been set aside by Sproat, but the work was completed by him in 1881 (approximately six years earlier). O'Reilly also notes that the reserves set aside by Sproat had not previously been submitted for approval, however, those defined by him, had been approved by Walkem on May 23, 1882. With respect to the additional reserves set aside by O'Reilly (Upper Nepa 6, South Nepa 7 and Papyum 27), O'Reilly notes that he was advised by the CCLW on August 18, 1886 "that the lands being situated in the Railway belt, did not come within his jurisdiction. Subsequently he informed me verbally that he had more fully considered the matter, and that he was prepared to approve of them ..." This, however, did not occur due to business of the legislative assembly and the ill health of the CCLW. O'Reilly concludes by noting that, "[a]ll these lands are in the occupation of the Indians, and have been more or less improved by them. I trust therefore that you will be able to assent to their being officially declared Indian Reserves."

<sup>1038</sup> O'Reilly forwards for original plans of reserves for the Penticton Indians for the approval of the CCLW. O'Reilly notes that the plan has been amended as the CCLW suggested. Although O'Reilly cites the letter dated April 28, 1891, the correspondence number he provides is for another letter related to the CCLW's approval. The correspondence number for the April 28 letter is 1610/91. [See Binder 10, Corr. Nos. 1533/90, 1610/91]

<sup>1041</sup> O'Reilly forwards "Plans Nos. 2 and 4 of reserves for the Similkameen Indians" for final approval (not included in the collection). The Similkameen Indians are currently known as Lower Similkameen. Reference is made to a letter from the CCLW dated April 28, 1891 (not in collection) in which the CCLW had made a "suggestion" to amend a boundary. O'Reilly states that it was amended. [See Corr. No. 2129/95, this binder; Binder 11, Corr. No. 3885/93; NRCan Schedule (2005), p. 96]

<sup>1043</sup> O'Reilly encloses the plan of the Stony Creek reserves (not included in the collection). He notes that it has been surveyed in accordance with the Section and township lines as defined by the provincial government in accordance with the request of the CCLW in a letter dated April 28, 1894 (not included in collection). The Stony Creek Indians are currently known as Saik'uz First Nation. [See Corr. No. 4726/95, this binder; NRCan Schedule (2005), p. 98]

<sup>1047</sup> Vowell forwards "Plan No. 1" of the Upper Similkameen reserves for "final approval and signature." He notes that the Minutes of decision for reserve nos. 3, 4, and 7 were approved on November 21, 1893. Vowell goes on to state that reserve number 6 (One Mile 6) was allotted by Sproat on October 5, 1878 and the No. 1 reserve (Vermillion Forks) was an "old reserve made prior to 1871, and confirmed by Mr. Sproat on October 5, 1878." [See Binder 5, Corr. No. 655/80, pp. 105-116a; Binder 11, Corr. No. 3885/93; Federal Collection, vl. 6, pp. 115-129]

<sup>1050</sup> O'Reilly submits field books and tracings for the Adams Lake, Coldwater, Hope and Salmon Arm (a.k.a. Neskonlith) Indians. He notes the lands were defined by the Joint Reserve Commission and Sproat and "were finally approved" on the 7th and 8th "instant", i.e. 7th and 8th of May. O'Reilly does not, however, identify which were approved on what date, thus, in this case, both dates are given as dates of approval. [See Corr No. 176/89, this binder; Binder 8, Corr. No. 1332/87]

<sup>1060</sup> This reserve was once part of a larger area which was allotted by the JIRC as a reserve to be used in common by the "South Thompson or Niskahnith Indians, Adams Lake Indians and Little Shuswap Lake Indians". The current reserves have been substantially altered since the original allotment. The description of this land is oriented incorrectly; the cardinal points are reversed. This makes the reserve description very problematic, however, given other geographic locators, a survey done by Edward Mohun in 1877, and a survey done by E.M. Skinner in 1885 there is no doubt that Switsemalph 3 is part the larger area in question. Skinner described the common reserve as "No. 1." This area now comprises Switsemalph 3, Switsemalph 6 and Switsemalph 7; the first reserve is held by Neskonalith, the latter two by Adams Lake. The 1943 Schedule incorrectly cites August 13, 1877 as the date of allotment. The description of the area is clearly dated August 16, 1877 on the original. [See Federal Collection, vl. 1, pp. 96, 98, 99; vl. 3, pp. 198-200, 202-204; vl. 16/1, pp. 11-12; CLSRBC 221; CLSRBC 7025; CLSRBC 192; CLSRBC 7; 1943 Schedule, pp. 26, 27, 30]

<sup>1068</sup> Identified as Meadow reserve. There is a handwritten note at the end of the minutes of decision which states: "Note The consideration if this matter has been laid over for cause. W.S.G. [W.S. Gore, CCLW] 16/2/05" It is unclear what this statement means. It is noteworthy that the comment is written approximately four and a half years after Vowell's allotments.

<sup>1075</sup> Telaise 1 and Twosenachs 2 were cut-off in 1914 by McKenna-McBride. The two reserves were re-instated in 1991 (PC 1991-928). Both reserves are currently held by the Quatsino Indians. [See ILRS #207072]

<sup>1076</sup> Moffatt makes reference to his letter of August 12 and the CCLW's reply of August 24 regarding an application to purchase Tent Island. Neither letter is in the provincial collection. Moffatt corrects the name of the purchaser through reference to the B.C. Gazette of August 1.

<sup>1077</sup> The Indians are identified on the Minute of decision as: "Similkameen Indians, Keremeus". This reserve was originally known as Terbasket 3. In 1959, the lands comprised in Similkameen 2, Terbasket 3 and Joe Nahumpcheen 5 were amalgamated to form one reserve currently known as Lower Similkameen 2 [See 1943 Schedule, pp. 111-112; NRCan Schedule (2005), p. 55]

<sup>1081</sup> This is the original allotment by O'Reilly. It would appear that this reserve was not confirmed as originally allotted. The 1943 Schedule cites a September 18, 1893 allotment, however, this could not be located. The 1943 citation could be an error. It would appear that the original allotment was not surveyed in 1900 by Skinner. The current reserve, Gitsegucla Logging 3 is located just south of Gitsegucla 1. The first survey of the current Gitsegucla Logging 3 was done in 1927 by Schelderup. [See vl. 20, pp. 115a-116; 1943 Schedule, p. 6; CLSRBC 125; CLSRBC 589]

<sup>1086</sup> Sproat states that this is allotted to both Sliammon and Klahoose, it is currently held solely by Klahoose. Sproat identifies two separate areas, but both appear to be part of Tork 7. This reserve was re-allotted by O'Reilly. [See Federal Collection, vl. 11, pp. 102-03, 105; 1943 Schedule, p. 161; CLSRTBC 179]

<sup>1093</sup> Sproat confirms the "original" reserve; that is the colonial reserve. There was, however, some discussion previously as to the existence of this reserve. [See PILQ, pp. 135, 136, 138-39]

<sup>1099</sup> There is an additional notation at the beginning of the Minute which states: "Metlahkatla [sic] Reserve as per Gazette is a Government Reserve of about 32,000 acres 5 miles on either side of Mission Point and 5 miles back from the Coast line see B.C. Gazette see B.C. Gazette 8 Oct 64. Another reserve of 3 miles radius around Mission Point in B.C. Gazette Aug 22, 1863, covering a portion of the same ground." Although there is no notation here, this allotment was cancelled and re-allotted. [See Binder 8, Corr. No. 395/84]

<sup>1105</sup> A dispute arises between the Hagwilget and Hazelton Indians in the late 1890s regarding the fishing at this reserve. Ultimately, Indian Agent R.E. Loring settles the dispute by splitting the reserve between the Gitanmaax [Hazelton] and Hagwilget Indians. The Gitanmaax portion remains identified as Tsitsk 3. The Hagwilget portion was first identified as Tsitsk 3A but is currently known as Hagwilget 1. <sup>1111</sup> The description provided by O'Reilly for this reserve does not conform with the current reserve boundaries. The reserve is described as allotted by O'Reilly in the 1913 Schedule, but, at some point between 1913 and 1927, when the first official survey was conducted, the reserve was moved. <sup>1124</sup> This allotment was not confirmed as a reserve. The description for this allotment is confused by the fact that the island Sproat refers to is actually two islands currently known by other names. Sproat identifies "Valdez Island" as the location for this reserve. Based upon the description provided, the area Sproat is referring to is currently known as Maurelle Island. "Valdez Island", as identified by Sproat, is currently known as Quadra Island.

<sup>1146</sup> Identified on Minute of decision as "Yakh' kay-wa-lick". Although this reserve was cut-off by the McKenna-McBride Commission in November 1913, the cut-off was rejected by Ditchburn and Clark and the reserve was confirmed as allotted by O'Reilly.

<sup>1147</sup> The JIRC allots "the Rocky Islets in Beecher Bay." This vague description would appear to encompass reserve nos. 4 through 9, which are islets, or small islands, in Beecher Bay, but not all the islets or islands in Beecher Bay. Wolf Island 4 was cut-off by the McKenna-McBride Commission in 1915. The cut-off claim was settled in October 1984. [See 1943 Schedule, p. 16; NRCan Schedule (2005), p. 40; CLSRBC 236]

Minutes of Decision, Correspondence & Sketches

Sorted by Band/Tribe Name

This index has been compiled from the comprehensive index. It is sorted by the Band/Tribe name, then the reserve name, date and correspondence number.

In many cases there may be more than one sketch of a reserve. This could be as a result of corrections, amendments or that portions of a reserve are shown on more than one sketch.

Sproat and O'Reilly visited many of the same groups, but each identified them slightly differently. As far as possible, the names of reserves and Band/tribes have been correlated.

Some sketches are quite large and are related to a particular group. In these cases, all the reserves may not have been separately identified. These sketches are generally identified under the reserve name as "Various". The reserves included on the sketch are usually identified in the footnote.

† indicates that the sketch is missing, but it has been determined that this is where it would be located.

<sup>45</sup> Given that Green was the surveyor to the IRC as well as the person setting aside the land, it is presumed that he did the sketch. Regrettably, he entitled the sketch "Laich-kwil-tach (Eu-cla-taw) Indians We-way-a-kay Band" thereby failing to distinguish that Campbell River 11 was held by the We-way-a-kum [ie. Campbell River Indians], while Quinsam 12 was held by the We-way-a-kai [ie. Cape Mudge Indians].

<sup>57</sup> There is a notation on the sketch which states: "Memo Vide L.O. [i.e. see letter of] May 6th 1884 to Indian Commr." The notation is intitalled, but the initials are difficult to discern. A letter of this date has not been located.

<sup>62</sup> In the provincial collection it appears that the original map has been torn in two. It is now identified as Maps 10 and 11. The date stamp on Map 10 has been partially obliterated, but it would be a date received stamp. Given the date of the covering letter is June 27, the date received stamp is most likely July 9, 1877. The upper portion of the the right hand side (Map 11) has been torn. The signatures have been completely or partially obliterated. In addition, the inset portion of the sketch which shows Inlailawatash 4, has been torn off. It can be seen on the federal sketch, which is in one piece. [See Federal Collection, vl. 3, p. 149a]

<sup>73</sup> The sketch included in the collection is a photocopy. Based upon O'Reilly's letter, the original sketch was in colour. The land for the school site is on the western section of the island. In order to acquire the land for the school, the lessee, Mr. Spencer, would have to relinquish the land. O'Reilly recommends that Spencer be given notice, so that Indian Affairs "may, without delay, proceed to the erection of the contemplated buildings." An additional notation on the sketch states: "Now known as L. 1957 Rupert 412 Acres" The pre-emption and previously allotted reserves are also depicted on the sketch. [See Binder 10, Corr. No. 889/91]

<sup>74</sup> There are two sketches included here. The first is a black and white photocopy. It has the initials "F.G.V.", i.e. Forbes George Vernon, CCLW, and the notation: "now known as Lot 1957 Rupert 412 Ac". Although it is a black and white photocopy, the previously allotted reserves (Alert Bay 1 and Nimkish 2) can be seen. The second sketch is a photograph of a colour sketch. It is different from the other sketch (no comments). The provenance of the photo is unknown. The previously allotted reserves (Alert Bay 1 and Nimkish 2) are depicted in red/pink on the photograph and the sketch. [See Binder 9, Corr. No. 2755/89]

Green [Ashdown Green, surveyor to the IRC] when the Nitinat survey of Saouk[?] was up for discussion." The note is dated "24/11/93" and initialled, however, the initials are unknown. This remark would also appear to apply to the sketch found at p. 13. These two sketches (pp. 13, 14) are the same as those found in the federal collection.

<sup>105</sup> Only a portion of this reserve is depicted on the sketch in red/pink west of T. Cole's property. This reserve was set aside by Sproat in October 1878, but was cancelled by O'Reilly in 1893. [See Federal Collection, vl. 11, pp. 224-231]

<sup>111</sup> As with Skookumchuck 4, based upon correspondence in the federal collection, it appears that upon survey in 1882, the boundaries of this reserve were altered. A copy of the altered boundaries is included with this set of Minutes of decision without explanation or comment at p. 24, although, clearly since the survey was done in 1882, it was not included with O'Reilly's original submission. [See Federal Collection, vl. 7, pp. 116-116b]

<sup>112</sup> The sketch on p. 23 indicates the location of the colonial reserve in pink/red. Based upon correspondence in the federal collection, it appears that upon survey in 1882, the boundaries of this reserve were altered. The surveyor, W.S. Jemmett, reported the alteration. A copy of the altered boundaries is included with this set of Minutes of decision without explanation or comment at p. 24, although, clearly since the survey was done in 1882, it was not included with O'Reilly's original submission. [See Federal Collection, vl. 7, pp. 116-116b]

Minutes of Decision, Correspondence & Sketches

Sorted by the Reserve Name

This index has been compiled from the comprehensive index. It is sorted by the reserve name, then the Band/Tribe name, date and correspondence number.

In many cases there may be more than one sketch of a reserve. This could be as a result of corrections, amendments or that portions of a reserve are shown on more than one sketch.

Sproat and O'Reilly visited many of the same groups, but each identified them slightly differently. As far as possible, the names of reserves and Band/tribes have been correlated.

There are sketches within the collection which show many reserves for one or more Bands/First Nations. In these cases, the term "Various" has been used in the reserve name column. Additional information related to the reserve identified can be found in the footnote.

<sup>14</sup> The sketch included in the collection is a photocopy. Based upon O'Reilly's letter, the original sketch was in colour. The land for the school site is on the western section of the island. In order to acquire the land for the school, the lessee, Mr. Spencer, would have to relinquish the land. O'Reilly recommends that Spencer be given notice, so that Indian Affairs "may, without delay, proceed to the erection of the contemplated buildings." An additional notation on the sketch states: "Now known as L. 1957 Rupert 412 Acres" The pre-emption and previously allotted reserves are also depicted on the sketch. [See Binder 10, Corr. No. 889/91]

<sup>24</sup> Given that Green was the surveyor to the IRC as well as the person setting aside the land, it is presumed that he did the sketch. Regrettably, he entitled the sketch "Laich-kwil-tach (Eu-cla-taw) Indians We-way-a-kay Band" thereby failing to distinguish that Campbell River 11 was held by the We-way-a-kum [ie. Campbell River Indians], while Quinsam 12 was held by the We-way-a-kai [ie. Cape Mudge Indians].

<sup>39</sup> A second sketch of this reserve is included with this set of Minutes of decision. This sketch depicts the reserve in red/pink indicating that the sketch was done at a later date. The provenance of this second sketch is unknown, however, it resembles the reserve as surveyed by Ashdown Green in 1883. [See CLSRBC 33]

No correspondence has been located indicating the provenance of the second sketch, however, it does appear to resemble the reserve as surveyed by Ashdown Green in 1883. [See CLSRBC 35]

<sup>76</sup> In the provincial collection it appears that the original map has been torn in two. It is now identified as Maps 10 and 11. The date stamp on Map 10 has been partially obliterated, but it would be a date received stamp. Given the date of the covering letter is June 27, the date received stamp is most likely July 9, 1877. The upper portion of the the right hand side (Map 11) has been torn. The signatures have been completely or partially obliterated. In addition, the inset portion of the sketch which shows Inlailawatash 4, has been torn off. It can be seen on the federal sketch, which is in one piece. [See Federal Collection, vl. 3, p. 149a]

<sup>94</sup> The sketch for the Quesnel reserves is a black and white photocopy which has been copied in pieces. The scale cannot be relied upon. The original had a notation which stated: "Approved Geo. A. Walkem, Chief Comr of L & W, Victoria, May 8, 1882." There are no sketches indicating the location of the graves. Photos of the sketches have also been included. The provenance of the photos is unknown. They are not the same as the sketches.

<sup>109</sup> As with Skookumchuck 4, based upon correspondence in the federal collection, it appears that upon survey in 1882, the boundaries of this reserve were altered. A copy of the altered boundaries is included with this set of Minutes of decision without explanation or comment at p. 24, although, clearly since the survey was done in 1882, it was not included with O'Reilly's original submission. [See Federal Collection, vl. 7, pp. 116-116b]
